BAR PARLEY ON ETHICS IN GRAND BANK LOOT RETURN

Heads of Local Legal Bodies to Meet Oct. 1 and Discuss Points Like Those Raised by Conduct of Attorney J. L. Lemon.

STATE ASSOCIATION TO RECEIVE REPORT

President, in Announcing Conference, Says Orderly and Business-Like Plan for Handling Proper Complaints Is Sought.

Presidents and chairmen of grievance committees of city, county and circuit bar associations of Missouri have been summoned to meet Oct. 1 at Hotel Statler to consider problems of legal ethics and procedure, in disbarment actions against lawyers. The problems to be discussed include those which arose in the St. Louis Bar Association's investigation of the part taken by Attorney Joseph L. Lemon, and possibly by others, in the return of $82,000 stolen bonds to the Grand National Bank.

No reference to the Grand Bank case, or to Lemon by name, is made in the announcement of the meeting, which will be called by J. W. Jansson, president of the Missouri Bar Association, at the request of several local organization heads. The announcement set forth that it was desired to find "some orderly and business-like plan for handling of proper complaints against attorneys and their methods."

Report to State Bar.

The St. Louis Bar Association's grievance committee is expected to report soon on its inquiry into Lemon's case.

Conclusions reached at the meeting Oct. 1 will be reported to the Missouri Bar Association, for action at its meeting here Oct. 2 and 3. The committee is expected to recommend a procedure, subject to consideration at the preliminary meeting, are:

Statutory reasons for which attorneys or counselors at law may be removed or suspended from practice in the courts of this State, and the procedural sections pertaining to the filing of charges, service of citations, the trial, the right of appeal, the final order of removal or suspension, and the procedure for reinstatement, are to be revised.

Have the courts of record inherent power to remove or suspend attorneys from practice in the courts, based upon unworthy conduct entirely aside from the status?

Has the Supreme Court of Missouri inherent power to disbar attorneys from practice in the courts of this State for the status reasons and for unworthy conduct entirely aside from the status?

Can a lawyer be disbarred for bad character as a citizen?

A decision of the case of "In re Ramey," court of Appeals of New York, decided Feb. 18, 1929 (22 N. E. Rep. 1106), where the court said: "Where accused, in disbarment proceedings, refuses to testify in his own behalf, a legal presumption arises of the truth of the charges made out of the evidence," with respect to the applicability of this rule in Missouri.

The lawyer's duty to his client.

Should a recommendation be made that the executive committee of the Missouri Bar Association be vested with authority to solicit and receive donations of money, to be disbursed under the supervision of that committee in employing counsel to institute and prosecute proper disbarment proceedings in the Supreme Court, and in co-operation with the officers of the judicial circuit, county or city bar associations, in the Circuit courts?

Back of the Study.

The reference to a hypothetical case in which a lawyer refuses to testify in disbarment proceedings against himself, is considered as arising from the action of Attorney Lemon, who refused to testify before the grand jury as to the return of the stolen bonds, for which Lemon was paid through him. Lemon also refused to make a statement to the St. Louis Bar Association, when it investigated the case from the standpoint of legal ethics. Lemon is not a member of the Bar Association, but this does

CAPONE, 68 OTHERS, INDICTED BY U. S. FOR HUGE BEER PLOT

'Scarface' Al and Gangsters Accused of 5000 Dry Law Violations—Evidence Bared on Income Tax Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The drive of Federal agents to break up the notorious Capone gang was intensified today by an indictment naming "Scarface" Al Capone, leader of the gang, and 68 others for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act. It was the second indictment of the same Federal grand jury having recently indicted him for defrauding the Government in failing to make a tax return on income in excess of $1,000,000, derived since 1924 from unlawful sources. Capone is at liberty under $50,000 bond in the tax case.

The maximum prison penalties now faced by the gang leader are five years for the tax fraud and two years on the conspiracy charge, unless he enters a plea of guilty, in which event a modification of the sentences probably would be imposed.

The indictment returned today grew out of an investigation instituted by the United States Intelligence Unit, investigating body in the Department of Internal Revenue. Agents of this unit, in making the tax fraud case against Capone and his gang, uncovered the gang's operations in the manufacture and sale of beer in Chicago. Prohibition agents seized upon these disclosures to prosecute the gang for violation of the prohibition laws.

Violations of the law in the sale of beer in the Chicago area since 1921 are charged in the indictment which sets forth at least 5000 violations and 19 overt acts. It charged the gang operated one brewery from which the beer was distributed, and that Capone himself purchased the trucks which delivered the beer.

The conspiracy is established, according to the indictment, by proof the Government hopes to show of a conference in Capone's suite at the Lexington Hotel, attended by Capone, Joe Fusco, George Hollist, Bert Delaney and Jack Heenan, at which they discussed the manufacture and distribution of the beer.

Some of the notorious Chicago gangsters named in the indictment besides Fusco, Hollist, Delaney and Heenan are, Nick and Frank Jussara, Mike Potson, Steve Swoboda and Eddie Costello.

CAB DRIVER LINKS MAN WITH WOMAN FOUND DROWNED

Tells Police of Taking Starr Faithfull From Steamship Pier to Her Home in New York.

PHYSICIAN TESTIFIES BEFORE GRAND JURY

Diary of Dead Beauty Gives Clues to Acquaintances—15 or 20 to Be Called in Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 12.—A grand jury at Mineola today began to investigate the drowning of Miss Starr Faithfull while New York police were questioning a new witness in the case.

Emanuel Kussey, taxicab chauffeur walked into a police station and said that May 29 he drove the young woman from a steamship pier to her Greenwich Village home. She was intoxicated and hysterical, he said.

It was while Miss Faithfull was at a party on the liner Franconia May 29 that police believe she was introduced to a man who saw her frequently thereafter. On that occasion, she stayed aboard after the vessel sailed and was taken off on a tug in midstream.

The first witness to go before the grand jury at Mineola was Dr. Otto Schultz, medical examiner. The physician found that the girl died of drowning.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards has expressed the conviction she was slain by being held under water.

No indictments were contemplated. The grand jury action was intended solely to co-ordinate the known facts, which are coming out of the inquiry.

District Attorney Edwards seeks particularly to learn what happened to the young woman's underclothing. When her body was found on the Long Beach shore Monday, it was clad only in a dress. The beach had been searched for the clothing which was found on the shore, but no results.

Richard Findley, an elevator starter in the Channin Building in New York, told of a young woman, intoxicated, who entered the Channin lobby Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and whose actions resulted in the summoning of a policeman.

Both Findley and the officer have identified the body of Starr Faithfull as that of the young woman. The officer was positive she was a different dress than that in which the body was clad.

Driven Several Miles.

The woman was placed in a taxicab driven to a section of Queens, several miles from the building. Arriving there, she was uncertain to what house she wanted to go, and the driver finally turned her over to a drug store proprietor and drove away. She paid her bill, which was considerably more than the $3 Starr Faithfull had when she left home that morning.

Dr. Otto Schultz said if the woman at the Channin Building was intoxicated, as witnesses said, she was not Starr Faithfull, as there were no traces of alcohol in the body.

A graphologist was subpoenaed to study the handwriting in her diary, which was found in the body of the girl, was in the grand jury room for more than an hour.

P. Peabody Hamlin of Boston, a cruise director of the Cunard line who saw the girl on the Franconia, awaited her turn to enter the grand jury room. Hamlin came here from Boston to relate how he became acquainted with Miss Faithfull aboard the Franconia.

Among the 15 or 20 witnesses expected to be called were the girl's father, Frank Wymann of Boston; her mother and her sister, Tucker. A diary in which the girl told of experiencing "every sensation life holds" was to be produced.

Because of new clues Edwards yesterday caused cremation of the body to be postponed.

30-Page Diary Found.

Miss Faithfull's 30-page diary found by a detective at her home, contains the following:

"I have experienced every sensation life holds and if—does not meet me soon, I have nothing to live for."

Most of the contents of the diary were withheld. Detectives said they were references to the possibility of suicide.

"The diary contains many initials, apparently of men," Edwards added. "The family has not helped me in indicating who is meant."

Besides initials, incidents described.

BRUNK CLEARED BY SENATE AT IMPEACHMENT TRIAL FOR MISCONDUCT IN OFFICE

Traffic Trap on New Viaduct

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Bruce Ramsey, an assistant vice president of the First National Bank in St. Louis for solicitation of new accounts, is in a critical condition in the Illinois Central Hospital here as the result of a three-story fall from his room in the Congress Hotel here, early yesterday, when he accidentally walked out of a low window.

So far, no diagnosis has been made of his injuries, physicians believing that the movement attendant upon a diagnosis might complicate his condition.

Ramsey, according to his wife, who flew to Chicago yesterday when notified of the accident, confessed a window in his bedroom for the bathroom door, when he arose, half asleep, at 3:30 a. m. His room was on the fifth floor and he struck a roof three floors below.

Mrs. Ramsey said her husband, unconscious when found by hotel employees, regained consciousness for a time yesterday, but was unable to tell what had happened.

He is well known at the hotel, having stayed there for periods of several days frequently during recent years. He was on bank business with an associate who departed for St. Louis Wednesday night.

Ramsey is 50 years old and lives at 5366 Cabanne avenue. He has been employed by the bank 22 years, formerly having been with the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

Permission Granted to State Officials, on Request of Government and Heirs.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Inspection of Federal income tax returns by State officials is permitted under a modified Treasury regulation.

The new rule also permits heirs to inspect the return on the individual under whose will they are beneficiaries. The heir is required to show that he has a material interest in information contained in the return.

Right to refuse to any individual the privilege of inspecting the return is vested in the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The purpose in the first change is to permit state officials to compare Federal income tax returns and state returns and thereby compel taxpayers to make their returns fully.

While the regulations go into effect immediately, the Treasury said that the action did not loosen in any way the stringent rules of secrecy surrounding all returns. It is a felony to divulge any information contained in a Federal tax return, this provision being applicable to Treasury officials, employees and those permitted to inspect them. In the case of the state, an application must be made in writing to the Governor.

BRITISH LIQUOR SHIP SUNK IN CRASH WITH DESTROYER

Crew of Ten Rescued by U. S. Coast Guard Patrol Boat.

By the Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 12.—The British vessel Shuben Acadia, believed by Coast Guard officials to have had a valuable cargo of liquor aboard, sunk to day 50 miles south of Montauk Point, after a collision with the Coast Guard destroyer Davis.

The vessel's crew of 10 were rescued. The service craft, which was slightly damaged, was trailing the British vessel when the collision occurred. The Shuben Acadia, formerly the Lucky Strike, arrived on run recently. While a complete report of the accident had not been received here by customs and immigration officers, Coast Guard officials expressed the opinion the British vessel rammed the service craft while attempting to maneuver to escape surveillance.

Members of the Shuben Acadia's crew were taken off the vessel by the patrol boat Marion.

1000 BARRELS OF BEER TAKEN

Raiders Also Arrest Six Men in New York Brewery.

By the Associated Press.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., June 12.—Federal prohibition enforcement agents today seized 1000 barrels of beer in the old Deer Park Brewery here and arrested six men.

The agents said the brewery, which operated for 30 years before the advent of prohibition, had applied for a permit to manufacture cereal beverages, but that the permit had not been issued. The brewery they said was in full operation when they arrived, and that all six men were working.

Prosecution in Closing Argument Declared Testimony Showed Treasurer Conspired With Bankers to Defraud State.

DEFENSE ASSAILED ADAMS' VERACITY

Asserted "This Wretched Soul Was Promised Freedom for Perjury, but Threatened With Penitentiary for Truth."

BY CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 12.—Larry Brunk, suspended State Treasurer, was found not guilty of the charges against him by vote of the Senate Court of Impeachment this evening. The hearing lasted more than three weeks.

On article one the vote was: guilty 16, not guilty 18. Verdict, not guilty.

Article two, guilty 11, not guilty 23. Verdict, not guilty.

Third article, guilty 1, not guilty 33. Verdict, not guilty.

Article four: guilty 15, not guilty 19. Verdict, not guilty.

Article five: guilty 18, not guilty 16. Verdict, not guilty.

Article six: guilty 19, not guilty 15. Verdict, not guilty.

The Senate adopted a resolution introduced by Senator Wammack of Bloomfield for a suspension of a rule directing that the Senate should go into executive session to discuss the case, and that instead the vote should be taken without discussion.

Clay's argument was the only one this afternoon, Brunk's attorney, John G. Madden, having argued the entire morning with the argument for the defense.

Closing Argument.

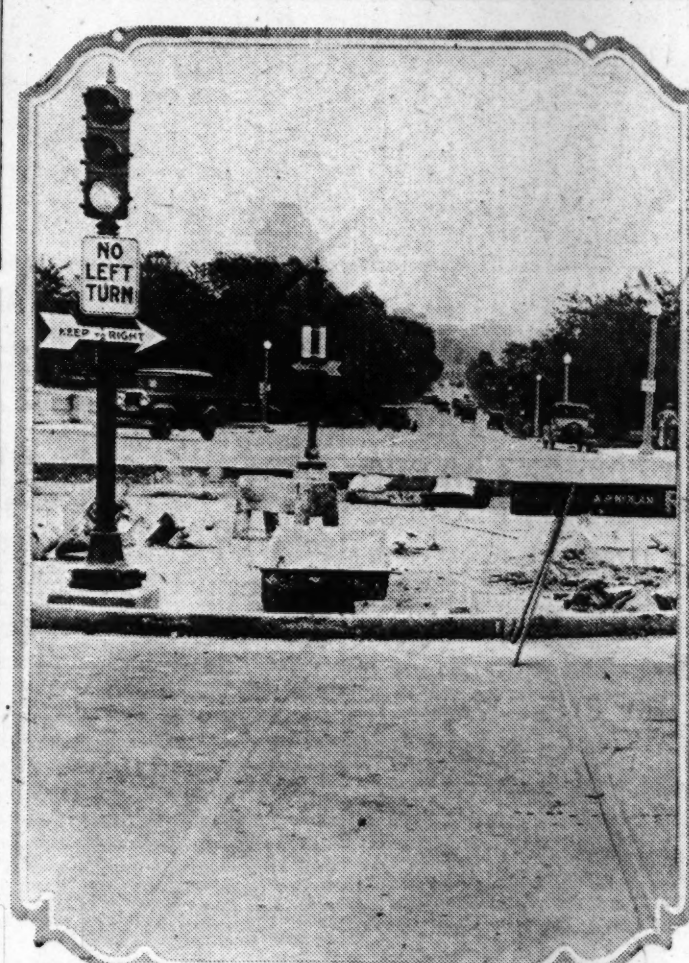

Clay defended the action of the House managers, which had been criticized by Madden, for entering into an agreement with E. R. Adams, president of the Bank of Aurora, by which it was agreed that an effort would be made to obtain two continuances in criminal cases against Adams in Lawrence County, to be testified for the prosecution. Clay denied that Adams was asked or expected to testify to anything except the facts of his dealings with Brunk.

He then cited numerous impeachment trials in support of his contention that it was not necessary to sustain a conviction in an impeachment trial that the accused official should be shown to have a criminal intent. Madden had argued at great length that criminal intent must be shown to justify a verdict of guilty.

Clay placed considerable emphasis on the fact that the defense had not summoned as witnesses Adams, president, or Easley, cashier, of the Bank of Aurora; William H. Norwine, the Pierre Chouteau bond salesman, or D. W. Tudor, chief clerk in Brunk's office. Adams was placed on the stand by the prosecution and Tudor was called by the Senate after both the prosecution and the defense had failed to call him. Clay said all of these men were shown by the evidence, to have been Brunk's close friends and associates and that all were shown to have intimate knowledge of the circumstances out of which the impeachment charges grew. The failure of the defense to call them, he said, should be taken as conclusive evidence that Brunk was afraid of the testimony they would give.

Madden, a polished orator of the type of Senator Reed, held up his client to the Senators as the victim of a conspiracy and of relentless investigation for eight months, in which, he said, "evidence was

VIADUCT TRAFFIC TRAP CATCHES EIGHT AUTOS

While city officials congratulated themselves last night that the new Lindell-Union viaduct was open and in use at last, eight automobiles within four hours ran over the curbing into the unfinished center circle that had been reserved as the site for a fountain.

One motorist was slightly injured, traffic was snarled as badly as it ever had been in the old days of the Lindell-Union grade crossing, and finally, early today, wooden barricades and red lanterns were strung about the fountain site.

N. B. C. INJUNCTION TO PREVENT RADIO HEARINGS DENIED

Judge Stipulates He Might Grant Writ Later if "Irreparable Injury" Can Be Shown.

COMMISSION WEIGHS REVOKING LICENSES

Action Follows Court Decision Holding Tube Contracts Violation of Anti-Trust Laws.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—An application by the National Broadcasting Co. for an injunction to restrain the Radio Commission from holding hearings as a possible step toward revocation of licenses was denied today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Justice Bailey said, however, that he would retain the case if it appeared that the commission proceedings were threatening the National Broadcasting Co., and other subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation of America, with "irreparable injury," he might grant the preliminary injunction asked for.

Justice Bailey said he felt that the court should not interfere with hearings on licenses of Radio Corporation of America subsidiaries, set for June 15, unless it became absolutely necessary.

He added that the corporation's subsidiaries could appeal if the decision were adverse, but explained he would intervene in the future if he felt the situation demanded it.

The case had its origin in a Delaware Federal Court decision which held that the Radio Corporation had violated the anti-trust laws in a radio tube contract it made with dealers.

In section 13 of the radio act, a concern which attempts a monopoly of radio communication is denied licenses. The commission directed the hearings to ascertain whether the Delaware decision said that the Radio Corporation had violated section 13, and the corporation sought the injunction to restrain the proceedings.

At the hearings beginning next Monday, the commission will probably determine whether section 13 applies to the Radio Corporation in view of the Delaware decision. A long litigation is in prospect in the event the commission decides that the Radio Corporation has violated the section.

Radio Corporation subsidiaries hold 1409 licenses and constitute one of the largest communication systems in the country.

Meantime the Radio Commission extended until July 15 licenses held by the Radiomarine Corporation of America, Radio Corporation subsidiary, for 15 commercial wavelength assignments.

The action was taken today to permit the stations to continue operation until the commission decides whether the Radio Corporation and four subsidiaries have violated anti-monopoly provisions.

After Explosion and Fire Wrecked York Village Home

EXPLOSION, FIRE DESTROY $20,000 HOME IN COUNTY

York Village Residence of Dr. Bilsky Wrecked—Woman Next Door Thrown Down Stairs.

A $20,000 residence in York Village, Brentwood, was tumbled into a heap of debris last night by an explosion that shook neighboring dwellings and was heard for miles.

Fire, which followed immediately, burned fiercely for an hour, completing destruction of the house, owned by Dr. Nathan Bilsky, who was visiting at the home of friends at No. 4 Northside drive, collapsed. Stucco walls, backed by hollow concrete blocks, crashed into the basement or onto the surrounding lawn. A part of the composition roof was blown upward, the rest falling into the flames.

Only the concrete foundation remained intact, although sections of metal window frame in the basement were blown outward.

Hundreds Floo to Scene.

The shattered floors, woodwork and furnishings provided material for the fire, the reflection of which guided to the scene hundreds of residents of Clayton, University City and other sections of the county, who had heard the blast. The heat was so intense that it was impossible to approach closer than 30 feet to the blaze, and the Brentwood fire department was powerless.

Mrs. Marcel Boucault, wife of an architect residing at No. 2 Northside drive, about 80 feet south of the Bilsky place, was thrown down stairs by the force of the blast. Her 4-year-old daughter, Diane, was thrown from the roof of the house, and several windows on the second floor were broken. A two-by-four timber from a wrecked house pierced the wall of the Boucault home.

Dr. and Mrs. Bilsky and their 5-year-old daughter, Beatrice, returned at 12:30 a. m. to find their home a smoldering heap of debris. Mrs. Bilsky said he is at a loss to account for the blast. He asserted his wife and the child had been away from home all day. He went home at 5 p. m. to get a coat for the child and then joined his family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shumann, 6149 Bartmer avenue, where they remained until about midnight.

There were no gas connections in the house, the cooking being done by electricity. Crude oil was used for furnace fuel.

Chief of Police Lucas of Brentwood took charge of several cushions, following an opinion by a chemist and a druggist, who were among the spectators, that an odor of ether or naphtha was attached to the cushions. Dr. Bilsky said the odor may have been caused by the fact that the house was recently painted and painters had not removed all their materials from the basement.

The 6-room residence was built about three years ago by Meier & Comfort, Inc., promoters of York Village, and was purchased by Dr. Bilsky last August. He said today the purchase price was "about $20,000" and that there is a $7500 first mortgage against the property. He said he had insurance for that amount on the house, and several thousand dollars additional coverage on the furnishings. York Village is on the east side of Lay

Dole System and Age Pensions Advocated by Senator Couzens

Joint Operation by States and Federal Government Contemplated—"No Substitute for Preventing Starvation."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senator Couzens said today he would sponsor legislation for unemployment insurance and old age pensions operated jointly by the states and the Federal Government in the next session of Congress.

Believing direct operation of either the insurance or the pensions by the Government would be unconstitutional, the Michigan Senator said there were plenty of precedents for the joint operation scheme.

Couzens also plans to press for increases in taxes.

"I am not at all disturbed at the effort to discredit the dole," he said, "as something terrible, obnoxious and unthinkable."

"When the so-called British dole was initiated, no one could foresee the years and years of depression which have made it difficult of operation. However, none of the interest by officials of the bank with Brunk's knowledge, and that Brunk accepted the benefit of $2700 of the shortage.

He said that the evidence of John E. Cahill, Deputy Finance Commissioner, who testified that Brunk exhibited in his presence a memorandum containing a correct list of

OWNER ORDERED TO FILL QUARRY WHERE BOY DROWNED

Board of Aldermen Asks City Counselor to Have All Such Quarries Filled.

Administrative and legislative officers of the city started movements today to bring about the filling of an abandoned quarry at Euclid and Ashland avenue, where a boy was drowned last Tuesday, and of all other abandoned quarries inside the city limits.

The Board of Aldermen unanimously approved a resolution asking the City Counselor to take whatever steps are necessary to have all quarries filled and Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks, after a conference with Associate City Counselor Senti, wrote G. A. Heman, owner of the Euclid-Ashland quarry, as follows:

"This is to notify you that an excavation on your property has caused the surface of Euclid avenue to sink so as to render a portion of it unsafe for travel. If you do not take steps to have said excavation filled within five days, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Director of Streets and Sewers, I will direct the Street Commissioner to do so."

Water in the quarry ranges from 60 to 140 feet in depth, and the surface of the water is about 100 feet below the ground level.

NEW YORK VICE SQUAD MEN SENTENCED TO SING SING

Two Former Patrolmen Convicted of Assault on Woman Whose Apartment They Raided.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Edgar P. McFarland and William B. Lewis, former vice squad patrolmen, were sentenced to Sing Sing Prison by Judge Tom yesterday. They were convicted of assault on Mrs. Genevieve Potocki, whose apartment they raided last September.

Lewis was sentenced to two and a half to five years and McFarland to two to four years.

Lights Go Out for Moment.

The force of the blast caused lights in neighboring homes to be extinguished momentarily. The location of the explosion was broadcast over the radio and Lay road was soon blocked by hundreds of automobiles. Some spectators left their cars more than a mile away and walked to the scene.

Dr. Bilsky told police intruders broke into his office, at 4743 Natural Bridge avenue, Tuesday night, and searched his papers, but took nothing of value. He said he did not connect the incident with last night's blast.

The residence of Elmer E. Marx, a real estate dealer, near Price and Ladue roads, was damaged $4000 by an explosion of undetermined origin last Sunday evening.

sought not to establish facts, but to establish guilt."

Charges Maligned.

While Madden made no charge directly against Gov. Cahill, who first suspended Brunk last October after being informed of the disinterest account in the Bank of Aurora, he asserted that "all the forces of the State have united in his pursuit with a zeal attributable only to malignity but which would do credit to a worthy cause."

In his argument preliminary to a discussion of the evidence, Madden took the position that to find Brunk guilty under impeachment charges it must find that he was actuated by corrupt motives and intent, asserting that a court of impeachment could not act as a court of record for public officials because of errors of judgment.

Approaching the evidence, Madden said that Brunk could not be held responsible for the clerical errors or mistakes of employees in his office, attributing to D. W. Tudor, chief clerk in the Treasurer's office the responsibility for the failure to compute the interest payments due from the Bank of Aurora, which defrauded the State of approximately $5000.

He cited as an evidence of intention to have a properly conducted office that when he became Treasurer, Brunk appointed to positions only persons of experience who had served in the office under his predecessor.

Says Corrupt Intent Is Issue.

"The issue here is not whether this respondent was pre-eminently qualified to discharge the duties of Treasurer," Madden said, "The sole issue is whether or not he has discharged those duties honestly and without evil or corrupt intent. If the time ever comes when any tribunal can vacate the popular will by judgment, then popular government is dead."

Madden divided the main charges in the articles into four classifications, the same as those set out by Representative Willis H. Meredith of Poplar Bluff in his opening argument for the prosecution yesterday afternoon. These were the Bank of Aurora charges, the Bank of Marshallfield charges, the Pierre Chouteau bond charges, and the charges that Brunk accepted money for official favors.

It is generally conceded that the Bank of Aurora charges were the most serious of all those made in the articles. They charged that the State was defrauded of $5000 of interest by officials of the bank with Brunk's knowledge, and that Brunk accepted the benefit of $2700 of the shortage.

Assaults Cahill's Testimony.

Asserting that this charge could not be sustained by proving that the officers of the Bank of Aurora were dishonest, Madden said the sole question was whether Brunk was a party to the corruption. He said that the evidence of John E. Cahill, Deputy Finance Commissioner, who testified that Brunk exhibited in his presence a memorandum containing a correct list of Edwards many leads for questioning before the grand jury. He said there was evidence to indicate several persons would have been benefited by Miss Faithfull's death.

Edwards wished to take the sworn testimony of Elizabeth Tucker Faithfull, Starr's younger sister, who prefers the name Sylvia. He said he wanted to find out whether Elizabeth Faithfull had been in the company of her sister and two men prior to Starr Faithfull's disappearance a week ago today.

Starr's body was washed ashore at Long Beach Monday. Inquiry since then as to the activities of the 25-year-old young woman who lived in Greenwich Village, a member of a family of modest circumstances, has developed incidents of gay life in New York and London and on one, with one visit to a hospital for round alcoholism, and one trip to a sanitarium for observation.

Starr Faithfull Killed Because of Suit, Says London Artist.

LONDON, June 12.—Rudolph Haybrook, artist, was quoted by the Daily Mail today as saying he believed Starr Faithfull had been killed in New York because she was to have been the principal witness in "a $25,000 settlement case which would have caused a sensation when it came to court."

Stanley E. Faithfull, her stepfather, has denied the truth of this statement.

Identifying Haybrook as Miss Faithfull's closest friend in London and as the fiancé of her sister, Elizabeth, the paper said Scotland Yard was searching for a man whom Miss Faithfull had sought repeatedly during a visit to London in 1928.

The manager of the hotel at which she stayed was reported by the Express to have found in her baggage, which she left behind, a diary "so frank that he locked it up." Her trunk later was shipped to New York.

Capt. R. B. Irving of the liner Franconia said he could not verify whether or not Miss Faithfull was the young woman who was put ashore in New York on his last trip. He said that a woman visitor aboard the ship was lowered into a tug as the Franconia was getting under way, but he was too far away to identify her.

Officials of Scotland Yard denied they had been asked by New York authorities to aid in the solving of the case.

Robbed of Money and Watch.

Miss Marie Miller, 5519 Olden avenue, St. Louis County, was robbed of $4.20 and a watch early today by a man who attempted to pull her into an alley on Pendleton avenue near Delmar boulevard.

When manifest knavery was resorted to writing," Madden said, "By that agreement, as infamous a document as was ever penned, this unfortunate and wretched soul was promised freedom for perjury, but threatened with the penalty for truth."

As evidence to dispute the charges that Brunk had entered into a conspiracy with the officials of the Bank of Aurora resulting in the interest shortage and the creation of the Brunk rent account, Madden said that for years there had been in the bank an account known as the "reserve for loss account," to which were transferred funds which were due the State in interest. He said that under the administration of State Treasurer Stephen Brunk's predecessor, that account had profited to the extent of about $20,000. It was continued during the first four months of the Brunk administration, he said, and then the bank officials created the "contingent fund," used for the same purpose, and that later was changed to the Brunk rent account.

Explaining Credits on Notes.

Madden denied that Brunk received any actual benefit from the money of which the State was defrauded. There were only two credits, totaling $650, made on Brunk's notes, he said, adding: "What actual benefit did a man receive from that credit when he was unable to pay or begin to pay any part of that indebtedness?"

"Whereas the Bank of Aurora made a purported credit upon Brunk's note, the money went from the Bank of Aurora to the Bank of Aurora. Whenever the Bank of Aurora paid taxes on Brunk's property, it immediately redounded to the benefit of the bank, since the taxes had to be paid if the security of the bank was to be protected. In other words, from the beginning to the end every purported benefit conferred on Brunk was primarily a benefit to the bank."

Madden went on to say that the evidence showed that Brunk never drew a check against the Brunk rent account, and that it was undisputed that Brunk had never received a balance sheet, statement or pass book for the account.

Denies Irregularity.

Madden brushed aside charges in connection with the Farmers' Exchange Bank of Marshallfield with only a little comment. The evidence in this connection showed the bank as security and entering in his books a deposit of $100,000 in the Marshallfield bank, a State depository, he used the $100,000 to purchase Pierre Chouteau bonds, which were sent direct to him by the bond house, Brunk retaining the bonds as security and entering in his books a deposit of $100,000 in the bank. Madden argued that there was no irregularity in this proceeding, and that it was an evidence of caution on the Treasurer's part, as by the means there was no time when the deposit was not secured by bonds in the Treasurer's possession.

Going to the discussion of the Pierre Chouteau bonds and the note for $10,000 which Brunk gave to J. Kenneth Edlin, president of the Provident State Securities Co., which sold the bonds to Missouri depositories, Madden asserted that there was nothing in the entire bond transactions which in any manner reflected on Brunk. He denied that Brunk had authorized William R. Nowrnie to promise bankers that if they purchased Pierre Chouteau bonds that they would be given additional State deposits, and that the deposits would not be drawn upon until the State depositories were paid with him a list of the securities held by State depositories was an important, Madden said. The prosecution had contended that confidential information and the bonds were supplied to Nowrnie by Brunk as a part of the alleged conspiracy. Madden said that it was not only a matter of record in the Treasurer's office, but also in the office of the Attorney-General, and that the bonds were contained in the official bank statements published at intervals.

Madden devoted considerable time to a discussion of the value of the Pierre Chouteau bonds. The bonds had been sold by the State because of their value. Madden contended that the statement in a prospectus that the bond issue totaled more than 90 per cent of the value of the property, the State law prohibiting the acceptance of real estate securities issued for more than 50 per cent of value. Madden contended that the statement in the prospectus was a misstatement, and that the bonds were sold at a price which properly should be included in value.

He declared the $10,000 Brunk received from Edlin as a legitimate loan, made in an open and frank manner by check on Edlin's personal account, the check being deposited by Brunk in his own name. He scouted the idea that Brunk would have paid the $10,000 on a note at the Bank of Aurora, if the entire transaction had not been legitimate.

OUNTS

note for $10,000 which Brunk gave to J. Kenneth Edlin, president of the President State Security Co., which sold the bonds to the Missouri State Depositories. Madden asserted there was nothing in the entire bond transactions which in any manner reflected on Brunk. He denied that Brunk had authorized William H. Norwine to promise bankers that if they purchased Pierre Chouteau bonds that they would be given additional State deposits, and that the deposits would not be drawn upon. Testimony that Norwine carried with him a list of the securities held by State Depositories was unimportant, Madden said. The prosecution had contended this was confidential information and that it was supplied to Norwine by Brunk as a part of the alleged conspiracy. Madden said that it was not only a matter of record in the Treasurer's office, but also in the office of the Attorney-General, and that much of it was contained in the official bank statements published at intervals.

Madden devoted considerably time to a discussion of the value of the Pierre Chouteau Apartments. The bonds had been rejected by the State because of a statement in the prospectus that the bond issue totaled more than 50 per cent of the value of the property, the State law prohibiting the acceptance of real estate securities issued for more than 50 per cent of value. Madden contended the appraisal used in the prospectus was incorrect and omitted many items which properly should be included in value.

He declared the $10,000 Brunk received from Edlin as a legitimate loan, made in an open and frank manner by check on Edlin's personal account, the check being deposited by Brunk in his own name. He scouted the idea that Brunk would have paid the $10,000 on his notes at the Bank of Aurora if the entire transaction had not been legitimate.

Carl Milles, Swedish Sculptor, Tells What He Likes in America

Satisfied With Artistic Progress but Thinks Statuary in Gardens Is Neglected — Art Need Not Be Serious, He Says.

Carl Milles, Swedish sculptor whose works are now on exhibit at the City Art Museum, is satisfied with the artistic pace the United States is keeping at present, and he refuses to criticize the country's artistic shortcomings, he said in an interview here yesterday. "I don't like people who come to America and go back to Europe to criticize," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "When I went back to Europe last year I wrote five articles on America and in them I tried to show what I like here. The rest does not matter. With a fair comprehension of what I think, Milles did not hesitate to evaluate American art. He is resident sculptor at the $15,000 Cranbrook Academy of Art at Detroit, Mich., and appeared in St. Louis in April at the Modern Art Festival of the League of Women Voters.

"You have wonderful museums in America, and the attention you give to building parks, spending millions of dollars to make them out of swamps or to build them in lakes, is marvelous," he said. "I am amazed, too, at some of the private collections of art I have seen here. It has become a matter of course now that when any art treasure in Europe is sold, it is sold to an American."

Art Moves Westward. "That is only natural. Civilization and art have always moved westward. It will be your privilege to hold it for a certain time and then it may go on to China or Japan. I should rather see art objects go to America than be destroyed by war in Europe or by Russia as Russia has done with them."

Milles expressed frank doubt that Russia could accomplish much of a spiritual ideal with her five-year plan. He referred to having just read a primer of the plan and commented, "It is all machines, machines, machines."

he began, in the same certain manner, "is for you to have more statuary in your gardens. Your gardens are lovely, but without statuary they are like a beautiful face without intelligence, like a body without a soul."

"In Sweden we put fountains in market-places, but here you have no market places. You don't need them. But there are places where you could put statuary, outdoors, where it should always be. In a garden there is the sun, to walk around and around a statue all day, giving it different lights here and there. If statues are put inside a building, they should get as natural a light as possible."

CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 12.—More than 40 deputies were held in readiness today for a second attack threatened by leaders of 2000 striking coal miners and woman sympathizers who were beaten away from Belmont County jail last night. Seven persons were arrested and 12 overcome by tear gas.

This was the first serious outbreak of the week-old strike in Eastern Ohio which has affected about 1000 workers.

Prosecutor Paul Waddell and R. A. Ireland, manager of the M. A. Hanna Coal Co. of Cleveland, said they would ask Gov. White for state troops unless the situation is brought under control.

The attack on the jail followed the arrest of seven men a few hours earlier when Sheriff Howard Duff and his deputies broke up a march on the New Lafferty mine of the Hanna company when 320 men confronted at work despite the strike. The crowd demanded the release of the prisoners, but the Sheriff, 40 of his men and members of the American Legion surrounded the jail, arming themselves with tear gas bombs and machine guns.

Seven women and five men were overcome by gas when a deputy threw one of the bombs to rescue of the Sheriff, who was struck by demonstrators. Leo Thompson of Pittsburgh, reputed to be leader of the crowd, and six others were arrested.

The crowd, growing to 4000, milled about the jail for some time, but scattered when their leaders announced that they would return today.

The disorders followed the dynamiting of the home of one miner and an attack on workers near the Fairpoint mine of the Hanna company in Belmont County.

The strikers, who officials say are led by Communist agitators from the Pennsylvania fields, demand an eight-hour day, abolition of the "average system" for computing pay for loading and the reinstatement of miners alleged to have been discharged because of union affiliations.

Quiet prevailed at the mine this morning. One hundred and twenty-five pickets were on duty and had persuaded about 10 per cent of the workers to quit. Deputy Sheriffs kept the crowd about the mine moving. Several machine guns were mounted by mine owners.

Thompson was still in jail today and Prosecutor Waddell said he would be charged with inciting a riot. He will be arraigned late today and the Prosecutor said he would ask that his bond be set at $25,000.

Marches on Four Coal Mines in Pittsburgh District

By the Associated Press. PITTSBURG, Pa., June 12.—Crowds of men and women marched from mining towns in the Pittsburgh district this morning to four coal mines where men still are at work and sought to enlist more in the Tri-State district coal strike.

In a demonstration near Mount Union Mine No. 10 of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., five women were arrested for violating Sheriff Robert S. Cain's orders forbidding women

"TOBY," PET FISH OF HOOVER CAMP, HOOKED AT LAST

Ambassador Gibson Explains Capture of Peggy Ann's Reputed Favorite.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 12.—Tales about Toby, the pet fish of the Rapidan, have now become post mortems written by members of the President's official family. Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, caught Toby and it was eaten at the President's own table the night of June 6.

Toby was a big rainbow trout and was widely reputed to be the particular pet of Peggy Ann, the President's granddaughter. Gibson did not know this and hooked it immediately he became involved in a diplomatic correspondence.

Assistant Secretary Jahncke, much upset, reported the matter to Ambassador Dawes, saying Capt. Joel T. Boone had made an official inspection of the fish and identified it immediately "as though it were an old acquaintance."

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy's only interest in the incident—or rather, accident—is that he was almost compelled, without knowing it, to consume the fish. Jahncke wrote Dawes, "and he objects to eating any kind of a trained animal, particularly one of Peggy Ann's pets."

Gibson wrote Dawes in answer to Jahncke's charges that he had been asked by the President to catch the big fish, which he said had been washed out of an ornamental pool and was killing smaller fish. "When I heard of the mental anguish being suffered by these poor little trout, I took my rod and set out immediately to the rescue," he added.

and children to take part in strike marches. Between 500 and 600 men marched on the mine. The women were removed to the Sheriff's office.

A bystander was wounded in the leg at Gallatin when officers fired several shots to break up a meeting of miners last night. Four men in an automobile, who were said to be miners, were stoned at Wildwood.

Eight hundred men and women held a demonstration at Vesta Mine No. 4 of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. in Washington County. A crowd of 200 or more strikers marched from Sloan to the Francis mine at Burgettstown, and nearby as many marched from the Kinloch district in Westmoreland County to the Harwick mine of the Duquesne Light Co. near Harwickville this morning.

Supreme Court Bars Church in Flora Pl.

Upholds Restrictions Forbidding Such a Building on This Property.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, June 12.—Building restrictions imposed upon property in Flora place, St. Louis, were sustained today by the Missouri Supreme Court. The Court held certain property owners there were entitled to an injunction to prevent the Compton Heights Christian Church from using a lot at the southwest corner of Flora place and Grand boulevard as a part of the site for a new church, because such use would violate the restrictions.

The ruling, by Judge G. R. Ellison, reverses a decision of the St. Louis Circuit Court, which held the lot could be used for a church building and dismissed an injunction suit brought by complaining property owners.

The church acquired two lots and half of a third, extending south from Flora place and fronting 131 feet on Grand boulevard, as a site for a new church. The north lot, fronting 55 feet on Grand and abutting Flora place for 200 feet, was included in the Flora place building restrictions, established by contract among the Flora place property owners in 1897. The Court ruling, holding that the one lot in the tract covered by the restrictions could not be used for a church building, does not apply to the rest of the property acquired by the church. A residence formerly owned by Henry Nicolaus occupies the two and one-half lots. The residence now is used by the church for its social work.

Flora place extends nearly one mile from Grand boulevard west to Tower Grove avenue. The restrictions, established by contract signed by the property owners, provides that buildings erected upon Flora place property may be used only for residence purposes. Nicolaus, from whom the church acquired the proposed building site, signed the contract but included only the north lot of his Grand and Flora place property.

Circuit Judge Hartmann, in holding the church could use the lot covered by restrictions for church purposes, said that because of business development, property in the vicinity on Grand had ceased to be desirable for residence purposes, and that the church could erect a building there without loss or damage to the Flora place property. He ruled that to enforce the restrictions would destroy the value of the lot.

Judge Ellison reversed this ruling, holding that the erection of a church, so far as the one lot covered by the restrictions was concerned, would violate those restrictions. He directed entry of a judgment granting an injunction as to the one lot. The other Judges concurred.

ing, holding that the erection of a church, so far as the one lot covered by the restrictions was concerned, would violate those restrictions. He directed entry of a judgment granting an injunction as to the one lot. The other Judges concurred.

The Supreme Court held the property owners were not entitled to an injunction to restrain the church from using the former Nicolaus residence for purposes other than a dwelling, because the residence, with the exception of a porch, is on that part of the property covered by the Flora place restrictions.

BODY OF MISSING GIRL IN QUARRY

Found Near Lima, O., With 30-Pound Stone Tied to It.

By the Associated Press. LIMA, O., June 12.—The body of Miss Thelma Woods, 17 years old, who disappeared last May 20, was found at the bottom of an old stone quarry here today. It was weighted down with a 30-pound stone. Officials said she was slain. The girl's hands were bound together in front of her by a strong cord and her face was bruised. Her body was revealed as the water in the quarry was pumped out.

Officials continued pumping the quarry in an attempt to drain it in the belief the body of her escort, Earl Truesdale, 20, Elida, might also be there.

The two disappeared Decoration day after attending a dance at a park here. Their abandoned automobile was found alongside the quarry and officials ordered the water pumped out. It was a slow process but eventually revealed a blanket which the two had in the automobile.

Officials said the rock was tied to the girl's body by a strong cord. They summoned the Coroner to determine the exact cause of death.

Practise in Action Against Chicago Foundryman Filed.

By the Associated Press. WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 12.—The practice of a $100,000 suit for alienation of affections was filed today against E. P. Sedgwick, elderly president of the Chicago Hardware Foundry Co. The plaintiff is Harold G. Emrick, a baker of Casey, Ill., divorced last November at Reno by Ottilie Leah Emrick.

The attorney for Emrick said that the Emricks met Sedgwick at Palm Beach, Fla., and that her dancing delighted the manufacturer so much that he suggested her coming to Chicago to take advanced lessons. The next Emrick heard, his attorney said, was that he was being sued for divorce in Reno.

note for $10,000 which Brunk gave to J. Kenneth Edlin, president of the President State Security Co., which sold the bonds to the Missouri State Depositories. Madden asserted there was nothing in the entire bond transactions which in any manner reflected on Brunk. He denied that Brunk had authorized William H. Norwine to promise bankers that if they purchased Pierre Chouteau bonds that they would be given additional State deposits, and that the deposits would not be drawn upon. Testimony that Norwine carried with him a list of the securities held by State Depositories was unimportant, Madden said. The prosecution had contended this was confidential information and that it was supplied to Norwine by Brunk as a part of the alleged conspiracy. Madden said that it was not only a matter of record in the Treasurer's office, but also in the office of the Attorney-General, and that much of it was contained in the official bank statements published at intervals.

Madden devoted considerably time to a discussion of the value of the Pierre Chouteau Apartments. The bonds had been rejected by the State because of a statement in the prospectus that the bond issue totaled more than 50 per cent of the value of the property, the State law prohibiting the acceptance of real estate securities issued for more than 50 per cent of value. Madden contended the appraisal used in the prospectus was incorrect and omitted many items which properly should be included in value.

He declared the $10,000 Brunk received from Edlin as a legitimate loan, made in an open and frank manner by check on Edlin's personal account, the check being deposited by Brunk in his own name. He scouted the idea that Brunk would have paid the $10,000 on his notes at the Bank of Aurora if the entire transaction had not been legitimate.

"RENT ACCOUNT"W. H. Meredith, in Opening Address for Prosecution, Says Conspiracy Is Shown."TRYING TO HIDE BEHIND EMPLOYEES"Declares Treasurer Was Aware of Shortage of Interest on State Deposits in Aurora Bank.By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.JEFFERSON CITY, June 12.— Representative Willis H. Meredith of Poplar Bluff opened the argument of the prosecution yesterday afternoon with a review of the evidence taken during more than three weeks of the impeachment trial of State Treasurer Brunk.Meredith said that the House of Representatives had charged, and that the evidence had supported the charge, that Brunk was guilty of misconduct in office in four particulars, in connection with the $5000 interest shortage in the Bank of Aurora. In connection with dealings with the Farmers' Exchange Bank of Marshallfield, in connection with the sale of Pierre Chouteau bonds, and in the acceptance of $10,000 from J. Kenneth Edlin, president of the Provi-dent State Securities Co. of Chicago, which sold the bonds.

Evidence of Conspiracy.

"There is no question about the conspiracy between Brunk and the officers of the Bank of Aurora," Meredith said. "When Brunk was a candidate for State Treasurer in 1927, and was heavily indebted to the Bank of Aurora, Easley wrote to him urging him to take up an overdraft in the bank and telling him that unless 'there is a change soon in your affairs, I cannot stave off the showdown. You cannot expect help from this quarter in your campaign.'""Brunk replied that if he could be elected he would be in a position 'to do you boys some real favors for four years, and you know I would do it.' He added that he would be in Aurora the next week.
"Brunk went to Aurora the next week and something was fixed up by which Brunk continued in the campaign, and Easley and Adams, the president of the bank, financed that campaign. Brunk testified on the stand that he financed it.
At that time, Senators, the conspiracy to defraud the State of interest money was entered into between Brunk and Easley and Adams.

Brunk Rent Account.

"Employees of the Bank of Aurora have told you of Easley's instructions to them to deduct money due the State and to credit it on the Brunk rent account. They have told you that Easley said he had an arrangement with Brunk by which Brunk's indebtedness was to be taken care of. Adams, the president of the bank, has told you that he showed Brunk the note on which the credit of $500 taken from the Brunk rent account was entered."Senators, Brunk knew all about that rent account. He was a party to it. You have either got to convict him of that knowledge or you have got to convict him of being an imbecile."It has been said the State will not lose anything by these transactions. If the Bank of Aurora had not failed and this conspiracy discovered, more than $200,000 would have been stolen from the State by the end of Brunk's term as Treasurer."The Governor of this State suspended Brunk after an exhaustive investigation. The Governor had been a conservative judge of a high court, he is a conservative chief executive, he is a Republican in politics. Brunk is a Republican. The Governor found it necessary to remove him.
Brunk's Responsibility Under Law."Brunk has told you on the witness stand that he did not know that the interest remittances from the Bank of Aurora were short. He has told you that he thought the interests were being figured in his office. He said he did not feel that he was responsible for the acts of his employees or their failure to act.
"I will refer to you section 11,395 of the laws of Missouri, which distinctly and clearly states that the Treasurer is liable for the official acts, misfeasance and defalcations of the chief clerk in his office. It was Brunk's duty to know—and of course he did know—and he cannot hide behind the employees of his office."Meredith then went into a discussion of the Pierre Chouteau bond sales, telling how the bond salesman, William H. Norwine, came to Jefferson City early in 1929, first going to the Attorney-General, then to Brunk.
"He left Brunk's office with a letter from the State Treasurer to sell Illinois apartment house bonds to State depositories. Some of these were willing to take the bonds if they could be exchanged later for Missouri real estate bonds which were eligible as security for deposits of State money."

CHOUTEAU, LUCAS LINEAGE GIVEN IN COURTHOUSE SUIT

Move Made to Establish Heirs in Action to Get Title to Site Donated to St. Louis in 1825.

Genealogical records of the Chouteau and Lucas families, early generations of which were pioneer St. Louisans, were placed in evidence yesterday before Circuit Judge Hartmann in the suit of heirs of Auguste Chouteau and John B. C. Lucas claiming the site of the old Courthouse on Broadway. The site was donated to the city (then a part of St. Louis County) in 1825 by Chouteau and Lucas with a provision it was to be forever used for the courthouse. The heirs contend that because the city moved the Circuit Court and Probate Court from the historic Broadway structure to the new Civil Courts Building on Twelfth boulevard a year ago it forfeited its right to the Broadway site; accordingly, they contend the property should revert to heirs of the donors.

Tells of Tracing Family.
Mrs. Nettie H. Beauregard, archivist for the Missouri Historical Society, testified she traced the Chouteau family down through seven generations from Auguste Chouteau. The records show he married Miss Marie Therese Cerre. About 60 descendants are living, she declared, but she had not found all the younger members of the seventh or present generation, all of whom are minors. A chart of the family tree was submitted to the court.

The Lucas lineage was traced by Charles Lucas, 544 Kingsbury boulevard, a great-grandson of J. B. C. Lucas. About 40 of this family, he said, were known to be living but he had not been able to trace the pedigree of one or two branches and this may be supplied later. He identified the photograph of a chart of the Lucas family tree which he said was made by his father, John D. Lucas.

George G. Vest, one of the attorneys for petitioners, explained that the testimony offered yesterday was for the purpose of making proof who the heirs were. By agreement the rest of the case will be heard next Wednesday, at which time the city and claimants will file a stipulation agreeing on certain facts. Then the city will demur to the evidence and the side which loses the decision on the demurrer will take an appeal. It was said. City Counselor Muench was in court representing the city.

Action in Similar Suit.
Recently Circuit Judge Pearey, in a similar suit by Henri Chouteau, one of the heirs, sustained a demurrer on the ground that the petition did not state a cause of action. He held there had been a substantial compliance with the terms of the deed as created by the use of the word "forever" in that the city had used the Courthouse more than 100 years.

Previously Judge Hartmann overruled a demurrer in the case pending before him. He held there should be a trial of the case on the merits.

A rental valuation of $2000 a month is placed on the site. At present the old building is occupied by two Justice of the Peace courts and a private art exhibit.

One Killed, 26 Hurt in Crash.
By the Associated Press.
HAMMONTON, N. J., June 12.—Mrs. Emilie Ledig, 72 years old, died today of injuries suffered last night when she and a Philadelphia-bound bus from Atlantic City collided with an automobile near here. Twenty-six other persons were hurt. Mrs. Ledig was returning to her home in Philadelphia with her husband, Charles W. Ledig, 75, who was among the injured. They had spent the last few days at the seashore celebrating their golden wedding.

BILL TO MAKE ZONING CHANGES DIFFICULT FILED

Action Has Effect of Killing Measure; Would Have Required Approval of Plan Commission.

A bill intended to make zoning changes more difficult and providing that zoning bills be referred to the City Plan Commission for recommendation before being voted on was ordered filed by the Board of Aldermen today by a vote of 15 to 11. The action has the effect of killing the measure.

Acting Mayor Neun, who, as president of the Board of Aldermen, introduced the ordinance at the request of the General Council on Civic Needs, the Chamber of Commerce and the Federation of Improvement Associations, appeared before the body to urge its passage.

Opposition was led by Aldermen Neun and Wimer who declared heatedly that it made "rubber stamps" of board members. "There is no reason to delegate our authority to a commission," Neun complained. "If we are not competent to pass on the merits of a zoning bill, we ought to resign."

Duplicate of Work. Aldermen Kaufmann, Wimer, Watts and Waldman also spoke in opposition, each objecting that there would be a duplication of work, requiring hearings before the plan commission and the Board of Aldermen.

The bill provided that when owners of 10 per cent of the property effected by a zoning ordinance file a formal protest, a three-fourths vote of the Board of Aldermen would be necessary. Another provision required a new method of notice to property owners.

The vote on the motion to file was: For—Bergmann, Brinkman, Brock, Hayes, Kaufmann, Kralenmann, Lange, Melsinger, Neu, Neumann, August H. Niederluecke, Otto, Waldman, Watts, Wimer. Against—Barnes, Eilers, Felt, Fischer, Lohmann, William F. Niederluecke, Reinhardt, Riedling, Wetzel, Wiehe and Acting President Kuhn.

Aldermen Schwartz and Studd were absent.

Neu's Motion Fails to Pass. Alderman Neu, following the vote to file, moved the proposition that the motion be reconsidered and that the motion lie on the table, this preventing a future reconsideration. Neu's motion failed to carry, the vote being 13 to 12.

The bill had been reported out favorably yesterday by the Legislative Committee.

The Fourteenth street widening project between Chouteau and Alton avenues would be repealed by a bill introduced by Alderman Reinhardt. He said property owners had been taxed for the Twelfth street and Gravois avenue widenings and that they could not afford further expense.

An ordinance prohibiting parking on the south side of Poplar street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets except for 15-minute periods for commercial vehicles, was introduced by Alderman Lange.

At yesterday's session, the Legislative Committee took under advisement a bill to change the zoning of a section of Lindell boulevard which was attacked as a flagrant example of spot zoning.

Babler Presented Petition. The section of Lindell boulevard covered by the amendment considered yesterday is the block between Vandeventer avenue and Whittier street. Like the rest of Lindell, between Grand boulevard and Kingshighway, it is in a multiple dwelling zone, where residences, apartments, churches, clubs and institutions are permitted. Property owners in this section proposed the bill to change it to a commercial district, where stores and automobile establishments are permissible, but with a special restriction in the amendment requiring structures to be at least three stories high and of fireproof construction.

Jacob L. Babler, former Republican National Committeeman, who owns 236 front feet on Lindell, near Sarah street, in this section, presented to the committee a petition seeking the change, which he said was signed by all but four of the owners of the property between Vandeventer and Whittier.

Babler declared the neighborhood had depreciated in value and that the amendment was intended to restore its worth. He expressed a belief that attractive buildings would be erected, if the change were made, and asserted that he might construct a 10-story building on his property.

"Booze Joints in Vicinity." "Some property in this vicinity," he said, "is being used for booze joints. There are automobile display places there now (erected before the present zoning law became effective). It is asinine to talk about retaining the beauty of Lindell; there isn't any. Taxes there are high, representing a commercial value, but the property cannot be used for commercial purposes. You can't build an apartment there and make it pay on the investment."

On part of Lindell there has been no new construction of consequence in the last 10 years, Babler said.

Harry Newman, a real estate dealer, who has been active in opposing spot zoning, spoke against this amendment. He said word had come to him: "Lay off of this; Jake Babler is interested in it. Why make this fight? Babler is a good fellow."

Hancock Opposes Change. W. Scott Hancock, a lawyer, chairman of the Zoning Committee of the General Council on Civic Needs, argued against the amendment, as an example of spot zoning, putting a use district of one kind in the middle of a large district of another grade. He declared the beauty of Lindell boulevard should be retained, this being the chief avenue to Forest Park, and he compared its place in the community's appearance resembled that of Michigan avenue, Chicago.

Frank E. Lawrence, secretary of the General Council on Civic Needs, spoke against the change, attacking it as spot zoning. A resolution by the Executive Committee of the Engineers' Club, 4359 Lindell boulevard, protesting against the amendment, was presented. Albert M. Reilly, owner of 150 front feet of the affected area, advocated the change. He said no one would erect residential structures on Lindell now, and pointed out that commercial buildings are permitted on Michigan avenue, Chicago.

SWINDLER GETS TEN YEARS Blind Man in Court Tells of Loss of $14,000.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 12.—Just before Samuel Feldman, a tailor, convicted of grand larceny, was sentenced to 10 years in Sing Sing today Nathan Greenspan, a blind man, was led to the witness stand and told the court Feldman had swindled him out of $14,000. As the result of his loss Greenspan attempted suicide by inhaling gas and became blind.

Feldman was convicted of having fraudulently obtained $2300 from Louis Hackner, also a tailor, by prevailing upon him to invest in platinum. According to the prosecution report Greenspan lost his money under similar conditions.

SLAYER OF NEIGHBOR, SERVING LIFE SENTENCE, GETS PAROLE

By the Associated Press. LOUIS RELEASSED. He Entered Missouri Prison in 1918; Two Others From St. Louis Released.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 12.—Doe Redding, Missouri penitentiary inmate serving a life term from St. Louis, was among 10 convicts granted paroles today by Gov. Caulfield.

Redding was received at the prison March 15, 1918. He was convicted of killing Alexander M. White June 15, 1917, while the latter was living in a room adjacent to an apartment occupied by Redding and his wife. Redding had accused White of paying attention to his wife and shot him apparently without warning while he was standing in the door of his room.

Other St. Louis paroled: Arthur Herling, two years from June 6, 1930; attempted robbery. Morris Hart, five years from Aug. 16, 1929; robbery.

MARTIN J. INSULL
CALLS UTILITIES' FIGHT 'PATRIOTIC'

Private Ownership One of Principles of Founders of Republic, He Says at Convention.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.
—Martin J. Insull, president of the Midwest Utilities Co., Chicago, warned the National Electric Light Association yesterday against what he said was a sense of "false security."

"This industry has been built on the principle of private initiative, private ownership and private operation," he said. "We believe these principles are best for them. In doing so we shall not only be fighting for an industry to whose building many of us have devoted our lives, but we shall also be fighting for the principles and policies of the founders of the Republic that have made America the outstanding nation in the world."

Designing the main reasons for the attacks on the light and power as "political, socialistic or communist," Joseph B. Groce of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston, chairman of the Advising and Publicity Committee, said that political attacks "can usually best be met through local advertising by local companies rather than by advertising sponsored by the national association." He gave as examples advertising published in Iowa, Colorado and Pennsylvania during the last year.

Calling Attacks "Vicious."
"No self-respecting man likes to be maligned," he added. "No executive of a great industry such as ours takes any great pleasure in having his industry so viciously attacked as ours has been during the last two or three years."

"If the judgment of the men who make up this National Electric Light Association is worth anything, there is no fear that the people of the United States who have the final say so in these matters, will decide as a nation that they want to change to Government ownership of the electric light and power industry."

"Voice of the Industry."
W. S. Vivian of Chicago, chairman of the public speaking committee, urged that everyone in the industry analyze the slogan of socialistic groups which is "education for a new social order based on production for public use and not for private profit."

He said "printed socialistic propaganda is being distributed in an ever-increasing volume" and urged managements everywhere to conduct classes in public speaking so that "the voice of the industry be the voice of its own men and women."

James B. Black, of the North American Co., New York, chairman of the Customer Ownership Committee, said it would be necessary for the industry during the next 10 years "to raise not less than $7,500,000,000 in new capital, even ignoring reinvestment of reserves and surplus."

"Individual Liberty."
The report of the Public Policy Committee, presented by Preston
S. Arkwright, chairman, asserted that the Government cannot substitute for individual initiative and the efficiency now making for the progress of the electric utility business.

"Constructive and co-operative effort," the report stated, "is more essential than governmental and legislative panaceas which too often are not only ineffectual but involve surrender of individual liberty."

HYDE CONTINUES HOOVER BOOM FOR A SECOND TERM

Pushes Along Campaign Started by Fess at Conference of Young Republicans in Capital.

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, June 12.—The boom for a second term for President Hoover started yesterday by Chairman Fess of the Republican National Committee and Postmaster-General Brown was continued today by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde in his speech before the Young Republican Conference.
 "The President of the United States is all right," the Secretary of Agriculture asserted. His declaration started a demonstration.
 After a speech upon the Farm Board policies, the Secretary brought up the presidential issue.
 "I doubt if any man," he said, "was ever subjected to malice organized to the 18th degree which he has, but he has never raised his voice in complaint."
 Hyde called upon the young Republicans to wield polo mallets on the "Yes-but" members in the party.
 "I can't understand what there is of progressivism in running around in circles singing hymns of hate," he said.
 Hyde emphasized that the "real job" of the Farm Board was to aid in the organization of agriculture. He said stabilization operations were "incidental and emergency."
 The secretary said the board stabilization operations last year in wheat and cotton had saved the farmers and added citizens. He expressed no alarm regarding the $500,000,000 revolving fund employed in the stabilization operation.
 "No one can tell," he said, "what will be lost or if anything will be lost. If liquidation were forced today there would be a considerable paper loss but against that is the tremendous aid to agriculture and to farmers and to business which would many times make good that loss."

Allan Hoover, younger son of the President, attended today's session. Accompanied by Walter Newton, secretary to the President, Allan took a seat among the delegates.
 Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee, who was presiding, called upon Allan Hoover to stand. The President's son was cheered.
 Newton was called to the platform for a speech. He stressed the necessity of service in politics. Referring to the presidential candidates he said "There are those of us who do not think we can improve on 1928 in 1932."
 The first day's meeting was focused upon President Hoover and the protective tariff policy of the administration. Speakers praised the efforts of the President in the depression and pointed to his stand in favor of maintenance of wage scales.
 Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, in her speech urged united support for the President during the depression. As for the next presidential race, she said:
 "There never was a time when it was more important to keep a Republican at the head of this Government than now. Pledge as many as you can to the Republican party."

STATE SUES TO DISSOLVE PHYSICIANS' INDEMNITY CO.

Insurance Superintendent Alleges It Is in Condition Hazardous to Policyholders.
 A petition asking that the Physicians' Indemnity Co. of America, 3320 Washington boulevard, be enjoined from doing business and dissolved was filed in Circuit Court today by State Superintendent of Insurance Thompson. The suit charges that the company is insolvent and in a condition hazardous to policyholders.
 Circuit Judge Hartmann issued a temporary restraining order and appointed R. J. Callahan, an attorney, as agent to handle the company's assets pending a hearing set for Monday.
 James K. Coolidge of Jefferson City and Ellison A. Poulton of St. Louis filed the suit on behalf of Thompson. Poulton said the company did not have the excess of assets over liabilities which the law requires insurance companies to have on deposit with the Insurance Department.
 Joseph J. Hettley, secretary-treasurer of the company, declined to comment. Edward Dolls is president of the company, which is engaged chiefly in the health and accident insurance business.

E. B. McLEAN SERIOUSLY ILL

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, June 12.—Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, who is seriously ill with inflammation of the heart muscles, was reported by Dr. James A. Gannon today to have had a "fair night." McLean was stricken Monday while golfing on his private course at "Friendship," the McLean home. Dr. Gannon said his patient probably would be confined for three weeks.
 Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, estranged wife of the publisher, called at "Friendship" today, accompanied by a member of her counsel, who are looking after her interests in the projected sale of the Post. Mrs. McLean is opposed to the sale, a petition for which will be filed next week.

WIDE VALUATION RANGE FOR LINDELL WIDENING

City Appraiser Estimates Strip at $2000, Bank Representative at $20,000.

Hearing of the city's exceptions to the awards of commissioners for nine pieces of property to be taken in the proposed Lindell boulevard bottleneck widening started yesterday before Circuit Judge Hall, with real estate experts estimating the value of one piece of property at figures ranging from $2000 to $20,000.

The property considered was that of Pierce B. Barnard at the southwest corner of Lindell and Channing avenue. William E. Caulfield, appraiser for the city, said the strip, 25 feet front and nine feet deep, was worth $2000, and that there would be no consequential damages. N. S. Wood, another city appraiser, valued the property to be taken at $227 and awarded a similar sum for consequential damages, a total of $4478.

George H. Streiff, of the real estate department of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., testified for the owner that the property to be taken is worth $20,000 because it projects nine feet north of the south line of Olive street at the east side of Channing. This, he said, makes it particularly valuable now for a showroom or for signboard rental because of the visibility.

On cross-examination, he said property just to the west in the same block has been selling for $400, $650 and $740 a front foot, whereas his estimate on the Barnard property was based on a valuation of $3000 a front foot. One piece of property in the block, he said, recently was leased for 99 years on the basis of a valuation of $1000 a front foot which he considered little more than half its value.

Differences in the estimated value of a two-story brick building varied only a few hundred dollars. The award of a former commission provided for only $686 net damages to the property, gross damages of $7686 being reduced by a $7000 benefit assessment. The last commission awarded $13,000 gross damages and reduced benefits to $1750 for a net damage of $11,250. No testimony on benefits was taken.

ZANE GREY DENIES BY RADIO HIS YACHT CREW MUTINIED

Author Sends Message From South Seas to San Francisco Wireless Station.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—The Examiner's short wave wireless station here received a message today from Zane Grey, American author, aboard his yacht, Fisherman II, in the South Seas, denying a Pasadena (Cal.) report that there had been a mutiny of his crew.

Grey's message, sent while the yacht was between Vahia and Ika-tea, 225 miles east of Nuafoa Island, said: "Reports of a mutiny are entirely false. The water supply is low, but we have plenty to drink and some for an occasional bath. Both engines are running sweetly since repairs were made at Suva. We are making poor speed on account of heavy seas following a recent storm."

The message was received after friends of Grey in Pasadena had said that threatened or actual mutiny had ended his projected 18 months' cruise in the South Seas and the honeymoon of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carney.

Mrs. Earl S. Wallace told Pasadena friends last night that she planned to sail for Tahiti to join her husband, a guest aboard the yacht. She said trouble broke out three weeks ago over repairs to an auxiliary motor. Rather than chance a serious mutiny, she said, Grey headed for Tahiti, planning to bring the entire party home.

RICHARD A. DOLE MARRIES; SON OF PINEAPPLE MAGNATE
By the Associated Press.
RENO, Nev., June 12.—Richard A. Dole, 23 years old, son of James Drummond Dole, Hawaiian pineapple merchant, and his bride, the former May McManus Johnson, 19, San Jose, Cal., were on a honeymoon somewhere around Lake Tahoe today.

The young pair left San Jose Wednesday night and, after an all-night drive here, obtained a marriage license and drove to Sparks, Nev., where they were married by the Rev. Edward A. McGowan of the Episcopal Church.

The engagement was announced some time ago. Dole is a senior at Stanford University and his bride is a freshman at San Jose State Teachers' College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Johnson.

Dole telegraphed his father in San Francisco after the ceremony, the elder Dole announced. He said both he and Mrs. Dole knew of their son's plans and approved them. The newlyweds will reside in Honolulu.

15TH CENTURY PRINTING IN BOOK AT ST. LOUIS U.

Discovery Made by Authority in Renovating Seventeenth Century Treatise.

A Fifteenth Century masterpiece of printing was found in the binding of a Seventeenth Century treatise on the orders of the Society of Jesus, in the famous ecclesiastical library of St. Louis University.

The book was being renovated by Victor Wolfgang von Hagen of New York, professional renewer of ancient manuscript, books and bindings, who has donated his services to several important collections in St. Louis.

Von Hagen noticed traces of printing beneath an unusually thin fly-leaf and lifted it to find printed pages which he recognized immediately as incunabula, as scholars call the first examples of printing, or those dating before 1500. He removed the leather cover, and found that the entire "board" for the binding had been made of 50 printed pages pasted solidly together.

These he was able to identify by a watermark, in the form of a hand, and peculiarities of type face and the white-on-black initials with arabesque designs, as the work of Meinardo Unguit and Stanislaw
Polono, printed at Seville about 1494. The book, of which about 30 pages ran consecutively as he found them in the binding, was a law tract in archaic Spanish. Margins were annotated, some apparently by contemporary students and others at later dates, some apparently toward the end of the Sixteenth Century.

As for the rarity of the find, Von Hagen said that he knew of only 37 pieces of incunabula in St.
Louis. It is not extraordinary, he said, to find in the binding of old volumes, pages similarly pasted together from a much older and more valuable book.

These were found in a Spanish monastic binding. Von Hagen has observed several bindings of similar style and date in the university library, and plans to make careful search in the hope of finding the remainder of the law treatise.

CLOTHIERS TIED, THEIR MOUTHS SEALED IN $310 STORE HOLDUP

Robbers of Shop at 3507 North
Grand Help Selves to Two New Straw Hats.

Benjamin and Albert Sanders proprietors of a clothing store at 3507 North Grand boulevard, were held up by two armed men early last night and marched to a back room where their hands and feet were tied and their mouths closed with adhesive tape. The robbers took $150 from a cash register and a $150 diamond ring from Benjamin Sanders, selected two new straw hats and fled.

Other holdups: Grocery of Joseph J. Meyer, 1828 North Taylor avenue, $95 taken; Allen Kaupp, 4648 St. Ferdinand avenue, laundry truck driver, $20; confectionery of Andrew Gofin, 1050 North Taylor avenue, $60.

Members of Washington University chapter of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity reported jewelry and clothing valued at $150 were stolen from the chapter house at 6189 Westminster place by a man who represented himself as a member from another school and was left alone in the house.

SUES, SAYS VALLEE KICKED HIM

Violinist Declares He Was Fired for Breaking Rudy's Saxophone.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Rudy Vallee, radio crooner, was sued in Municipal Court yesterday for $540 by Julius de Vorzon, violinist. De Vorzon said the discord between them began when he was discharged for breaking a key spring on Vallee's favorite saxophone.

De Vorzon testified to Justice John Sullivan that Vallee kicked him twice and was "frothing at the mouth and gnashing his teeth as he always does when excited." He charged the money was due him for two weeks' pay and said Vallee once had told him, "You are my inspiration—you make me a different person. You'll be with me as long as the Connecticut Yankees are in existence—and I figure my popularity will last from three to five years more." De Vorzon said he had no contract but based his claim on verbal exchanges. Witnesses testified the violinist received $104.25 from the National Broadcasting Co. when he was discharged on Oct. 7 last.

SAYS VERMONT TRIED TO PICK WINNER IN THE REVOLUTION

Attorney for New Hampshire in Boundary Dispute Quotes Historian.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, June 12.—Vermont withheld any alliance with the 13 original colonies in their war with England until it was sure which was to be the victor, Jeremy Waldron told a Master in Federal Court today. Waldron, a former Attorney-General of New Hampshire, is presenting his State's case in a boundary dispute with Vermont.

Waldron quoted historians to show that the State tried to avoid association with the colonies after the revolution if it could be "decently avoided," so as to remain free from the payment of debts incurred in the war.

The New Hampshire counsel read a document purporting to show that Vermont's patriotism during the revolution was wholly local and that the State itself took no war risks until it was sure who was going to win the war. He said the State prospered and increased while the other states fought.

He also read a report by British agents to their commander when Vermont was negotiating with Great Britain during the revolution. These agents reported that Vermont planned to prevent invasion by either the colonies or Great Britain and to string out negotiations until it could be satisfied who would win.

SCHOOL PLAYGROUNDS OF CITY OPEN MONDAY

Staff of 400 to Direct Summer Program at 58 Recreational Centers.

The 58 summer playgrounds at St. Louis public schools will open Monday morning, to continue until Sept. 5. Intended for the use of children between 5 and 16 years of age, they will be under the direction of a staff of 400 young men and women trained as play directors, with Rodows H. Abeken as head of the project. It will be the ninth season for the system.

For the purpose of competitive sports, groups of four or five schools have been organized, and playgrounds within the divisions will compete in nine types of inter-club games. Group winners will take part in an elimination series and two finalists will meet for the city championship at the playground festival Aug. 29. Teams will be formed for horseshoes and baseball for junior boys, baseball and basketball for seniors; end ball and basketball for junior girls and net hand ball and volleyball for seniors.

In addition to the games, the playgrounds will conduct pageants and festivals, story-telling groups, playground activities with apparatus, and wading pools. Handicraft and industrial play have been introduced and articles made by the children will be displayed at the festival at the Public School Stadium Aug. 29.

On Aug. 1 will be held local competition for the trophy of the Mid-Western Radio Playground track and field meet, a competition usually engaged in by about 10 cities. Events are run off locally, results here wired to a central office at Chicago and results of the entire meet broadcast from local radio stations. The St. Louis group last year won the Lions' Club trophy.

The festival, closing the summer, will be featured by display booths for school products, a track and field meet, finals in the inter-club games and a pageant entitled "Hansel and Gretel," in which 500 costumed children will take part.

Assistants to Abeken are Miss

Aurelia J. Sullivan, who will direct handicraft and industrial play; Miss Corinne Hachtman, who will direct dancing; Fred C. Voss, inter-club games; and Arthur Ellers, supervising playgrounds for Negro children.

The list of schools having playgrounds is: Blewett, Yeatman, Ashland, Arlington, Baden, Busch, Buder, Carondelet, Clay, Clinton, Columbia, Cote, Brilante, Supples, Dewey, Elliot, Emerson, Fanning, Farragut, Fremont, Froebel, Gardenville, Glasgow, Hamilton, Hempstead, Hodgson, Howard, Humboldt, Laclede, Lindenwood, Long, Longfellow, Lowell, Lyon, Mark Twain, Mason, Mullany, Oak Hill, Pestalozzi, Rock Spring, Scruggs, Scullin, Shaw, Shenandoah, Sherman, Stix, Wade, Walbridge, Walnut Park, Wilkinson, Woodward, Wyman, Cole, Lincoln, L'Ouverture, Montgomery, Simmons, Vashon and Wheatley.

U. S. MAYORS AT VERSAILLES

By the Associated Press.
VERSAILLES, France, June 12.—America's visiting Mayors stood in the 'Treaties' Hall of the Municipal Library today and saw the place where the peace treaty ending the American Revolution was signed. They examined a book containing episodes of the revolution which Benjamin Franklin gave to King Louis XIV, and later they were the city's guests at luncheon.

Henri Prince, representing the Mayor of New York, today wore the ribbon of the award for "Agricultural Merit," a distinction bestowed on him last night for "upholding the French culinary art in the United States." Mayor Porter of Los Angeles and Mayor Miller of St. Louis have left the party, the former going to Berlin, whence he will return to England and rejoin the Mayors, and the latter direct to England.

NATURAL GAS RATES REDUCED IN OKLAHOMA

In Return Governor Agrees to Drop Receivership Suit Against Companies.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., June 12.—Gov. Murray announces he has obtained rate cuts from the Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation which would save consumers $1-$200,000 annually.

"The Bell Telephone Co. will be next," he asserted yesterday. "The electric concerns need a little bit of working over, too."

In return for the gas rate reduction, the Governor agreed to dismiss receivership action against the Oklahoma Natural and other concerns. The suit charged antitrust law violation.

Other litigation, including the Oklahoma's Natural's Federal Court fight against a price reduction ordered last winter by the State Corporation Commission, also will be waived, Gov. Murray said.

By the agreement, the gas company, which is the State's dominant utility in the field, agreed to reduce to 50 cents a 1000 cubic feet all rates in cities where the price exceeds that figure. Rates will remain unchanged where they already are 50 cents or less.

The new scale will be temporary, beginning July 1, and remaining in effect until the Corporation Commission completes an investigation and takes final action.

JACOB M. LASHLY WARNS
LAWYERS AGAINST DISSENSION Says Disagreements Cause Public to Lose Confidence in Legal Advisers.

The St. Louis County Bar Association held its 11th dinner at Van Horn's farm last night. About 75 members attended.

Jacob M. Lashly, former president of the St. Louis Bar Association, was the principal speaker, outlining the advantages of a bar association and warning against internal disagreements.

"Internal disagreement in the ranks of lawyers causes the public to lose confidence in its legal advisers," he said, "and gives an opportunity of criticizing their tactics."

Others who spoke were Judge S. G. Nipper of the Court of Appeals, and Circuit Judge Jerry Mulloy. Former Circuit Judge Amandus Brackman, president of the association, was toastmaster.

FLYING FUR THEFTS CHARGED Minnesota Aviator Accused of Directing Ring of Robbers.

By the Associated Press.
ST. PAUL, Minn., June 12.—W.
D. Stewart, State Game and Fish Commissioner, says he has ordered the arrest of G. R. Rhoades, aviator, charging he was a director of an outlaw fur ring operating by airplane. The specific charge is illegal possession of 53 beaver skins, valued at $1500.

Commissioner Stewart says wardens have sought to break up Northern Minnesota illegal fur traffic for more than a year. "It has become common gossip in the North country that Rhoades' airplane was landing at various Northern lakes at night and taking out caches of contraband fur," the Commissioner said yesterday.

BARGE SERVICE OF LOWER ILLINOIS RIVER STARTED

Two Tows Leave St. Louis With 600 Tons for Peoria.
Two tows carrying about 600 tons of imports and St. Louis products departed today for Peoria, inaugurating twice weekly Federal barge service on the lower Illinois River at 20 per cent below prevailing freight rates.
Several carloads each of sugar and coffee and a large consignment of steel were among the imports, transferred to the new Illinois line from the lower Mississippi line at St. Louis. Several empty barges were towed north for downstream shipments of cement.
Tows will leave St. Louis at 6
p. m. every Tuesday and Saturdays on a three-day schedule to Peoria, and will leave Peoria every Wednesday and Saturday on a two-day schedule downstream.
Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, executive chairman of the Illinois Waterways Corporation, which operates the Federal barge lines, and Operating Manager H. R. Odell, accompanied by their wives, were aboard. Secretary of War Hurley is expected to go aboard later in the cruise.

RAILROADS TO ASK I. C. C. FOR 15 PCT. FREIGHT RATE RISE

Eastern, Southern and Western Lines Unite in Seeking to Offset Tariff Cuts Since 1921.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—The railroads of the nation have united on a decision to petition the Interstate Commerce Commission and State Commissions for a general increase in freight rates of 15 per cent.
Representatives of Eastern, Southern and Western groups of roads who participated in the agreement reached yesterday said the increase was designed to offset some of the reductions in freight tariffs made since 1921 and would bring an estimated increase in revenue of 10 per cent, or about $400,- 000,000.
The petition was described as an emergency measure to meet a slump in rail revenue which has resulted in earnings falling to the lowest level in a decade.
The railroads hope to have their petition on file within a week and hope that it will be treated as an emergency measure by the commission so that the increased rates may go into effect within three months.
They will seek to have an order issued by the commission omitting the 90-day suspension clause, under which rate increases are automatically suspended for that period.
A general increase of 15 per cent was decided upon to make the question one of revenue rather than one involving individual rates to prevent long debate.
The first move toward making the application was made by representatives of Eastern and Western roads a week ago. After their plans had been agreed upon they presented the proposal to traffic officers of Southern roads at a meeting in Washington. The result was the meeting here yesterday in which all three groups joined.
The committee appointed to present the application comprises John F. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford;
H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific; and W. R. Cole, president of the Louisville & Nashville.

FRENCH-AMERICAN WOMAN
Former Moslem Takes Catholic as Bride in New York City Ceremony.
By the Associated Press.
GLEN COVE, N. Y., June 12.—
The romance of a Prince of Afghanistan and a French-American girl which began in Maine six years ago has resulted in their marriage in New York.
Prince Ataula K. Ozal, 33 years old, who was exiled when he tried to introduce progressive policies in his country, and Fleurette Pappe, 24, who was born in Lewiston, Me., of French parents, are spending their honeymoon at Seven Gables, country home of Robert J. Caldwell at Mill Neck, Long Island.
They were married in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Irving T.
Bush on Park avenue.
The bride is a Roman Catholic and the Prince was formerly of the Moslem faith. They plan a religious ceremony to supplement the civil one as soon as necessary dispensation can be obtained.
They met while the Prince was on a pleasure trip in Maine. He came to America seven years ago to study oil chemistry. His father was the late Sirdar Esmet, Commander-in-Chief of the Afghan Army.
Ozal never uses the Prince before his name and has taken out papers to become an American citizen.

GEORGIA'S LAST LEGAL HANGING Negro Executed for Killing a Railroad Detective.
By the Associated Press.
AUGUSTA, Ga., June 12.—Georgia today carried out its last legal hanging when Arthur Meyers, Aus-tustia Negro, was executed for the slaying of R. E. Gunn, a Georgia railroad detective. Since Meyers was indicted the State has voted to substitute the electric chair for the gallows.
Just before the trap was sprung, a hundred or more persons who had climbed to the top of a shed outside the jail yard were plunged to the ground when the roof collapsed. Officers said no one was injured seriously, although several persons were bruised. Gunn was killed in attempting to arrest Meyers for riding on a switching locomotive.

BILL PROHIBITING PARKING ON OAKLAND AV. APPROVED

Aldermanic Committee Bars Stopping on Parts of Fourth, Pine, Olive and Locust.

A bill prohibiting parking at all times on most of the length of Oakland avenue was approved yesterday by the Board of Aldermen. It covers both sides of Oakland, between Kingshighway and Clayton avenue, and the north side, between Clayton and Skinker boulevard.

The entire north side adjoins the Market trolley right of way, which is next to Forest Park. The principal places on the south side, between Clayton and Kingshighway, are The Arena and Forest Park Highlands, which have parking lots; St. Louis University Stadium and the university's high school.

Other bills prohibiting parking, approved by the committee, cover the following streets: East side of Fourth street, between Elm and Walnut, where trolley loop, between 7 a. m. and 6 p. m.; both sides of Pine, Olive, Locust, St. Charles and Vine streets, between third and Fourth, where the streets are narrow and one-way. Parking on one side is forbidden now, between 7 a. m. and 6 p. m.; west side of Dolman street, where parked cars and trolleys interfere with traffic, at all hours.

ATTORNEY QUITS CASE, SAYS HIS CLIENT DECEIVED HIM

M. J. Gordon Withdraws After Mrs. Oberle Admits Falsity of Breach of Promise Charges.

As a result of the repudiation by Mrs. Anna E. Oberle of her breach of promise suit against Harry Beckerle, 3846 De Tonty street, her attorney, Maurice J. Gordon, appeared before Circuit Judge Hamilton yesterday and withdrew from the case.

Explaining that he had been deceived by his client, Gordon said that both he and his office associates had been impressed by her apparent sincerity in the charges she made, and on seeing her weep as she told the story, believed the charges had some merit. She had admitted in depositions filed in court on Wednesday that she had never seen Beckerle, a neat cutter, until last month and that she was married when she filed suit. She had alleged she had known Beckerle four years.

CHARLEY GELBERT FINDS HE HAS AN IMPERSONATOR

Cardinal Shortstop Routed From Bed by Moving Men; His Name Forged to Check.

Charley Gelbert, Cardinal shortstop, was awakened in his room at Forest Park Hotel today by men who said they were prepared to move his belongings to his new apartment in a nearby apartment house.

"Why, I have no apartment," Gelbert said, "I don't want to move."

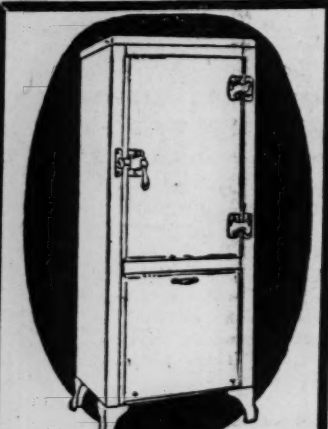

"Can't help that, you rented one. Orders are to move you," the men replied. Inquiry disclosed a young man impersonating the ballplayer had rented the apartment, paying a month's rent in advance with a forged check bearing Gelbert's name, and borrowing $10 from the manager. Gelbert reported the matter to police.

NORTH HILLS COUNTRY

CLUB, June 12.—Bryan Winter,

St. Louis district champion, reached the final round of the twenty-seventh annual Missouri amateur golf tournament here this afternoon with a 5 and 4 victory over Chester O'Brien, Westborough, in a semifinal match. Winter won his third round contest from

Roger Lord, Algonquin, in the morning, 4 and 3.

It will be another Winter-Les

Slattery final, as the Crystal Lake golfer took the other semifinal from Don Lambert of the St. Louis

Country Club, 2 and 1.

Against O'Brien, Winter continued his par shooting, going over the first nine holes in 35 strokes, even par, and being exactly par for the last five holes of the contest.

O'Brien played well at times but he made some mistakes and each one of them proved costly against the steady Winter.

shooting in the match with Lord.

He didn't score a single birdie but he was over par on only two of the 15 holes. He had a bad time on the short No. 2 water hole where he took a 5, two strokes over par, and he had a 5 on the par 4 thirteenth. Aside from those slips

he was seven with par on every hole.

Lord was not at his best. He went out in 49, 5 strokes over par, and made the turn 5 down. Winter went on to win the tenth and eleventh holes to go 5 up, but Lord won the thirteenth to reduce Bryan's margin to four. They halved the fourteenth and fifteenth and the match was over.

Lambert Wins With Putting.

Lambert had his putter working against Manion and it was that club which turned the tide of victory to the Country Club star. Lambert had a medal of 73 for the 18 holes, while Manion took 74 strokes. Lambert gained a 2 up lead on the first nine, on which four holes were won, the others being halved. Lambert won the third, fourth and ninth, while Jimmy won the second. Don had a birdie four on the ninth.

Playing back, Manion squared the bat by winning the twelfth and the match was over.

"I've almost got him where I want him, boys!"

FIELD OF THREE FOR THE $75,000 BELMONT STAKE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Only three thoroughbreds were named today to compete in the $75,000

Belmont Stakes over the mile and one-half route at Belmont Park tomorrow. Mrs. Payne Whitney's

Twenty Grand and George D. Wilson's Meadow make up the starting field.

The listing of only three starters came as somewhat of a surprise. It was thought that at least five would be named as there is third and fourth money. There may be an added starter or two before posttime at about 2:15 St. Louis time.

Although the race figures to be a duel between Twenty Grand and his bright sun and a strong wind were doing their best to put the trailing into the best condition.

It probably will be a trifling

however, a factor that many horsemen say favors Meadow.

On the basis of his brilliant race

in the Kentucky Derby, Twenty Grand is almost certain to go to the post the odds-on favorite, probably 4 to 5, with Meadow,

the second choice, at 6 to 1 or 7

even money. Sun Meadow rates at a 10 to 1 shot to defeat the Wilson and Widener stars.

Boxing Show Postponed.

BOSTON, June 12.—On account of continued heavy rains, Promoter

Eddie Mack put over, until next

Monday his outdoor boxing show, headed by Babe Hunt, Ponca City

(Ok.) heavyweight, and Paul Swiderdick of Syracuse. The bout was originally set for last Monday.

Baseball Scores

finish line 10 lengths ahead of the junior variety and had them beat the up to 26 in the last half mile.

The Irish Hurlers A. C. increased its lead in the St. Louis Amateur Twilight Soccer League last night at Sherman Park, by defeating the Dolans, 3 to 1. The largest crowd of the season witnessed the game, approximately 1000 attending.

The Hurlers scored the first goal of the game four minutes after the start. Finn at right fullback for the Dolans, was responsible for this goal. When attempting to defend his own goal from the rushing Hurler forwards, he made a perfect shot into his own net. The Dolans tied the score five minutes later on a penalty kick. Left Fullback Lou McHenry of the Hurlers handled the ball in the penalty area and Referee Brannigan allowed a free kick and Zerfluh scored.

With only 14 minutes of play the Hurlers made it two when, after a bit of neat pass work inside Right Collins caught the ball on the toe of his left foot and sent a hard shot into the net. A few minutes later the Hurlers had a chance to score another goal on a penalty, when Fullback Finn hit the ball with his hand. Zimmerman took the shot and missed.

The Dolans played a bit better in the second half and at the 15-minute mark they started a bombardment of the Hurlers' goal. The Hurlers, weakened by the suspension of their regular goalie, had some narrow escapes from being scored on, as Goessling in goal, fumbled three shots that were cleared by his teammates. Finally the Hurler fullbacks in defense of their goal, backed into the goal and cleared the ball to the other end of the field. With three minutes to go the Hurlers scored their third goal on a penalty. Right Halfback O'Hare, in attempting to clear, handled the ball. O'Connell took the shot, and the game was never in doubt.

DETROIT GOLF TEAM IS SELECTED FOR MATCH WITH BRITISH STARS

DETROIT, Mich., June 12.—The Detroit district golf team, which will oppose the British Ryder Cup team in a match at Hawthorne Valley Club Sunday, June 23, was complete today, with the selection yesterday of five of the district's national open qualifiers.

The selection committee chose Clarence Gamber, Davey Robertson, Benno Pautke and Jimmy Zeller of Detroit and Nick Weber of Grand Rapids to team up with Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen, Al Watrous, Charley Hilgendorf and Horton Smith, previously chosen. Robert T. Gray, Detroit, runner-up in the qualifying rounds, was chosen as alternate.

Hagen and Smith are members of the American team for the Ryder Cup matches at Columbus, O., June 26 and 27, while Watrous and Hilgendorf are candidates for the few remaining places on the team.

Armour, a native of Scotland, is ineligible for that competition. All five won exemption from the qualifying rounds for the national open by placing within the first 20 in last year's tournament.

Durso to Meet Greb

Danny Durso, featherweight champion of the Mississippi Valley A. A., who has rejoined the South Broadway A. C. boxing team, with which he launched his amateur ring career four years ago, probably will be paired with Harry Greb of the Ruston Men's A. C., or Billy Trout of the Mount City A. C., for an inter-club feature of the outdoor boxing tourney to be presented under the auspices of the South Broadway Club at the Battery Arena next Thursday night, according to Matchmaker Miller.

Cronin Back in Game

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Joe Cronin, crack shortstop of the Washington Nationals, had recovered sufficiently today from a shoulder injury to warrant his playing in the third game of the series with Cleveland. Cronin was struck by one of Finners' fast balls yesterday and finished the inning before retiring from the game.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH TOMMY ARMOUR RETURNS HOME FROM ABROAD

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Tommy Armour of Detroit, who said he was "just lucky, as anyone has to be who wins the British open," returned today on the Aquitania from a successful invasion of the British Isles, lugging the British open golf cup.

His tanned face wreathed in smiles, the "Black Scot" of the Black Watch, now professional of the Tam O'Shanter Club in the Motor City, said he felt his hardest obstacle has been hurdled in his attempt for a professional "grand slam" in golf.

Tommy already holds the Canadian open title, the Professional Golfers' Association title—said to be the hardest title to win in golf—and the British open. He lacks only the United States open, and he's going after that at Toledo, the first week in July. He believes he has a good chance to win it.

Armour was accompanied by Mrs. Armour. The Armours leave at 7 p. m. for Detroit.

Miss Hicks Wins Title.
ROSLYN, N. Y., June 12.—Miss Helen Hicks, Metropolitan champion, yesterday added the women's Eastern gold title to her list, defeating Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia by five strokes in a play-off over the Engineers Country Club course. Miss Hicks scored 82, and Mrs. Hurd 87.

These suits have just everything! Their expensive "made-for-me-look" is the result of masterful designing by a leading English custom-tailor whose establishment is honored by a Royal Warrant. They are grand examples of how much Bond can do at an amazingly low price—because we make the clothes we sell. That's why they're getting the business of particular men who want more proof and less talk about the lower price of Fine Clothes.

UNION HEADS URGE HOOVER TO CALL COAL CONFERENCE

Executive Board Asks That Meeting Be Summoned to Find Remedy for Plight of Industry.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 12. The Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America, through John L. Lewis, international president, has asked President Hoover to call a meeting of representatives of mine operators and coal miners, "for the purpose of mutually discussing the problems of the industry and finding a common basic understanding."

In a telegram to the President, the union executive yesterday described the thousands of bituminous coal miners as "degraded to levels approximating serf labor," the plight of women and children as "inhuman," and the coal operators as "without leadership."

"The operators, the coal miners, coal mining communities and the press of this nation," the appeal continued, "recognize the ill of the bituminous coal industry as being of such a cancerous nature that no self aid can be expected from the industry's own initiative."

"The prevalent belief is that only through the efforts and leadership of outside influence can a basis be reached for a correction of existing abuses. The bituminous coal industry needs no further investigation—the facts of this backward and ill-functioning industry are known to all who would trouble themselves to ascertain them."

"Already there has been too much palliative talk and insufficient action. The Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America feels that the inhuman plight of the women and children, the insecurity of the capital assets of the coal companies, the degradation of the men employed in the coal mines, which are breeding communism and anarchy, are of such serious element that the Government of the United States can no longer pursue passive policy."

Operators Would Attend.
The Executive Board said it had assurance that many representative coal operators would attend such a conference as requested, and pledged its assistance in making the meeting "an effective agency in meeting the exigencies that demand such action."

Union officers said the Executive Board, which has been in session here this week, had discussed conditions in the bituminous coal fields, where disorders have occurred recently.

"We feel," the message to the President concluded, "that the crisis is one of such vital importance, the degradations in the coal industry so far reaching, that the conference, when called, should not be delegated as a department matter, but should be sponsored and aided to the fullest extent possible by your office."

President Hoover, as Secretary of Commerce in 1924, was instrumental in the settlement known as the "Jacksonville agreement," which continued for three years the wage scale of $1.50 a day and $1.08 a ton set by the Federal Coal Commission in 1920.

"Three years have passed," the message to the President said, "since the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce investigated and reported chaotic conditions in the bituminous coal industry. Despite the hunger, desperation, bankruptcies and startling unemployment revealed by the Senate investigation, conditions in the bituminous coal industry have steadily grown worse. Unrestrained competition has degraded thousands of bituminous coal miners to levels approximating serf labor."

Acute in Near States.
"This condition is most acute in the great coal producing states of Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania, where the intensity of the struggle has reduced wages and sales prices to levels insufficient to maintain bare human subsistence."

"Your knowledge and experience as a mining engineer especially, equips you to recognize the necessity of the bituminous coal industry adopting a program stabilizing labor costs as the first fundamental step to a correction of present day ills. The history of the bituminous coal industry reveals that the joint wage agreement has been the only stabilizing force the industry has ever known."

"Therefore, in view of the inability of the operators to function of their own initiative and the helplessness and hopelessness of the situation in the mining communities, the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America feels that it is asking for nothing more than justice in appealing to you, as President of the United States, to sponsor and convene, at your earliest convenience, a joint meeting of representatives of operators and coal miners."

Borah Goes Home for Rest.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senator Borah of Idaho left last night for his home smilingly declining to comment on his role in next year's presidential campaign. It is known that he took with him for reading this summer some of the suggestions from various parts of the country that he enter the Republican presidential campaign. Borah said he had no speaking engagements for the summer and that he intended to rest.

GOVERNMENT BROADCASTING CHAIN FOR SCHOOLS PROPOSED Senator Dill Would Have Them Under Federal and State Joint Control.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—To have the Government to teach school by radio, Senator Dill has proposed a national system of school broadcasting stations under joint state and Federal control.

Returning from a visit to five European countries, the Washington Democrat, one of the framers of the radio act, said he would introduce legislation at the next session to establish such a system.

"I think something must be done so that the United States will not miss the use of the radio in school teaching," Dill said. "England, Germany and Sweden are now using the radio in education."

POPE'S NEW NOTE TO ITALY SAID TO BE CONCILIATORY

US XI Adopts Mild Tone and the Vatican Expects Dispute to Be Settled Within Week.

PEAKS AS FATHER TO WAYWARD SON

Antiff Displeased With Bishop Who Misunderstood Order and Dissolved Catholic Societies.

Associated Press.
VATICAN CITY, June 12.—The pope's reply to the Italian Government's recent note in the church-state controversy, was handed to papal Nuncio Borgognini-Duca today with an order to deliver it at once to Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy.

Details were not made public but the note is believed to be conciliatory in tone and is said to be milder than previous Vatican notes.

A high Vatican official said "within a week now everything will be settled."

Before handing over the note, Pope Pius XI conferred with his council for an hour and a half.

He was reported to have adopted a tone of a father to a wayward son instead of that of an independent sovereign to a foreign Power.

An incident bearing on the controversy is reported to have caused the pope considerable displeasure.

Shop Luigi Cosmo of Loretto, center of pilgrimages, apparently interpreted the pope's recent letter that Catholic Action was under the direction of the Bishops.

The Bishop dissolved all Catholic societies in his diocese, thus going even farther than the Italian Government. Bishop Cosmo, who spent several years in Washington as auditor of the papal delegation, widely known in America.

Under the papal policy toward Catholic Action announced in October Romano, diocesan Bishop have more direct charge of branches of the society than in the past, but the general supervision remains with the Vatican.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy for the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Justice Hughes and the Supreme Court.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Post-Dispatch has voiced the pleasure of all liberals in the recent decisions rendered by Mr. Chief Justice Hughes. Despite his liberal leanings as Governor of New York, he became a candidate for President by the support of the Today-Evening-Star group, the Republican party. He later became the head of the Cabinets of both Harding and Coolidge, without any visible uneasiness in that dubious company, or public expression of disapproval. And finally he accepted the nomination to return to the bench from President Hoover. It was inevitable that the liberals of the Senate, both Democrats and Republicans, would fear his return and oppose his confirmation. The Constitution-clerical holds a secular document as sacred, despite its flexibility in the hands of the Justices of the Supreme Court; the popular belief that has grown up that the Supreme Court alone has the final power of interpretation over not only the executive and legislative branches of the Federal Government, but also over the states in matters not only legal but often executive and political, and the fact that the Justices rule practically for life without any necessary restraint whatever from popular opinion and will—all these factors make the Supreme Court in many varied matters an almost absolute dictator of an otherwise democratic republic. It is generally recruited from aging, successful lawyers with a natural tendency to conservatism, biased by court practice for wealthy clients. The Supreme Court was the last stronghold of the waning power of slavery. It may become in the future the last stronghold of an anti-social capitalism being restrained to social uses.

Despite the importance of the cases decided, I fear liberals must be too hopeful of the Chief Justice's renewed progressivism. His enhanced prestige is a danger.

Even as Governor, Mr. Hughes opposed the amendment legalizing Federal income taxes. The utilities and other giant have not yet been tried in his court. Stone and Roberts have not served long. The only dependable liberals are still Brandeis and Holmes, one nearly 80 and the other over 80 years of age.

L. E. Rolfe, Mo.

Hoover's Plea Fades Under Analysis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE number of comments in this column on the President's Valley Forge platitudes is certainly encouraging and indicative of a general awakening of the people.

Mr. Hoover's patriotic plea will not stand analysis. "The expanded light of simple logic, it loses its appeal. Certainly there is no similarity between President Hoover's sit-tight attitude and the spirit of '76. If our citizens of today had more of the red blood which flowed through the veins of our grandfathers at Valley Forge, we would have already found a way out of this sad economic crisis."

President Hoover is just kidding us all, himself included. Plutocracy does not want to see manifest the spirit of '76.

WILLIS D. AYLESWORTH.

Passing of the Gigolo.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOW that the gigolo industry has gone into bankruptcy, we may be able to turn on our radios without getting an ear full of "Just a Gigolo." In the city of New York alone, some 2000 of these whoopee loafers may have to go to work. Stern reality and the depression in the night club racket have put a crimp in another post-war custom indulged in and supported by foolish women. Police records show that many of these feather-footed "boy friends" were scheming criminals. Some were well known to the law to have been procurers. Others have been trailed and trapped for mysterious jewel robberies.

Music hacks and sweet-scented crooners who write and sing songs of this type should be corralled with the gigolo buzzards and the whole aggregation relegated to the rubbish heap.

JAMES MCINTOSH.

Hot Springs, Ark.

Sonnet.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

KNOWING you not at all, you are, no less.

Something akin to April, or a strain Of music with a haunting loveliness—

A drift of bells—a whispering of rain.

A gentle wind that, murmuring from a cool,

Green depth of lonely valley, softly strums

The weeping willows by a silver pool

In forests where the moonlight never comes.

You are at one with every lovely thing Of fragrance, hue or melody; and thus

Will you depart at length, remembering That of all earth I was idolatrous—

Remembering that, faithful or untrue, My dream was beauty's dream, and beauty you.

CARDINAL LE GROS.

THE UNITED STATES AND REPARATIONS.

Alanson B. Houghton, former Ambassador to Germany and Great Britain, speaking at the commencement exercises of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, warned of world chaos unless all the great nations aid Germany in her present crisis. He declared, as Chancellor Brüning told England a few days before, that Germany's collapse "must not be regarded as impossible or perhaps far removed."

"I want you to realize," he said, "that 12 years after the war the situation is not improving and may be changing for the worse. Germany, I am inclined to believe, has been pushed about as far as she can go."

His statement that the United States' relation to Germany's finances was comparatively trifling, however, was misleading. "Even if we remitted the payments now coming to us," he said, "the action would have little, if any, direct effect upon existing world conditions of depression and unemployment." That is true of Germany's direct obligation to the United States, which, as explained on this page on June 8, is inconsiderable. But it is not true of the sums lent by us to the Allies, which are enormous. The payments due on these sums are made by the Allies, who in turn collect from Germany the sums that Germany owes to them. Hence, Germany's bankruptcy will affect nearly all of the obligations of the Allies to the United States. The Allies cannot pay to us what they are unable to collect, because they are all, possibly excepting France, in serious financial straits.

The former Ambassador is wise in suggesting that relief must come to Germany by the action of all her creditors. But the inevitable conclusion forces itself upon us that other nations either will not or cannot do this unless the United States still further reduces their burdens.

The argument commonly advanced by those who favor such action on our part is a sound one. We were either in the war or out of it. If we wish to consider that our entry into the war was a mistake and that we are now in the position of ordinary money lenders who advanced cash to the Allies when it was needed and now insist upon its payment in full, our only question is that which faces any other creditor, the question whether our debtor has enough money to pay and can be forced to do so. But if we consider that the war was our war, we must credit our former allies with honesty in their present point of view, which is that for a long period after our entry into that war, while we were mobilizing and training our soldiers to fight, they were protecting our lives with their own. We were furnishing money, they blood. We were taking notes for our loans; they were sacrificing lives for which there was no accounting. And they are now supporting by pensions and by dole the dependents of 5,000,000 of the dead, where our loss in lives was only 126,000. And as to the wounded, their list mounted to nearly 12,600,000, ours to 234,300.

What Europe is calling for today is a revaluation of human life, a definite acceptance of the principle that we were in fact participants in a war in which our money shall no longer be held more sacred than their lives. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler says the war debts cannot be paid and must be charged to profit and loss. Whether that is entirely true or not, making Germany the sole debtor has brought her to a perilous pass. For us to ameliorate that burden may be the means of helping her out of the chaos into which Mr. Houghton fears she is about to sink.

Apparently the time has passed for considering if the Allied nations would only apply their remissions to more armament. We are faced by necessity.

FLOOD NEWS FROM BROADWAY.

J. J. Shubert has returned, says the Broadway gossip column of the New York Times, from St. Louis, where Municipal Opera "annually takes place in the open summer air, the Mississippi permitting." From this learned comment, we judge that news of the 1927 flood at last has penetrated to Gotham, though in rather garbled form. So this for the benefit of Broadwayites interested in facts about foreign parts: The opera, being farther from the river than the width of Manhattan, has melody as usual no matter what the river does, and never requires rafts for spectators. Perhaps somebody tried to tell Broadway how the River des Peres used to invade the dressing rooms, and the cable report was slightly muddled in translation, to read "Father of Rivers" instead of "River of the Fathers." But the big sewer changed all that, and the annoying little stream, torrents, smells and all, now is safely underground. If the "See America First" movement ever gets anywhere, maybe some adventurous Broadway denizen will journey out this way to see the Municipal Opera. Well, he needn't bring his water wings.

STORY OF CAR LOADINGS.

For many years the weekly computations of revenue freight car loadings were accepted as the most significant barometer of what the country's business was doing. If merchandise was selling, the theory ran, most of it moved by freight, and the record of car loadings told the story. If grain, livestock and ore were being marketed, the shipments reflected the extent. Using this criterion for checking business activities of 1931, a considerable loss is seen from the totals of 1930 and 1929. Figures for the last week in May, just issued by the American Railway Association, show 710,334 carloads, as compared with $60,064 for the same week in 1930, and 972,825 for 1929. This would indicate a 17 per cent drop in business from last year, and a loss of 27 per cent from 1929. Railway Age points out that loadings now are down virtually to the figure for 1921, a year of severe depression, and calls this "a significant and even startling fact."

However, additional factors now enter, altering the ocular character of car loadings from their status in other days. The railroads' steady loss of freight business to trucks and waterways causes their record of loadings no longer to tell the complete story. Even the carriers are able to find a ray of cheer in the report for the week ending May 30, though it showed a drop of 44,137 cars from the previous week. This shrinkage, amounting to 5.6 per cent, is explained by the Memorial day holiday. However, the contraction for that week in 1930 was 8.6 per cent. The decreases from last year's totals grow steadily less week by week, and the downward trend of the second week in May which occurred in 1930 was not noted this year.

For the Middle West, there is encouragement in the way grain and grain products have been holding up. These commodities show the smallest decrease of any product from last year. The car loadings for the week ending May 30 totaled 34,822, a loss of 1760, or 4.8 per cent, from 1930, as compared with the 17 per cent decrease for all products. The assurance of good crops in the central region gives hopes for further revival in grain and livestock shipments.

WHAT "PROTECTION" REALLY MEANS.

It seems certain that the tariff will play an important part in coming political discussions. It will undoubtedly be raised in the next Congress and be an issue in the election of 1932. Few public spirited citizens, whatever their views on the tariff, would disagree with the proposition that it is a problem calling for the best thought of the American electorate. One thing, however, which hampers clear thinking on the tariff is the very word used to describe a system of high tariffs—"protection."

Tariff beneficiaries have played artfully upon this word to further their interests. Is it not the function of the Government to protect? We protect our citizens from robbers, our buildings from fire, our workers from insanitary conditions, our children from disease. Are the prosperity of the American farmer and manufacturer, and the standard of living of the American worker, not worthy of protection against the competition of cheap foreign goods? Thus runs an argument familiar to every American. It sounds plausible, and its insidious appeal has won probably millions of votes.

A brief analysis of this type of argument, which underlies much of the present support of "protection," will show that it is based on a completely false idea as to the nature and benefits of trade. It assumes that the foreigner who comes to sell us goods is a thief in the night, against whom the state should protect its people. But in fact he is the merchant, bringing products that foreign countries can produce more cheaply to exchange for American goods which our resources and our industrial organization enable us to produce more cheaply. Instead of taking work from Americans, foreign trade gives Americans the chance to work in those lines in which our country is most efficient. We cannot sell unless we buy, and the higher the tariff, the less we can buy and the less we can sell. It is against the spirit of progress represented by trade, and not against thieves, that we are "protected" by high tariffs.

What "protection" does is to give a subsidy to some producers at the expense of other producers who are more efficient or whose production is more suited to American conditions. Perhaps it is desirable to give such subsidies under certain conditions, but that is an issue which should be decided on its own merits. One of the most vicious features of our so-called "protection" is that it subsidizes, in an underhand way by money taken from the pockets of the American consumer, industries that the public would never consent to subsidize by a direct bounty raised through taxation.

As virtually every American believes in protection in the sense of fire or police protection, to put the tariff issue to him as a choice between supporting or opposing "protection" is much like asking the famous question, "Have you stopped beating your wife?" The tariff can be discussed in its true light if the public will realize that the issue is not "protection," but whether some Americans are to be taxed in order to subsidize other Americans. Good arguments can be advanced for subsidizing certain industries, at least temporarily; but once the halo of the word "protection" can be dragged from the brow of the tariff, the way has been prepared for an intelligent discussion of the issues involved.

IN DARKEST TENNESSEE.

Tennessee stands pat. An effort to repeal its anti-evolution law failed in the House of Representatives by the convincing vote of 58 to 14. The earth did not evolve, but was created in six days. Contrary testimony in the rocks, in plants and animals, and in man himself, is false. Darwin, Lamarck and Huxley are impostors. Their followers are a deluded multitude. That is Tennessee's story. Officially, the State has learned nothing since this law was put on the books or since the Scopes trial brought down upon it the amazement and ridicule of the civilized world.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY FOR ALIENS.

The killing at Ardmore, Ok., of two Mexican students by a deputy sheriff is likely to cost the United States a pretty penny. Claims have been filed by the Mexican Government for indemnity and will undoubtedly be paid unless it can be shown that the students, one of whom was related to President Ortiz Rubio, were guilty of serious law violation. It is a principle of international law that nations are responsible for reasonable protection to aliens while they conduct themselves in accordance with the laws of the land. Last December, speaking on this point, Solicitor Hackworth of the State Department said:

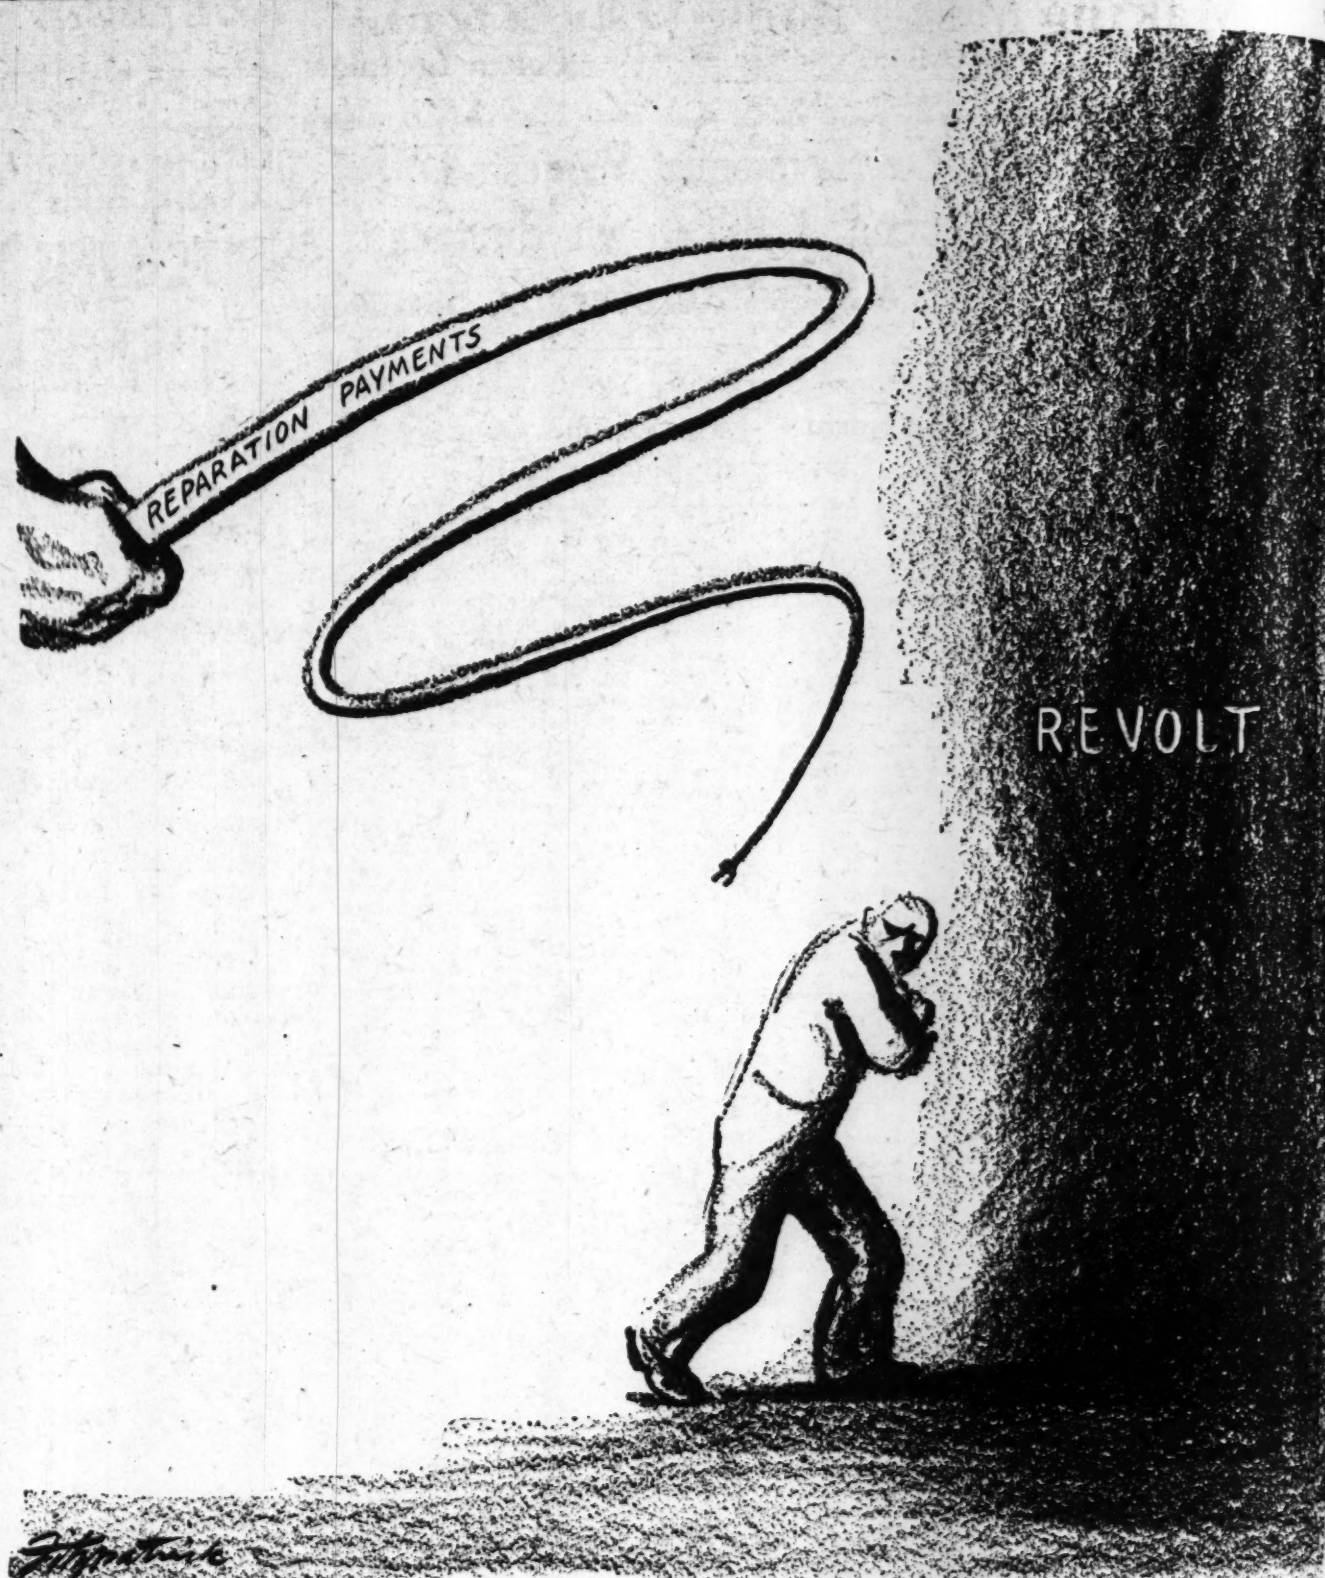

The alien is supposed to accept the laws and institutions which the residents of the country find suitable to themselves. . . and assumes a relationship toward the state of his residence generally referred to by writers as "temporary allegiance." . . . (The state should) afford aliens means of redress for injuries which must not be less adequate than those afforded nationals of the country.

We paid Italy a $25,000 indemnity for the lynching of 12 Italians in New Orleans in 1891, after diplomatic relations had been severed in protest. The Italians were killed by a mob while they were in jail in connection with the murder of a New Orleans Mayor. For acts of violence against Chinese in the Northwest, we paid several hundred thousand dollars.

Perhaps if there were some way of forcing the locality in which an act of brutality toward aliens occurs to foot the bill, we should have fewer incidents of this nature.

READ IT AND WEEP.

They're a haggard squad as they slump away from the eighteen green. Of merry quip, of airy repartee, of kind-hearted, if rough, rally, not a sign, not even a silver. One of them, of course, has the low score, but there's none of the old familiar fingerprints to identify the victor. There isn't a strutter in the party. It is a melancholy group. Failure has set its dark seal on every steaming brow. Not a word is spoken—at least nothing for quotation. And the terraces, balconies and piazzas—the orchestra circle, so to speak, of the nineteenth hole—are wrapped in the same deep gloom as envelops our four pilgrims. Joy has fled the fairways. Gayety has departed from the clubhouse. Down to the last man they all carry the badge of frustration. If "schizoidmanic" means what we think it does, that's the word for them. Life is a total loss. It's the new golf ball.

Can Japan Save China?

China faces perils of Communist conquest and destructive civil war, Frenchman writes; unable to defend herself, only mandate by Powers to Japan to restore order can preserve nation; views Nippon as wrongly suspected by western pacifists of imperialist designs when she desires only peace; assails Nanking regime as tyrannical.

CHINA is in a state of complete decay, and the prospect of the Bolshevization of this enormous nation seems an only too immediate possibility. What is the best counterpoise to the growing menace of Moscow? Japan, without a doubt. That nation alone can erect an effective barrier against the Bolshevist assault on China. But Japan cannot proceed successfully unless it maintains itself solidly in Manchuria, which is like a little fort protecting Northern China and Korea.

Through Manchuria, as far as the frontiers of Japanese Korea, the Bolshevists are extending their power along the Chinese Eastern Railway. China wants this railway, but what can it do in the face of Moscow, which is more Czarist in Asia now than it was under the Czars? Moscow's attack on Northern Manchuria represents a permanent menace to Japan. Bolshevism is installing itself and digging in all along the Chinese frontier, seeking mastery over China's communications and strategic centers.

Japan is on guard against this dangerous neighbor. In 1910 it annexed Korea, which is an advanced bastion protecting the Japanese archipelago. It has also established itself in Southern Manchuria by means of the railway inherited from Russia after the war of 1904-05. It has constructed a railway of great strategic value running from Antung to Mukden. Recently Japan has also built a railway in Western Manchuria which is to join the Chinese Eastern Railway at Tsitsihar, a railway that annoys Moscow very much, since it will allow a body of troops to cut that great railway to Vladivostok.

China is incapable of holding Russia in check in Manchuria and thus of protecting Korea. Only Japan is able to do this, and in protecting itself it is protecting China. Moreover, there is no doubt at all that Japan is assuring world peace by blocking the assaults of Moscow.

To the west and south we see China, immense China, always suffering from revolution and upheaval since the Republic was installed in 1912. In spite of Washington, which has given Nanking firmer support than has any other capital, China keeps on drifting, looking for some new equilibrium it will never find as long as it remains in the clutches of the Kuomintang.

Japan wants peace in China and an improvement in the economic situation, which has been greatly damaged by civil war and by the Nanking Government. But Tokyo can well be reproached for its weakness toward Young China, even when its own considerable interests are at stake. The only energetic action Japan has taken was its intervention at Tsinanfu in Shantung when the Japanese colony was threatened with a general massacre. But Tokyo, always anxious about foreign opinion, withdrew its troops from Shantung at a time when they would have been able to make an imposing impression on all the Chinese factions. Civil war could have been stopped, stabilization might have begun and perhaps the unfortunate Chinese people would have been at peace.

Why did Japan not profit from this unique opportunity? The reason is that all the little religious and pacifist groups in America have always opposed Japan. All the Socialist committees in Europe and all our leagues for the rights of man raise their voices in denunciation of Japanese imperialism, ignoring its real aims. Tokio dares not brave the abuse of these noisy professional humanitarians. It bows and submits. What is the result? Every informed European familiar with Chinese affairs predicts the same thing—continued anarchy, fratricidal war, bloodshed, misery, famine, Moscow gaining a new and important triumph in the heart of Central China.

Is it not strange that these "humanitarians" are interested only in the most questionable element in China, in young politicians without plans or consciences, tyrants who know how to talk the jargon of democracy and thus spread illusions about themselves? The common, despoiled masses, massacred by traitors and bandits, are not considered at all.

None the less, Japan continues to defend the cause of peace, and by occupying certain strategic positions in Manchuria has happily been able to paralyze up to now the most dangerous plans of Moscow, which have often been put in motion with the assistance of the imprudent Young China movement and with the indirect aid of the great American Republic, whose hostility to Japan has been made all too obvious in recent years.

The United States ought to recognize that the present social order in the world cannot last and that peace cannot be established unless Japan is backed up in its resistance to Bolshevist barbarism. Does America, in paying court to Young China, want to repulse Japan and compel that country to ally itself with Moscow and Berlin?

Regulating Highway Transport

From Railway Age.

THE interests of the railroads, of manufacturers and operators of buses and trucks and of shippers are incidentally involved in the question of regulation of carriers by highway, but the real issue is to the interest of the public.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission a memorandum opposing "the imposition of more rigid governmental control over highway carrier truck operation," on the grounds that "governmental interference with private business should not be extended," and that truck regulation is not desired by and would not be in the interest of shippers or the general public.

The interest of the public is to have each class of traffic handled by that agency which can handle it the most economically, differences in service considered. Present Government policies aid highway carriers to take traffic from the railroads. It would be in the public interest for traffic to be taken from them by other agencies if the other agencies could render as good service at a lower total cost than the railroads, or better service at as low a total cost.

Subsidizing of highway carriers results in taxation of private motorists and the general public for the benefit of those who ship by highway and in the loss to the railroads of earnings from traffic which they could handle at a lower total cost than it can be handled on the highways. Obviously, it is contrary to the public interest for highway transportation to be subsidized with the result of both increasing public taxation and unwarrantably undermining the earning capacity of the railroads.

"Reminding the commission that regulation had been enacted to protect the shipping public from irregularities and unfair treatment," counsel for the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce declares that "the testimony of shippers indicates clearly the absence of any need for similar protection from highway carriers. Motor truck transportation is subject to the most effective possible regulation—that of sharp competition." It was "sharp competition" between the railroads that caused rebating and the other forms of unfair discrimination for the abolition of which the original act to regulate commerce was passed, and there is abundant reason for believing it is resulting in highway carriers today indulging in every form of discrimination that that act forbids the railroads to practice. The big shipper can now use highway transportation to secure in competition with the small shipper the same unfair advantages that he formerly derived from railroad discrimination. If a revival of these discriminatory practices is in the public interest, why continue to forbid the practice by railroads?

The railroads, under a policy of equal treatment, could hold all but their short haul traffic in competition with other existing means of land transportation. Most of the traffic they are losing to other carriers is being lost because they are strictly regulated without being subsidized, while other carriers are subsidized without being comparably regulated. If proponents of other means of transportation do not believe this, why do they defend subsidizing and oppose regulation of other means of transportation, while failing to suggest either subsidies or a reduction of regulation for the railroads?

JOHN G. NEIL

The Laureate of the

RUNUP. By Will James. (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City. $2.50.)

EVERY one of the cowboy and the great open country of the West had actually vanished with yesterday's seven thousand years, as many people now seem persuaded to believe, there would be no reason to fear that the memory of the cowboy would die so long as the books of Will James exist.

There is a voluminous literature of the cowboy and much of it is authentic; but no other writer has created a living picture of the cowboy and the cattle country so complete and so vivid as has Will James. One reason for this may be that he is not recording memories of a vanished period, but rather depicting with the glow of immediate experience a continuing mode of life that is his own. As he is in a foreword to the present collection of cowboy stories, "the open West still holds a third of the U. S. A." and the cowboy is still very much alive, as anyone may prove for himself by getting well off the transcontinental highways. In my own little country in Southern Montana," he says, "there's an outfit running 45,000 head of cattle and many horses. I can ride out from my ranch house and in an hour's time find antelope and many bunches of wild horses—and keep on riding for 75 miles without striking a fence. There's many parts of the West still more open than took generations to make the cowboy and it will take many more to lose him."

Certain spectacular phases of the old cattle industry have passed—the long drives out of Texas into the pastures of the North, for instance, and the Indian troubles, but what is nonexistent of the cowboy as a type is chiefly that which never existed save in the minds of romantic romancers. As for the fine arts of the buckaroo—broncho-busting, roping and the rest of it—they are not right now enjoying an Augustan Age, as any great rodeo will attest.

Those who know any of the work of Will James—who and who reads doesn't?—need no assurance as to the adequacy of his gifts and the absorbing interest of his yarns. Those here collected are among his best. In becoming a writer about cowboy life he did not cease to be first and last a cowboy, and it is his triumph that in producing literature of a distinct and authentic type, he has not made the mistake of becoming literary.

ROCKNE. By Warren Brown. (Reilly & Lee Co., Chicago, $2.50.)

Warren Brown puts a biographical sketch of Knute Rockne into an appendix and devotes the bulk of his book to a series of anecdotes, portraying the character of the great Notre Dame coach. Brown knew Rockne intimately and was thoroughly acquainted with the environment in which "Rock" did his life's work. As Slip Madigan, coach of St. Mary's College, Oakland, Cal., said in a telegram of appreciation of Brown's book, Brown "knew the workman, he knew his workshop and he knew the handicraft of his work."

Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame University, in a foreword, suggests that "in a true biography, the subject of it should live. The making of a biography is not properly an embalming process."

Brown, an entertaining writer, with a highly developed sense of humor, certainly makes Rockne live in his book.

A NEW SLANT ON AMERICA. By Paul Achard. Translated from the French by Margaret Gaffey Mel. (Rand McNally & Co., Chicago and New York, $2.)

An account of the impression the United States made on a French writer during a flying trip with other artists and writers to the larger cities across the continent. Achard writes interestingly, and his comments are highly flattering; he gives somewhat the impression of having been in a continual state of amazement. By far the greater portion is given over to the traveling picture industry, although there are comments on the feminine situation which he analyzes as a case of protection and laws allowing freedom; prohibition, which he thinks is saving the race for the future, and the Negro. He returns to France and finds some of the French conditions distasteful at first.

THE CURIOUS CAR. By Lillian K. Craig. (Bruce Publishing Co., New York.)

The curious thing about the Craig car is that it talks, which is something that most cars are unable to do. Its talk is mostly about its experiences with Bobby and Susie and other children, and a few grownups who rode in it from time to time. It is entertaining reading for children who are not too old or too wise to doubt that a car, under sufficient provocation, might break into speech.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 12.

PRACTICALLY everything in the way of original records of the discovery, exploration and settlement of our country is in Europe. A great deal of Colonial history is also located there. In Scandinavia and Iceland documents possibly exist relating to this country before the time of Columbus. Scholars report a vast amount of material in the archives of Spain, France, and Holland concerning our early history that has never been carefully investigated. The Vatican is supposed to be another source of important material. London has been only partially examined.

All these original sources of the history of this country ought to be thoroughly explored by competent scholars. The new method of photographing documents on films so that they can be reproduced on a screen when wanted would seem to be an inexpensive method of making these ancient records available to students. This work might well be undertaken by the National government, by a university, or some of the charitable societies. A great mass of important documents are known to exist from the observations of those searching for facts concerning some specific event of individual life, but they have never been systematically studied. The whole record should be disclosed.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK. THOUGHTS while strolling: Everybody hitting it off for the oysters. But that doesn't compare to the cool of the evening at the old swimmin' hole. Always a smart-looking flapper drifting out of the Plaza. Katherine Brush, an East Liverpool (O.) girl who made good in the city.

Bud Fisher and Mayor Walker look alike. Arthur Hopkins has the ruddiest cheeks in town. And Carl Van Vechten the bluest eyes. The clerks in Tuxedos at the Sherry-Netherland. Helen Gould's home is treated to a sand-blasting. And it is about time. Frisco bills himself as Mr. Joe Frisco.

The cloying odor of the subway in the rush downtown. And welcome fresh winds from the harbor alighting at Bowling Green. Lillian Russell once boasted she never rode in the subway. Excursion steamers festooned for all-day picnics. And tooting tufts guiding blind liners.

A big red fire boat ready to shoot out to sea. Fishing smacks from Boston. Whistling echoes tossed back by the skyscrapers. Wall street—there's an unholy mess. Too far for passport photo parties. A flash of swift-veined heat lightning in a cloudless sky.

Immigrants in forlorn huddles. Carrying shawled bundles. And moving with the lethargy of driven sheep. But in a few years they will be thoroughly American. Smart cracking on Broadway corners. Concession stands strung with cast-iron souvenirs. What ever became of Hans Lobert?

General manager and vice president up to the sale of the World to the New York Telegram. The lower Broadway hurrah. Life at full stream. Eddies. Cross currents. Deep channels. Somebody better be doing something about business.

Unburned pilots leaning out windows, puffing stub pipes. The frightened awks of racing sea gulls. Silver-tipped wavelets. Soft winds spring into sudden puffs. And soon it will be snow. Wish I could tap dance to "Sidewalks of New York" like Eddie Dowling.

A. J. DREXEL BIDDLE JR. MARRIES COPPER HEIRESS. Sportsman Weds Mrs. Margaret Schulze, Daughter of Late W. B. Thompson, in London. By the Associated Press. LONDON, June 12.—Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Margaret Schulze, daughter of the late William Boyce Thompson, American copper magnate, were married at noon today in the Registry Office on Princess Row.

The Biddle plan to spend their honeymoon in a tour of England and the continent before returning to the United States to make their home. Biddle was divorced March 7 from his first wife, Mary L. Duke, daughter of the late Benjamin M. Duke, tobacco manufacturer.

The bride wore a frock of ivory-colored lace and silk with a close-fitting hat. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Thompson, relatives and friends. After the marriage there was a reception at the Ritz Hotel. Biddle is widely known as a sportsman and has interested himself particularly in boxing. William Boyce Thompson, the father of Mrs. Schulze, died in 1920, leaving an estate of about $85,000,000. His daughter is a director of the Newmont Mining Co.

RUTH NICHOLS TO CROSS ATLANTIC THROUGH UPPER AIR

In Case of Storm, She Will Go to Altitude of 30,000 Feet or More.

NEW YORK, June 12.—On a solo flight to Europe, scheduled to start within a few days if the weather is good, Ruth Nichols, holder of three woman's air records, will traverse the cold regions of the upper air.

The cabin of her plane is heated by the engine, making the enclosed space so warm that she only expects to wear a cotton jumper over her sports dress, although she will take a heavy flying suit in case of need. On her head she will have a bandana instead of the fur-lined helmet necessary for altitude flying in less protected ships.

But there will be no way to offset the freezing effect of cold oxygen on her tongue, which became stiff with cold from this source during the flight in which she established a new altitude record for women.

On the Atlantic flight Miss Nichols will carry two flasks of oxygen, which will be placed in the unheated wings above her, with rubber tubes hanging in either side of her head. She expects to fly high, in case of storms in the lower strata of the atmosphere going up to 30,000 feet or more. At such heights she will need oxygen.

Illinois U. Student Ends Life. By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Clarence Hawkinson, 20 years old, a student at the University of Illinois, was found dead of a bullet wound at the home of his parents yesterday. Police said he had committed suicide. The parents said they thought the boy possibly had killed himself in a moment of hysteria brought on by too intense application to his studies.

MORE TAX RIOTING BY COMMUNISTS IN GERMAN CITIES

hundreds of millions more than had been expected.

Unemployment relief alone, for example, instead of an estimated $42,320,000, swallowed $95,494,000. Extraordinary budget receipts were only $223,146,000, instead of $307,970,000 as had been estimated. The latter included $193,798,000 from loans.

Extraordinary budget expenditures were $105,771,000, roughly $24,610,000 less than was anticipated, so there was a surplus of $117,369,000. This, however, was turned into a deficit of $77,037,000 chiefly by accumulated adverse balances carried forward from the years 1926-1927 to 1929-30, aggregating $177,491,000.

The yield from the hotly-contested emergency decrees promulgated last week is expected to cover a part of the huge deficit facing the Finance Minister.

Tax Agitation in Diets. Mob violence had its counterpart in verbal warfare against the tax decrees. Communist deputies in the Prussian Diet agitated strongly for revolutionary action and demanded the formation of a dictatorship.

The official opinion is said to be that political leaders are thereby trying to save their own faces and keep the voters satisfied with their own programs.

Once again, as after the National Socialist landslide of September, 1930, the eyes of Germany are on Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, Europe's youngest Premier. He departed last evening for Neudeck, the East Prussia summer place of President Paul von Hindenburg, to make his report to the President on the Chequers (England) conversations with British leaders and the German political situation.

The new emergency tax decrees drawn up by Brüning and promulgated by President von Hindenburg last Saturday, lay additional financial burdens on all German classes. They slash salaries of Government employees and reduce still further all national and State expenditures. They cut war pensions and delete from the dole list persons under 21 and farm laborers. There also is a new tax on tobacco, sugar and mineral oil. The economies and the new taxes are expected to yield about $414,000,000.

Riot Near Hamburg Church. Communists clashed with authorities at a mass meeting in Berlin attended by 12,000 persons. Police searched them for weapons and made many arrests. Ernst Thaelman, the chief speaker, was taken into custody when he refused to submit to search.

As the crowd moved away from the Sportsplatz after the meeting police were forced to fire blank cartridges and to use their clubs to maintain order. Several newspaper offices were placed under guard to prevent rioters from damaging them.

Five persons were wounded in Hamburg, when police broke up a radical demonstration near the English church. Ten thousand persons were present at a gathering preceding the outbreak.

One person was killed and two were injured at Lauenburg as a result of authorities' efforts to separate a mob of Communists fighting among themselves. Police were attacked when they tried to quell the row, originating in a manifestation, and had to resort to firearms to fight their way out.

Conflict between Communists and National Socialists brought 20 arrests in Bremen. Officers attempted to rescue the Nazis and the Reds pelted both groups with stones, using iron drainpipes for hand-to-hand fighting.

Radical disorders broke out in Kassel for the second successive night. Threatening crowds gathered in the main streets and resisted police until the latter resorted to clubs and blank cartridges.

The discovery that a 20-year-old shoemaker had been killed while sitting at his window watching police clear the streets the preceding night brought the death toll from rioting to two. The other man killed was a policeman.

KIDNAPED GIRL IS RESCUED. Found in Hiding Academy and One Man Is Arrested.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 12.—Belere Smith, 19-year-old girl reported kidnapped from Waukegan yesterday, was located today in De Forest, Jayne's riding academy near Diamond Lake in Lake County.

Chief of Police Clayton Tiffany of Mundelein and Lake County Deputy Sheriff who rescued the girl, said she had not been harmed. They arrested one man at the stables and went to Willow Springs in Cook County to find three others.

Jean Gordon, 18, who went from Chicago to Waukegan three days ago, told police yesterday two men in an automobile stopped her and Miss Smith on a Waukegan street and offered them jobs as waitresses. When the car reached Diamond Lake the Smith girl was taken into a building. Miss Gordon said she was thrown out of the car near La Grange Park.

WOMAN SAYS FORTUNE TELLER SWINDLED HER OUT OF $375

Mrs. Mary Algermissen, 4613 McPherson avenue, reported to police yesterday that a gypsy fortune teller who had come to her house on Tuesday had swindled her out of $375, most of which she withdrew from a savings account at a neighborhood bank to give to the woman.

Appearing at her home first last Saturday and offering to tell her fortune for 50 cents, the woman obtained $15 that day, and came back again Monday to get $10 more. On Tuesday, after they had discussed a wish of Mrs. Algermissen for "happiness," the woman asked for $350 and received that amount. Mrs. Algermissen said that in each case the woman asked only to take the money to be "blessed," and promised to return it.

The fortune teller was described as a woman of about 25 years, of average height and wearing plain clothes without ornaments.

TERMINAL CONTRACT FOUGHT BEFORE I. C. C.

Chamber of Commerce Opposes New Agreement With Columbia Transfer Firm.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—A new contract between the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association and the Columbia Terminals Co. for off-track station and delivery service was offered in evidence today at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing.

The contract does not affect the published rail tariffs for the service in the St. Louis district, merely setting the rates to be paid by the railroad company to the Columbia Terminals Co., a transfer concern, for completion of the haul between on-track and off-track freight stations.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce objected to the admission of the contract on the ground that it had not been proved that President Miller of the Terminal Railroad Association had received authority from the board of directors to sign the contract.

W. G. Bierd, president of the Chicago & Alton Railroad, which is not included in the agreement with the Columbia Terminals Co. and who also is a director of the Terminal Railroad Association, testified the contract was not considered at a regular meeting of the board of directors, but that it was taken up after adjournment of the regular meeting among representatives of the railroads.

The Chamber of Commerce also objected to an allowance of two cents a hundred pounds in the charges for direct delivery from the railroad car to the customer by the transfer company. The objection was on the ground that the allowance was too small and would not permit independent truckers to compete with the Columbia Co.

The contract proposes that only the off-track stations owned by the Columbia Terminals Co. hereafter would be recognized as stations to which the railroads rates would apply, and that the contracting railroads would give the Columbia Co. a monopoly of the hauling from on-track to off-track stations. The Central Transfer Co., whose off-track stations would be abolished if the contract is approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, has stated that it is prepared to complete the hauls at lower rates than those proposed to be paid to the Columbia Co.

14 BEAUTY CONTESTANTS REACH GALVESTON BY BOAT

Seven European Girls in Party—More to Arrive Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press. GALVESTON, Tex., June 12.—Fourteen beautiful girls, representing 14 nations, arrived today on the Mallory liner Algonquin from New York to participate in the international beauty contest beginning tomorrow.

The contingent included seven European girls and seven from Eastern United States. More than a score of others are expected tomorrow.

European girls arriving on the Algonquin were: Inga Norberg, Miss Sweden; Daisy Freiberg, Miss Germany; Gerda Johansen, Miss Norway; Lucienne Ahmias, Miss France; Karen Schentz, Miss Denmark; Ines Monlissa, Miss Austria; Netta Duchateau, Miss Belgium.

The American girls were: Ellnor Klein, Miss Scranton; Mary Dvorsak, Miss Wyoming Valley; Ruth Doughman, Miss Wilkesbarre; Mary Brown, Miss Pottsville; Peggy Helen Coleman, Miss New York City; Ann Rose Jablonski, Miss Long Island, and Louise O'Neill, Miss Hudson Valley. Two pageant judges, Haskell Coffin and Jules Cannert, New York artists, arrived on the same boat.

ALDERMEN DELAY ACTION ON DRUNKEN DRIVER BILL

A bill sponsored by Police Judge Blaine, to provide punishment for any one operating an automobile while "under the influence of liquor or drugs," was considered by the Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday. Action was deferred until Judge Blaine can tell the committee what he means by the term "under the influence."

City Traffic Engineer Gontier explained to the committee that Judge Blaine had found policemen were unwilling to say drivers were "intoxicated," but would testify that they had been drinking or were "under the influence of liquor." This has resulted in difficulty in convicting drivers who apparently had been drinking.

Alderman Kaufmann, a lawyer, said the ordinance was dangerous to a citizen's rights and Acting Mayor Neun, also a lawyer, advised caution in considering it. Both declared the bill might make it possible to convict a man who had taken a drink or two but was in full possession of his faculties. Punishment provided would be a fine of $5 to $50 or workhouse imprisonment up to six months.

INURED MAN ENDS LIFE

Wife Says He Was Despondent Over Slow Recovery.

Steve Banich, 47 years old, 2619 Hickory street, died at City Hospital yesterday as a result of a self-inflicted stab wound of the throat.

His wife told police he was despondent because of his slow recovery from an injury suffered five months ago, when a piece of metal fell on his foot at the city waterworks, where he was employed.

SUFFERED FROM SKIN AFFECTION

Relieved quickly by Resinol

"For three months I suffered torture from 'weeping eczema,' and the many different remedies I tried only gave me slight temporary relief. Finally I decided to try Resinol Ointment. After the first application the itching was relieved and after three days' treatment the whole affected surface was entirely healed. In view of what I had suffered it seems nothing short of a miracle. (Signed) Ella Mosley, 61 Mt. Auburn St., Watertown, Mass.

The quickness with which Resinol acts in relieving eczema, chafing, rashes, piles, sores, etc. is amazing. Why don't you try it? At all drug stores. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 87, Baltimore, Md.

WHY BANANAS ARE WHOLESOME

Food Value of This Fruit Is Very Carefully Explained.

Bananas are a starchy food, but one which digests easily.

Besides the starch value they contain an appreciable amount of mineral value in calcium, magnesium, potassium, sodium, phosphorus, chlorine, sulphur and iron.

They also contain vitamins and some protein value.

They are not a balanced food, because of the fat deficiency. This easily is added in some other part of the meal.

Often a child who needs more starch in the diet will gladly eat a banana, when he will refuse other foods with similar values.

SMOTHERED CHICKEN, NOODLES AND GRAVY

This Is One of the Best Combination Chicken Dishes There Is.

Smothered chicken served with noodles and rich chicken gravy is a good enough dish to set before that traditional king we have heard so much about.

This is the way the dish is prepared by old-fashioned Southern cooks:

Chicken which is old enough for smothering needs long, slow cooking. The meat does not become dry with slow cooking if the pan is kept supplied with a small amount of boiling water from time to time and the roaster is well covered.

Buy a hen. These have more fat on them, and when chicken fat is used the flavor is better. Cut the chicken as for serving. Cut away the excess fat and heat it with about one teaspoon of finely chopped onion. Then roll each piece in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Lightly brown the pieces in the melted fat.

Place in a roaster and add the fat and about a half cup of boiling water. Cover well and cook about three hours for a six-pound hen at a low temperature. As the water evaporates, there should be a small amount of boiling water added. Never have the water come up around the chicken or the nice brown coating will loosen from the chicken.

When the fowl is thoroughly tender, remove the top of the roaster to again make the brown coating firm. Remove the chicken from the fire and place it in the warming oven.

Add three or four cups of boiling water to the liquor in the pan. Place the pan over the open flame and cover. When the liquor comes to the boiling point, add two cups of noodles. Cook 15 minutes in a covered kettle, allowing a little space for the steam to escape.

Smother the noodles around the tender chicken.

There will be sufficient liquor after the noodles are removed to thicken for gravy.

Summer Cocktail.

Any combination of fruits and their juices will make up cocktail. Garnish with maraschino cherries.

Bacon Meat Loaf.

One-fourth pound bacon, one-half pound lean veal, one-half pound lean beef, six slices bacon, one green pepper, two eggs, one cup milk, one cup bread crumbs. Grind the meat. Mix with chopped green pepper, eggs, milk and bread crumbs. Line a baking pan or casserole with strips of bacon. Fill with the meat mixture. Lay strips of bacon over the top. Bake in a 400-degree oven for 45 minutes. Turn upside down on a large platter and garnish with vegetables or mashed potatoes.

Coffee flavor which has established itself as an appealing seasoning for cakes, puddings and gelatin desserts gives a distinctive touch to these sweets. An example of this is this coffee cream: Add three tablespoons coffee to one-third cup milk and scald. Let stand 10 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth. Chill. Beat one cup cream until stiff, adding two tablespoons sifted powdered sugar and a chilled coffee mixture gradually. Mix well and flavor with one-fourth teaspoon vanilla. Gingerbread.

FRUIT APPETIZERS FOR SUMMER SERVICE

A Hors d'Ouvres Plate May Be Carried Out Attractively With Fruits.

Fruit appetizers may take the form of canapés, cocktails, fruit cups or appetizer salads. Or the now popular service of hors d'ouvres is followed out attractively with fruits.

For fruits given, other fruits may be substituted in season, as pears, peaches, persimmons, berries, fresh pineapple, etc. Serve very cold on bed of shredded lettuce.

Orange Sections—Remove all membrane from orange sections. If desired, roll in toasted coconut.

Orange Slices—Cut slices of peeled oranges with scissors on each place where sections join, spreading sections apart flower fashion. Center with a pat of mayonnaise and slices of stuffed olive.

Berries or Apricot Halves: Roll in chopped mint.

Pineapple Sections: Roll in chopped nuts.

Banana Sections: Marinate in lemon juice. Decorate with a star of whipped cream from pastry tube and garnish with red jelly rubettes.

Dates and Prunes: Remove stones. Stuff with cream cheese and ground nuts, moistened with lemon juice.

Lemon Baskets: Make from lemon rind and fill with salted nuts or candied orange peel.

If preferred, an individual fruit hors d'ouvres plate may be prepared for each service. A special decorative motif is often carried out with these, when they are known as buffet russe. For instance, make a star of orange sections. Place cantaloupe balls, rolled in fine coconut between star points. Center with cherry.

Watercress Sandwiches.
Finely chop tender young cress. Mix with creamed cheese or freshly grated cheese. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Spread on thinly sliced graham or white bread, roll as jelly roll and secure in place with toothpicks. Wrap in damp towel until serving time. Remove toothpicks before serving.

Kraft-Phenix Menu-ettes

QUICK TURNS TO DISTINCTIVE MENUS.....BY MARYE DAHNKE

NEW LOW PRICES
All 1/2 lb. packages of Kraft Cheese and Velveeta are now being sold by grocers everywhere at new low prices.

It has the true Swiss flavor

Here we are in the picnic season... and that means we cooks must have lots of quick picnic supper ideas in our heads, doesn't it? One of the best ideas you can have is cheese. Kraft-Phenix Cheese, of course, for that means you have an infinite variety of fine cheeses to choose from. Here are a few tips on what you can do with the cool, smooth cream cheeses that spread, and the golden cheeses that melt and toast so deliciously. But don't save these dishes just for picnics. They're as tempting at your own table as around the camp fire.

Velveeta with baked beans!

Here's just the dish for those times when you want to unpack the basket and begin to eat the minute you settle on a picnic spot. Rich brown baked beans flavored with that tempting Kraft Velveeta! About 10 minutes before the beans are ready to come out of the oven, add one half package of Velveeta, sliced. Heat just until the Velveeta has melted. This wonderful cheese food melts and slices and spreads. Try it for sandwiches, too.

Take along some sliced Swiss Cheese

For the buns you toast over the fire... good generous slices of Kraft Swiss Cheese with boiled ham or any left over meat you happen to have in the house. Kraft Swiss is the cheese with the nut-sweet, truly Swiss flavor. And it's even more tempting toasted! But don't wait for picnics to make Swiss sandwiches. You'll like them toasted under the broiler flame at home, too.

Try this in your potato salad

There are potato salads and potato salads, aren't there? Here's one that rivals sunsets and country air for picnickers' praise. To Kraft Mayonnaise add three or four tablespoons of Kraft Kay, and dress potato salad generously with the mixture. Put it in a bowl for picnics, or serve it in lettuce cups for porch parties. Kay is snappy with chopped olives and pickles, and gives the salad just the pep it needs.

Keep this Cream Cheese handy for sandwiches

When you're taking just a quick little jaunt out into the country, there's nothing any handier to eat... nor any more delicious to eat... than "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese sandwiches. Thin the cheese with a little milk and mix with chopped nuts, dates, or most any fruit you happen to have in the house. Its delicate flavor is perfect with jams and jellies, too. Always keep several packages of "Philadelphia" Brand in the ice box for hurry up picnics.

Free—a recipe book

We have a booklet of Kraft Cheese recipes with detachable leaves to fit your filing cabinet. It's yours—free! Write to me at The Home Economics Kitchen, Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation, Dept. N., 400 Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Here's another easy and delicious picnic salad

You can use left overs in this salad. Mix together 2 cups of cooked, diced tongue or ham, 1 cup of cooked peas, and 1 cup chopped celery. Season with salt, pepper, and a dash of Worcestershire Sauce, and dress generously with Kraft Kitchen Fresh Mayonnaise. Put in a lettuce lined salad bowl and garnish the top with paprika and quartered hard cooked eggs.

Kraft Mayonnaise is more than just another salad dressing. It has a freshness... a tongue-teasing flavor... for it comes to you newly blended. Every week Kraft Mayonnaise and Kraft French Dressing are rushed to your grocer straight from the spotless Kraft kitchens.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

These Directions Are for Foods Which Will Help Provide Tempting Meals.

The large orange crop this year has put good quality medium-sized oranges in abundance on the market at a reasonable cost. Now is a good time to take advantage of this and serve this health giving fruit in a number of ways. Orange and celery salad is one good way, especially for dinner salad. Peel small, firm oranges, removing all the white skin, and cut lengthwise into thick slices. Cut these into dice and mix with an equal amount diced, crisp celery. Add mayonnaise to mix and serve in nests of shredded lettuce.

Crab Salad.
Crab salad is suggested for Sunday night and it may be made of fresh cooked crabs, or of the canned meat, whichever is most convenient.

One-half pound will make salad for four to six people, depending on the amount of other ingredients used. These are celery, hard boiled egg and mayonnaise. Equal parts of celery and fish with one or two chopped hard-boiled eggs give the best proportions. Use lemon juice for flavoring with the mayonnaise.

Savory Poached Eggs.
Put a can of tomato soup in a shallow wide bottomed saucepan and add one-half cup hot water, a slice of onion and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Heat to the boiling point. Break six eggs and slip one at a time into the boiling sauce. Reduce the heat at once so that the sauce remains below the boiling point. Cover the pan and cook from three to five minutes, depending on the firmness desired in the eggs. Have ready six rounds of buttered toast, lift an egg to each one, and pour the sauce over and around them. To make a heartier dish, spread each round of toast with deviled ham, or arrange a slice of cooked ham on each round before adding the egg. Have the plates hot and serve as soon as possible.

Honey Buns.
Mix and sift two and one-half cups flour with one-half teaspoon salt, five teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons sugar and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Rub in one-half cup shortening and when well blended, add one beaten egg and about one-half cup milk, or enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on a floured board and roll lightly to a scant four-inch thickness. Spread with a layer of strained honey and sprinkle thickly with chopped pecan nuts or walnuts, and one-half cup chopped raisins. Roll up like a jelly roll, and cut down in slices half an inch thick.

Grease muffin pans and put a teaspoon of honey in the bottom of each one. Place a slice of the dough in each pan, cut side up. Let stand ten minutes, then bake a moderate oven for twenty minutes, or until delicately browned. If baked too fast the honey will burn. Turn the buns from the pan when done and let stand upside down, or with the sticky side up. Make nine to twelve buns, depending on size.

Steamed Fillets of Fish.
Use fillets of flounder, haddock or halibut, cut about three-quarters inch thick. Season each fillet with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice and wrap each in buttered paper or in parchment paper. Place the fillets in a colander or steamer and cook over boiling water for 30 minutes. Turn carefully out on a hot platter and serve with parsley, egg or mushroom sauce.

Pineapple Cream Pie.
Drain chopped pineapple and add one cupful to two cups thick boiled custard. Chill, pour into a baked pie shell and spread with a layer of sweetened whipped cream. For the custard mix one-half cup sugar with three tablespoons cornstarch; add two eggs and beat well; then add gradually two cups scalded milk. Pour into a saucepan and stir over a slow fire until thickened, smooth and just boiling. Remove at once from the fire, add one teaspoon vanilla extract and the drained pineapple.

Creamed Onions.
Boil spring onions whole and serve on toast with cream sauce. They have a delicate flavor that is delicious. Trim off the ends and the roots, tie together in bundles of six and cook in a shallow pan of boiling water for 10 to 15 minutes. Drain, arrange each bundle on toast and pour cream sauce over them just before serving.

SOFT MOLASSES COOKIES

An Economical Type of a Wholesome Small Cake.

Work one cup of shortening until very soft and creamy. Add gradually one cup of sugar and when well blended beat in one egg. Then add to the mixture one cup of molasses, one tablespoon of vinegar and five tablespoons of cold coffee or water.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients including three cups of flour, one-half teaspoon of baking powder, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of cloves or allspice, one teaspoon of soda and one teaspoon of ginger. Combine with the first mixture. This will make a soft dough.

Drop from a teaspoon on a greased pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for about 15 minutes.

BEEF STEAK IDEAL FOR FAMILY DINNER

Technique of Steak Cookery Varies According to the Cut of Beef Selected.

No matter how hot or how cold the weather is—no matter whether the thermometer hovers around zero or sizzles around 95 degrees, there is one dish which is always popular with men and that is beef steak.

Right now on a rare June day, give the average man a broiled steak, sliced tomatoes, French fried potatoes and fruit pie a la mode and he will be as happy and satisfied as a kitten with a saucer of cream.

There are many and various beef steak cuts—porterhouse, sirloin, T-bone, round, rump, tenderloin and flank being the favorite as well as the most popular.

The first requirement of a good steak lies in the selection of the meat. A choice cut should have bright red lean, fine-grained and somewhat marbled with fat, and the outside fat should be creamy white.

It must be remembered that much of the success or failure of a cooked meat lies in the method employed in cooking it.

Two very important facts regarding meat cookery should be carefully noted by every home maker who seeks to enhance the pleasures of the family table.

First, that keeping in the valuable juices of tender cuts of meat (such as choice sirloin and porterhouse steaks) is accomplished by applying intense heat as in broiling or panbroiling.

Second, that softening the fibers of the less tender cuts of meat (such as round or rump steaks and flank) is the result of searing the outside of the piece of meat, then cooking slowly for a long period of time in the presence of moisture and flavorful condiments. Tomato ketchup, chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce, mustard sauce, beef steak sauce and horseradish, are invaluable aids in this type of meat preparation which includes broiling, stewing and braising.

Sometimes a steak comes to the table tough because it is not served promptly after it is cooked. A warm platter sprinkled with salt and pepper and dotted with butter should be ready and the steak should be served immediately. It is not well to season the steak before cooking because the salt tends to draw out the juices.

Broiled Steak.

A cut for broiling should be more than an inch thick. True broiled steak is cooked over red hot coals or in a broiler under gas flame or electric coils. The meat is placed near enough to the fire to sear a crust quickly, care being taken that it does not burn. As soon as one side is thoroughly seared the steak is turned between two knives or spatulas so as not to pierce the crust. The searing will probably take about 3 or 4 minutes to each side.

In order to cook the steak though, the heat is then reduced and the steak left in the broiling oven for a few minutes; depending upon the doneness desired. A steak at about an inch and a quarter thick is cooked rare at this stage in about 12 or 15 minutes.

Porterhouse, tenderloin, T-bone and sirloin cuts are generally broiled. Many cooks, however, panbroil them with success. This way of cooking a steak is really rying it in a red hot skillet which contains just enough butter, oil or drippings to keep the meat from burning.

Flank Steak.

Another popular meat dish is mock duck which is made with a flank steak. Pound all the flour into it that it will hold. This can be done with the edge of a saucer. Sprinkle it with salt and pepper and fill with dressing, then roll and tie up with white string. Brown in a small amount of fat in a hot oven or on top of the stove. Add enough water to cover the bottom of the pan and bake in the oven to two hours until it is very tender.

Dressing for Mock Duck.

Melt two tablespoons butter or butter substitute and brown one finely chopped onion in it, add one cup of seasoned bread crumbs and moisten with hot water or stock until the mixture holds together.

Swiss steak calls for a two-inch cut from the upper round of beef. Pound flour into this (with the saucer) and sprinkle with salt. Brown in hot fat in a pan and then cover with just enough boiling water. Put a top on the pan and cook very slowly for one and a half to two hours or until tender. The stock may be thickened by adding two tablespoons flour which has been mixed until smooth with three tablespoons cold water. Reheat until thickened and serve.

Spanish steak uses a two-inch steak from the upper round. Brown the meat in a hot pan containing a little butter or drippings then cook covered about one and one-half hours in a slow oven until the meat is tender. In the meantime prepare a Spanish sauce from two cups canned or stewed fresh tomatoes, a sliced onion, one green pepper, chopped, a clove and a bit of garlic. Put two tablespoons fat in a pan and brown in it four tablespoons flour. Add the tomatoes and other vegetables and salt to suit the taste. Boil until the vegetables are reduced to a tasty sauce. Serve with the steak.

So They Tell Us.

As a result of investigations in nutrition, it has been proved that the best time to appease the natural human craving for sweet things is just after meals.

VEAL CROQUETTES

This Type of Dish Considered Ideal for Summer Service.

Finely chop cooked veal to make one and one-half cups. Melt four tablespoons fat, add five tablespoons flour and when well blended stir in one and one-fourth cups milk. Stir constantly until very thick and smooth. Remove from the fire, add the meat, one tablespoon minced parsley, one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind, one teaspoon salt, a little pepper, two teaspoons lemon juice and the beaten white of one egg. Mix well, turn out on a plate and let cool.

When cold enough to handle shape into eight oblong or round croquettes and roll each one in very fine dry bread crumbs. Beat the yolk of one egg with one tablespoon water. Roll each croquette next in the egg, then in bread crumbs again. Be sure that every bit of the croquette is covered with crumbs and egg or it will crack in cooking. Heat deep fat until it will brown a piece of bread in one-half minute. Fry the croquettes a golden brown in the hot fat, drain on soft paper and serve hot with a cream, savory or tomato sauce.

Thought for the Day.

No one should count the diet complete for this time of year without serving several green vegetables a day. A normal person can eat many green vegetables without cooking them, and in this way obtain all the true food value, but for children and those with delicate digestive system the vegetables need some cooking to soften the rough fiber.

A PECULIAR FOOD FACT

Honey, unlike many foods which decompose easily as a result of bacterial action, has a unique method of protecting itself from spoilage by literally drying the organisms to death.

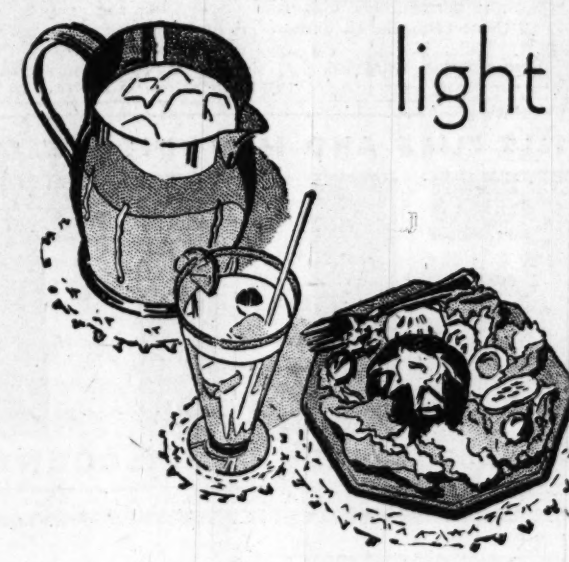

comes in contact with honey and this vital amount of moisture is withdrawn, the organism dies.

GOOSEBERRY SEASON WITH US ONCE MORE

Pungent Flavor of These Berries Endears Them to Many Persons.

Included in the list of early fruits are gooseberries, which make the most delectable pies, tarts, jelly and preserves.

A tempting pie is made with a bottom and top crust made according to the cook's favorite pastry recipe.

Remove the tops and stems and wash the gooseberries; fill the pie pan, which has been lined with pastry, with the berries. Sprinkle over the fruit a heaping cup of sugar, a little flour and a few bits of butter. Cover with a top crust and bake in a moderately hot oven.

Tarts or small individual pies may be made in the same way.

Gooseberry Sauce.

After stemming and washing the berries, put them on to cook in a saucepan with just sufficient water to keep the fruit from burning. When the hot fruit begins to draw its own juice, add sufficient sugar to suit the taste. As some gooseberries are less sour than others it is impossible to give the definite amount of sugar necessary. When the sugar is well dissolved and the berries begin to break their skins, the sauce may be removed from the fire and allowed to cool. Very tasty to serve with cold meat.

Gooseberry Jelly.

Wash and stem gooseberries. To every three quarts of berries use two quarts of water. Put berries and water in preserving kettle and cook until the fruit is soft enough to mash easily. Mash, strain and press pulp through a jelly bag. To every pint of juice add one pound sugar. Cook juice and sugar rapidly for 10 minutes, skimming well while boiling. Test to see whether product will jelly. When jelled remove from fire, turn into glasses and when cold seal with paraffine.

English Gooseberry Compote.

This old recipe calls for five pounds of loaf sugar to one quart of red currant juice. Extract the currant juice by mashing fruit and straining the juice through a jelly bag. Put fruit juice and sugar on the fire and when the sugar is dissolved put in eight pounds of ripe gooseberries which have been stemmed and washed. Let product boil one-half hour. Then remove from fire and allow to cool overnight. Next day boil again until the berries look clear. Remove from fire and allow to stand for several days so that the fruit may dry off a little. Put in glass jars and cover with paraffine. This product is delicious served with plain or whipped cream for a light dessert.

Prune-Bacon Tidbit.

To make a different appetizer, cook large prunes slowly for a half-hour, stone and wrap each prune in a strip of bacon. Fasten with a toothpick and broil carefully until bacon is cooked. Serve hot.

SUNFLOWER SALAD IS MADE WITH PRUNES AND ORANGES

Symbolic Appearance of Foods Adds to Interest and Pleasure of Guests.

Notwithstanding the fresh fruit in market, prunes continue to be demanded by home cooks who value the product on account of its wholesome qualities.

Prunes are particularly nice for salads as these recipes will demonstrate.

Prune Salad Surprise.

Wash, stem and pit prunes. Fill cavities with cream cheese and chopped nut meats.

Make lemon or lime gelatin in individual moulds and when it has begun to set, slip one of the large stuffed prunes into the center of each mould. Chill until firm and serve on bed of lettuce with mayonnaise or other salad dressing.

Peel and separate the sections of four medium size oranges. Marinate in French fruit salad dressing in a glass bowl and place on ice. Remove pits from two dozen large prunes and soak for two hours in orange juice. Stuff the prunes with walnut or almond meats. Arrange the prunes in the center of the salad plate on a chilled lettuce leaf with the sections of orange around them. (This salad if properly arranged looks like a sunflower in full bloom).

Raw Vegetable Salads.

Chopped cabbage, carrots, and chopped peanuts are good—or the cabbage alone, or, peppers and peas and carrots. Again, equal parts of grated carrots, grated pineapple and coconut.

SATISFACTION VS PRICE!

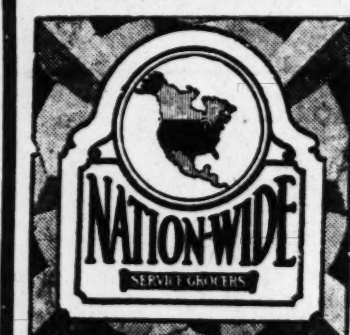

We all want to economize, but why risk satisfaction when the best quality pure barley malt costs only a few cents more. Join the throng of satisfied users and try Mound City next time. Don't forget that the labels are valuable. Send for premium catalog.

Here are 3 good reasons why Krispy is a better tasting cracker:

1. Greater flakiness... You can actually see the hundreds of tiny, tender flakes

2. Gloriously dimpled and browned... This thorough baking makes them easy to digest

3. Always oven-crisp in the wax-wrapped package

Salted... just enough!

Sunshine KRISPY CRACKERS

FROM THE THOUSAND WINDOW BAKERIES of Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co.

MAKE Strawberry Jam IN 12 MINUTES!

Follow this amazing short-boil way that reduces actual boiling time to one minute. Saves 2½¢ on every glass you make. Gives better tasting jam. Plenty of good fruit now on the market.

STRAWBERRY JAM... delicious tasting, flavorful strawberry jam... made in less than 12 minutes! This is the season to make it.

Impossible as it seems, any woman can accomplish this now—no matter how limited her jam-making experience may have been. Certo and the Certo recipes make this magic possible!

With Certo, you see, only one minute's boiling is required. A few minutes to bring to a boil, add Certo, boil one minute... and your jam is done. In 12 minutes it is child's play to have it cooling in the window.

Because of the one-minute boil no fruit juice boils away! As a result you usually get half again more glasses from the same amount of fruit. Often you save 2½¢ on every glass.

And Certo eliminates the chance of costly failures. If you follow directions, your jam will have a fuller flavor and a daintier texture than you've ever known before.

Put up strawberry jam. Put up strawberry jelly, too. With Certo it is easy.

Certo is a pure fruit product—a concentrated fruit pectin. And pectin, you know, is the substance in fruits which makes jelly "jell." Certo is a product of General Foods Corporation. At all grocers.

Under the Certo label you will find 93 recipes. Each has been carefully worked out for use with Certo. Please remember that in making jam and jelly every fruit is different. No one recipe can be made to fit them all. That is why we developed definite scientific recipes for each fruit. These 93 recipes are your absolute guarantee of perfect jams and jellies with any fruit you care to use.

IT'S STRAWBERRY JAM TIME

Mrs. B. G. Fearnow, winner of 12 prizes, including 8 firsts at the 1930 Virginia State Fair, never took a prize with her jams and jellies until last year. "I used Certo for the first time last year. It made me a State Fair Winner!"

PLANNING MEALS FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

Consider Steaks, Seafoods, Fruits and Vegetables in This Week's Marketing.

June, somehow, always seems one of the nicest months of the year for meal planning—as well as for other things—as it always provides such tempting array of foods.

Strawberries are generally at their best, the first cantaloupe of the season begin to make their appearance, along with red raspberries, black and red cherries, blackberries and the very earliest of the peach crop. Not to mention the ever increasing varieties of summer vegetables—plenty of peas, early squash, green beans, lima beans, chard, spinach, tiny beets, asparagus, tomatoes, etc.

Without being unduly extravagant the housewife can plan a goodly variety of attractive foods with the least effort. Let her watch market prices and take advantage of any drop in prices. In cooking summer vegetables, use simple methods in order to enjoy their flavor to the utmost.

Oysters are out of season but crabs are in, also lobster, and clams in several varieties. Other sea food, especially fresh salmon, trout, mackerel, flounder and many local varieties of fish, are plentiful and should be used rather freely. Remember that fish contains relatively large amounts of iodine which gives it special value as a food, and in addition to other minerals, it is also rich in protein and when properly cooked, is readily digested.

This week a roast of veal with lemon stuffing is suggested for Sunday dinner, with the leftover combined with mushrooms to make a veal pot-pie for Monday night. A shoulder cut or a roast from the leg, rump, loin or breast may be used. In any case, have a pot-pie cut for stuffing, or in the shoulder or loin roast, have the bone removed. Make a stuffing from two cups stale bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt, a little pepper, one-fourth cup melted fat, one-half teaspoon poultry seasoning, one teaspoon minced onion, one beaten egg, the grated rind of one lemon and one-third cup lemon juice. Mix and then add enough hot water to moisten. Roast veal in a hot oven for the first 20 to 25 minutes, then reduce the heat to moderate or 350 degrees—and continue cooking, allowing 30 minutes to each pound. Baste frequently, and if the veal is very lean, rub the surface of the meat with three tablespoons cooking fat mixed with one tablespoon flour.

Rolls left over from Sunday breakfast may be split and served toasted with the salad in the evening. Save out some of the berries at breakfast time—about three-fourth cupful—and one-half cup crushed canned pineapple when making the pie for dinner. Use these with an orange in making the fruit gelatine.

Plan to serve steak several times. The final remnants of the veal are to be made into Tuesday's croquettes, or switch Wednesday's dinner to Tuesday, which will give a change in meat flavor. Many home cooks will undoubtedly find that they will often want to make such changes, for housekeeping arrangements differ in every case and no two or three people find it convenient to do exactly the same things. There may not even be a real for a third meal—if croquettes are not in favor, substitute chopped boiled ham, or a small can of cooked corn beef, or make rice and cheese or macaroni and cheese croquettes, as preferred.

This is the time of year when it pays to plan meals to suit the weather. For example, if the day be one of the warm, muggy ones that so often occur this time of year, plan to serve a dinner that has one hot dish and the rest cool, crisp or tangy foods. In the menus planned for this week, it will not be difficult to make such adjustments as may be necessary should the day be muggy or one of chilly rain—and June is apt to produce either.

PINEAPPLE JELLY

This Product Is a Nice Basis for Sweet Sandwich Fillings. Pineapples make a delicious jelly according to the short-boil method. Use three cups juice of fresh fruit, six and one-half cups sugar and one bottle commercial pectin.

Use only fully ripened fruit. Chop fine. To four cups chopped fruit, add one-fourth cup water. Stir until mixture boils, cover, and simmer five minutes. Drain through jelly bag. Measure juice and sugar into large saucepan, stir, and bring to a boil. At once add pectin, stirring constantly, and bring again to a full rolling boil and boil one-half minute.

Remove from fire, let stand one minute, skim, pour quickly. Cover hot jelly with film of hot paraffin; when jelly is cold, cover with one-eighth inch of hot paraffin. Roll glass to spread paraffin on sides. For a soft, very slow set use one-half less sugar. Requires about two medium pineapples. Makes about nine eight-ounce glasses.

Another Relish Plate.

Arrange a platter of assorted relishes as follows: In the center of the platter place several flowers of pickled cauliflower. Extending out from the center arrange stalks of chilled, well bleached celery filled with peanut butter and cream cheese. Between each stalk of celery near the cauliflower place a pickled apple, then a few olives and radish roses in each space. Border the entire outside of the plate with pecan halves marinated in French dressing and two halves put together with a filling of cream cheese.

FROZEN FRUIT DAINTIES FOR PARTY REFRESHMENTS

Wisdom Suggests Using the Fresh Fruits While They Are in Season.

In these days of specializing, the hostess who can present something new or different in the way of food, excites the jealousies of her guests.

Novelty can more often be achieved in the dessert. This strawberry Melba is one of the de luxe ways of serving plain vanilla ice cream.

Frozen pineapple will, excite a table of guests when it is presented to the hostess to serve. What is more, it is equally as delicious as it looks.

Strawberry Melba.
Plain vanilla ice cream can be transformed by treating it in this way: make a clear raspberry syrup from either fresh, preserved or canned fruit by cooking it down and straining, having added sugar in the case of the fresh or canned berries. Select very choice large strawberries and simmer for a few moments in the clear raspberry juice. Cool and pour several tablespoons over a serving of vanilla ice cream.

Frozen Pineapple.
Cut top from pineapple. Pare off bottom so that it will stand straight. Scoop out the pulp, shred and mix with the juice of three oranges; sweeten the mixture and allow to stand for one hour. Put in glass fruit jar and pack in ice and salt for two hours or freeze in the refrigerator tray.

When ready to serve turn frozen mixture into the prepared pineapple shell.

Place the pineapple on a fancy glass or silver plate or platter and surround its base with a garland of dainty sweet peas or pink roses and greenery.

Frozen Raspberries.
Mash one quart of either red or black raspberries, add one pint of powdered sugar, and the juice of two lemons. Let the fruit stand on the ice for two hours, then add one quart of chilled water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved and freeze slowly with three parts of ice to one of salt. Do not freeze too hard.

THREE GOOD SALADS FOR SUMMER MEALS

Each With a Different Dressing and a Different Salad Green.

While most persons may like salads they need variety in salad dressings and salad greens in order to really enthuse over them. A limp, indifferent looking lot of lettuce may possess just as big a load of vitamins and minerals as a daintily arranged plate of crisp lettuce, but it would be hard to convince most persons that it does. Since salads are such an important item in the diet list, it behooves the housewife to make them as appetizing and as attractive as possible, for people being contrary minded by nature, it takes more than the "they are so good for you" idea, to get salads eaten every day.

In small families there is often enough leftover vegetables on hand to make a wide variety of dressings or salad fillings. For instance, a few slices of cooked beets—literally a few—chopped and added to French dressing or mayonnaise with a little lemon juice and minced chives or parsley make a wonderful dressing for watercress. It takes no effort to see that two or three slices are put aside when beets are served for dinner.

Half a small orange, scooping out the pulp with a spoon, and mixing it with a tablespoon of thick mayonnaise, a teaspoon of top milk, the same of strained honey and two sliced strawberries makes a marvelous salad of plain crushed pineapple.

Tomato Salad.
Use one chilled firm tomato about a fourth-inch thick. This should make two good sized slices for each serving. Arrange these on small, crisp lettuce leaves on cold plates. Mix two tablespoons salad oil with two tablespoons malt or tarragon vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, a little paprika and one tablespoon minced chives. Mix all the ingredients together and beat with a fork until creamy. Pour over the tomatoes and sprinkle with chopped hard-boiled eggs. Serve cold. Do not put the dressing on the salad until just before serving as it tends to wilt the lettuce.

Cucumber Radish Salad.
Cucumbers and radishes with Chiffonade dressing is another good recipe. Choose a small, narrow cucumber that is a good green in color. Yellow cucumbers are too ripe for salads. Chill, peel and cut in pieces about one and one-half inches long. Any leftover cucumber should be wrapped in waxed paper and kept in the refrigerator for another meal. Cut the two pieces of cucumber down in thin slices, but have them joined to the bottom—in other words, do not slice them all the way through.

Cut two or three red radishes in thin slices and slip between each slice of cucumber. Place a piece of cucumber on crisp romaine on a cold plate and serve with the following dressing, poured over the salad at serving time. Mix one-fourth cup salad oil, one and one-half tablespoons chopped pimiento, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, one tablespoon chopped stuffed olives and two teaspoons chopped chives. Beat until creamy, add half a hard-boiled egg finely chopped and pour over the salad. This is especially good with a fish dinner.

Endive Fruit Salad.
The third recipe is for a fruit salad, using French endive as the green. One head of endive will make two servings of salad as a rule. Crisp it in cold water, separate into leaves and arrange the leaves in a circle on cold plates with the ends of the leaves to the outside of the plate. Place a chilled slice of pineapple on the endive. Mix two tablespoons mayonnaise with two teaspoons pineapple juice or top milk, one teaspoon powdered sugar or two teaspoons strained honey, the pulp of half an orange and three or four chopped strawberries. Fill the center of the pineapple with the dressing and place a little on each side. Garnish with a whole berry and serve cold. A good dessert salad, or a good one for a bridge or Sunday night supper.

Sauerkraut Club Sandwiches.
Toast bread, one side only. Butter the untoasted side. On bottom slice put slices of tomato, cover with mayonnaise, then with another slice of toast, untoasted side up. Cover this with a layer of raw sauerkraut and then mayonnaise. Cover with a slice of toast, toasted side up. Put a slice of tomato on top of each club sandwich, fasten on an olive with a toothpick. Serve cold.

Chives for Seasoning.
Chives belong to the onion family and are bought in clumps that look like pots of tall grass. They will keep growing for some time if put in a sunny window and kept watered. Just snip off what you want to use and chop them up for seasoning.

Cake Sandwiches.
Slice day-old cake in thin slices. Cut in attractive shapes with sandwich cutter and steam slightly. When cold spread with a berry jam or grape jelly and place two pieces together to form a sandwich. Spread the top with whipped cream and decorate with shredded almonds or red cherries.

MUSHROOM DISHES ARE REAL TREATS

How to Prepare the Fresh Article for the Table and Several Recipes.

In preparing fresh mushrooms for the table it is usually best to peel the caps. This does not mean removing the brown gills on the under side of the mushroom, but stripping the thin outer covering from the rounded top. Generally there is a little loose flap of skin, or peel, hanging in a fringe from the edge of the mushroom cap. This can be readily lifted up and pulled back. The peelings, and the stems made a delicious soup stock or may be chopped and added to sauces or gravies for flavorings.

Soup Stock.
To make soup stock put one-half cupful of peelings and stems in a saucepan with one-half cup coarse-chopped celery leaves, a slice of onion and two cups water. Cover and cook slowly for an hour. Strain and add to one and one-half cups thin cream sauce well seasoned with salt, pepper and butter, to make a cream of mushroom soup; or add to chicken, veal or beef stock for flavoring.

Sautéed Mushrooms and Bacon.
Cut the stems from three-fourths pound medium sized mushrooms and peel the caps. Scrape the stems and cut lengthwise in half. Melt three tablespoons butter in a shallow saucepan, add the mushroom caps and stems and cook for 8 to 10 minutes, stirring two or three times.

While the mushrooms are cooking fry one-half pound thin sliced bacon, drain and keep hot. Make four pieces of toast. Arrange the toast on hot plates, place the mushrooms on the toast and sprinkle with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice. Put the bacon around the mushrooms and serve very hot.

If liked make a milk gravy with two tablespoons of bacon fat mixed with two tablespoons flour and three-quarters cup milk, seasoned with pepper, a few drops Worcestershire sauce and one teaspoon lemon juice.

Mushroom Sauce.
One pound mushrooms, three-fourths cup pimiento, four tablespoons butter, three teaspoons chopped onion, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one and one-half tablespoons chopped parsley.

Stem the mushrooms and wipe the caps carefully and break into pieces; clean the stems and cut up. Sauté the mushrooms in the butter, adding, after a couple of minutes, the other ingredients and cook until tender.

Mushroom Pie.
Peel and trim mushrooms, sprinkle with pepper and salt and cook in butter until tender; boil potatoes, mash them, add salt, butter and milk. Line a buttered pie dish with the potatoes, put in the mushrooms and any juice that may have come from them. Cover with a very light crust or a top crust of the potatoes may be used and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Macaroni and Cheese.
Cook half package of macaroni in salted water until tender, drain and bleach in cold water. Dissolve one tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, add one tablespoon flour, gradually add one cup milk. When smooth add one-half cup or more finely cut cheese and cook until the cheese is melted. Season with salt and paprika and pour over macaroni in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with bread crumbs and brown in oven.

DOUMER'S RISE FROM PEASANT TO PRESIDENT

New Head of French Republic Has Career Somewhat Similar to Taft's.

(Copyright, 1931.)

PARIS, June 12.—A man with an American-like rise to fame became president of France tomorrow.

Paul Doumer, who triumphed over the world-famous Aristide Briand in the election a month ago, is the son of a railway section boss. His mother was widowed when he was a boy, and at the age of 14 he left school to bolster the family income.

He worked unremittingly, and he was according to the stern precepts of the peasantry from which he came. There was no time for foibles and, today, loaded with honors at the age of 74, he remains the simple and earnest peasant in his private life.

According to the stern precepts of the peasantry from which he came, there was no time for foibles and, today, loaded with honors at the age of 74, he remains the simple and earnest peasant in his private life.

Each had long experience as a colonial governor, Doumer in Indo-China, Taft in the Philippines. Each was a lawyer, although Doumer practiced infrequently.

Lacks Taft's Sense of Humor. But between the American and the Frenchman there is one great difference. Taft's sense of humor is the theme of countless stories. There is no such string of pleasantries about Doumer.

The man who will be the thirteenth president of the third French republic earned his first fame as an engraver's apprentice. He won a degree of bachelor of science at night school and settled down as a teacher in a country high school. He married early and from eight children.

From pedagogics he went to country journalism, and from journalism to politics. Elected to Parliament, he displayed too much strength to please his party superiors, and he was offered the post in Indo-China that he might be safely buried and forgotten. He took the job—but not the oblivion.

On his return to France he lowered more than ever. By 1906 he was president of the chamber of Deputies and of sufficient stature to match himself against Armand Fallieres for the presidency of the nation.

Four Sons Lost in War. Failing of election, he dropped out of the public eye for years. But he started his comeback by taking the post of Minister of Finance in a Briand Cabinet. He also had a portfolio in the Briand Ministry four years later.

Doumer was elected President of France from the Senate, succeeding to the post in 1924. Although the post is not on a par with the premiership so far as political power is concerned, its incumbent takes precedence at all ceremonial functions. It is in honor as the crowning honor of the nation's political life.

In addition to his own record, Doumer had two claims to the presidency. It was according to a fairly well established precedent that the Senate's president succeeds to the post and there were his four sons, killed in the war.

PANTAGES CLOSING DEFENSE IN HIS 'GIRL MARKET' TRIAL

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 12.—Alexander Pantagos, wealthy theater man, moved to complete his defense in the "girl market" case today. His co-defendant, Jesse H. Shreve, wealthy real estate operator, whose witnesses will follow those of Pantagos, was summoned before the grand jury for questioning about an alleged plot to obtain false testimony in his behalf.

Defense motions to dismiss the charges of conspiracy to contribute to the delinquency of a minor, Lela Nitto, having been denied, Pantagos sought to prove the girl was of age. She testified she was 17 years old, but admitted having made an affidavit a year ago that she was 22 to obtain employment.

SOFTENED COMMUNISM IN GEN. SANDINO'S AIM

Nicaraguan Insurgent Leader Says Russian Brand Is Too Violent.

(Copyright, 1931.)

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 12.—A "softened" communism is the aim of Gen. Augusto Sandino, says Ramon Mella Sanz, a Spanish explorer who has returned here after a three weeks' stay at the mountain headquarters of the Nicaraguan insurgent.

Mella Sanz fell into the hands of Sandinistas while he was making his way through Nicaragua on foot as part of a walking journey from New York to Buenos Aires.

Escorted to the headquarters of the commander, he was received as a guest and had opportunity to learn much of the methods and objects of the Sandinista campaign.

"The Russian brand of communism is not to my taste," Sandino told him. "It is much too agitated. I want a quiet Spanish communism, softened and made orderly."

The Molla Sanz travel book, "The Russian Brand of Communism," wrote Sandino, who had hallo the explorer as a brother and kindred spirit and added: "Spain and Spanish America will yet commune the world."

Sandinista's Personal Seal. This he signed and sealed with his personal seal, the device of a Sandinista holding an American by the hair and cutting off his captive's head.

In the territory under his control Sandino is practicing the softened communism which he preaches to the mountain folk. The land belongs to the native and every man must help his fellow.

Molla Sanz said the Sandino forces numbered 4000 and were well equipped with rifles, machine guns, some bomb throwers, a few small cannons and three anti-aircraft guns.

They have plenty of river craft and maintain a line of communications from the headquarters in the Segovia Mountains to the mouth of the Coco River on the Atlantic coast.

It was by this route the visitor was escorted back to civilization. The party went overland to Bocay, then down the Bocay and Coco Rivers to Cabo Gracias a Dios.

Rebels Fight for Salt. Salt is the great lack of the Sandino commissaries. Raids on towns generally yield other food supplies, but salt has been so scarce that several fights have taken place just with the object of getting some.

Sandinista himself was described as in good health. He denied he had ever been wounded in the leg, as had been reported. In fact, Molla Sanz said, the General seldom leads his men into battle, leaving that task to his sub-commanders.

Sandinista related he had planned a big attack upon Managua, capital of Nicaragua, but gave up the scheme when the earthquake laid the city in ruins. Instead he turned his attention to the east coast, raiding Puerto Cabezas and Pabo Pradilla a Dios in April.

Sandinista said he would keep the fight even after the American marines were out of his country. He will seek to overthrow President Moncada and establish a national government based on his modified communism.

PUPILS' SAVINGS $291,700.17

Boys and girls attending the St. Louis public schools have saved $291,700.17 since the system of school savings was established by the Board of Education 18 months ago, in December, 1929. Interest credited at 3 per cent per year has swelled the accounts to more than $300,000. The number of individual deposits, ranging from a few cents to a number of dollars each, made since the system was inaugurated exceeds 1,135,000.

Superintendent of instruction George said the accumulation of money is a by-product of the system, the main objective being inculcation of habits of thrift and money management.

YOUNG CANNON GOES FREE

Conviction for Violation of California Wage Law Is Reversed.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 12.—The Appellate Department of the Supreme Court has reversed the conviction of Richard M. Cannon, son of the late James C. Cannon, of a charge of violation of the State wage law. The case, tried in a Justice of the Peace Court at Pasadena in February, involved a wage claim of $53.39 by a teacher of the Elmonte Military Academy.

The Appellate Department said the elements of the alleged offense were not sufficiently proved.

Catches Thieves, Recovers Car. (William H. Schirm, 4550 Holly avenue, saw his automobile, which had been stolen from his garage Wednesday night, as he rode in another machine yesterday at Thekla and Durant avenues. It was occupied by two boys. Two were caught after the machine had been driven against a concrete sewer outlet as they tried to escape. The boys, who were taken to the House of Detention, admitted taking the automobile from the garage.)

RAILROAD SHARES AIDS STOCK LIST

Market Closes Moderately Higher After Reactionary Tendencies During the Earlier Hours Had Encountered a Contraction of Volume.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Railroads again came to the rescue of a lagging stock market today and prices closed with moderate net gains after reactionary tendencies during the earlier hours had encountered a contraction of volume.

Carrier stocks sold off 1 to 2 points after the opening and industrial issues likewise looked rather heavy, but by afternoon a better tone had developed all around, and the market was buoyed up by a heavy volume of trading, easily recovering their losses and moving 1 to 5 above the previous close. Other sections of the list improved sympathetically. The size of the turnover, only 1,500,000 shares, indicated the professional character of the market.

Rail Bonds Rally.
Railroad bonds rallied with stocks, but German obligations were down.

U. S. Steel dropped 2 points in the morning, rallied a point and closed with a small fractional rise. American Can, General Electric, American Tobacco, American and American Foreign were up from a fraction to about 2 points. Westinghouse lost 1.

Union Pacific's gain was nearly 6 points and Lehigh Valley climbed 5. Rock Island, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Atchafalpa and Southern Pacific were up 2 to 3.

Coppers turned heavy after the May statistics had been published, but recovered their declines of a point or so. Anaconda closed unchanged.

Foreign exchanges, with the exception of sterling which was steady, sagged. The German mark was heavy and there were small losses in most of the other continental rates. The Canadian dollar dipped to a new low of 104.5. Copper statistics unfavorable.

The May copper statistics bore out earlier estimates that the industry's situation remained unfavorable. The rise in both stocks and production and the decrease in shipments, combined with a particularly pleasant picture.

With brokers' loans down $49,000,000 in a rally week on the share market, much of the recent buying was attributed to repurchases here and there. Some buying was pressed over the size of the decline, for it had been hoped in many quarters that the cut in margin requirements would have an opposite effect. It would seem doubtful, however, that a reversal could come so soon, since there has been some doubt in the speculative mind as to whether the market really meant business in its abate.

Weakness of the German mark has carried it below the theoretical gold export point, but there is little expectation here that any metal will be shipped to this country.

The local money market was stagnant. Further business is likely over the tax period next week.

SOME SHARES HARD HIT ON THE GERMAN BOERSE

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, June 12.—The Boerse had a bad session today with both foreign and domestic investors deserting stocks and the market. United Steel and other industrials were specially hard hit, their quotations dropping to the lowest levels of the year. Declining 4 to 7 points over the previous day. There was a slight recovery after the Boerse closed.

There appears to be a shortage of dollar bank notes here as the Boerse Committee today decided to issue checks on New York which will be cashable in bank notes here within a fortnight.

Refined Copper Stocks Up

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Stocks of refined copper in North and South America increased 30,746 tons in May to a total of 336,677 short tons at the end of the month, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. The total compares with stocks of 354,295 tons at the end of March.

Production increased slightly last month to 102,695 tons, compared with 100,501 tons in April and 102,058 tons in March. Shipments during May were 71,947 tons, against 86,755 in April and 111,482 in March.

Copper at 8 Cents.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Weakness in the price of copper for domestic delivery developed during the day when sales were made at 8 cents a pound.

THE EMERSON ELECTRIC MFG. CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Preferred stock dividend $4.75 for the quarter ending June 30, 1931, of one dollar and seventy-five cents ($1.75) per share, payable July 1, 1931, to stockholders of record June 10, 1931.

TEMPLE DEDICATED AT LINCOLN SHRINE

Structure Shelters Cabin in Which President's Parents Were Wed.

By the Associated Press.
HARRDSBURG, Ky., June 12.—The nation joined Kentucky today in dedicating a temple sheltering a log cabin which was the scene 125 years ago today of the wedding of Tom Lincoln and Nancy Hanks.

This cabin has been preserved in a church-like edifice of brick and stone because in another cabin 40 miles west of here, at Hodgenville, there was born to this pair three years later a son, Abraham Lincoln, who became sixteenth President of the United States.

An address by Secretary of Labor Doak, representing President Hoover, and a dramatization of the wedding by the Stakecrafters of Transylvania College, Lexington, featured the dedicatory program carried on a coast-to-coast hookup by the National Broadcasting Co. Today was a public holiday in Kentucky by proclamation of Gov. Sarnpson, who presided at the dedication.

Virginia, as the birthplace of Lincoln's parents; Indiana, as the State in which he passed his boyhood, and Illinois, as the State that gave him to the presidency, had a part in the program. The flags of those states with the flag of Kentucky topped by the national emblem were raised over the temple, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "On the Banks of the Wabash," "Illinois" and "My Old Kentucky Home" were played by the University of Kentucky band.

Dedication of the temple came on the 157th anniversary of the founding of Harrodsburg, first permanent white settlement west of the Alleghenies. Stockaded Fort Harrod, where George Rogers Clark planned the conquest of the Northwest, provided a historic setting for the ceremonies.

The marriage temple designed from old Lulburg Church is on one corner of Pioneer Memorial State Park, where are gathered relics of Kentucky's pioneer days. On another corner is the Pioneer Memorial Mansion, which was opened today as a museum of Colonial collections. The mansion also will have a room set aside for Lincoln pictures and another room for a Lincoln library.

Mrs. Edmund Burke Ball, Muncie, Ind., who gave the temple in memory of her parents, was unable to attend the ceremonies, but Mrs. Doak took her place on the program.

The log cabin church in which Lincoln's parents were married, once stood on Lulburg Creek, so named by pioneers who were reading "Gulliver's Travels" when the section was settled.

REAPPORTIONMENT MEASURE PASSED BY ILLINOIS HOUSE

Bill Cuts Congressional Representation of State Outside Chicago; Favorable Action by Senate Likely.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 12.—The Republican congressional reapportionment measure is on its way to the Senate, following its passage by the House yesterday by a vote of 79 to 66. Little trouble in passing it through the Senate is anticipated as the Republicans have 53 members to 18 Democrats.

The vote in the House was largely on party lines. Four Republicans voted against the bill—John Auker, Savannah; Ole Benson, Ottawa; Harry McCaskrin, Rock Island; and R. G. Soderstrom, Streator. Two Democrats voted for it—John M. Bolton and L. C. O'Brien, Chicago.

Gov. Emmerson issued a statement saying: "To the Republican members of the House of Representatives I extend congratulations for the victory achieved by them in passing the bill providing for congressional reapportionment.

"The fairness of the reapportionment outlined in the bill cannot be questioned. Enactment of the measure into law would give Illinois its first congressional reapportionment in 30 years."

Under the bill the down-State section loses two Congressmen.

The Congressmen at large are eliminated.

Madison and St. Clair Counties form the Twenty-fourth District under the bill. Bond County is put in the Twenty-third. Monroe, Clinton and Washington Counties are put in the Twenty-seventh District with Randolph, Perry, Franklin, Williamson, Jackson, Union, Pulaski and Alexander.

THOMAS E. PRICE WILL FILE

The will of Thomas E. Price, a veteran grain commission merchant, who died Monday, was filed in Probate Court today.

His will, made May 26, bequeathed his property to his wife, Thomas E. Price, and two daughters, Mrs. Leslie Nulsen and Mrs. Virginia Brock, naming a son-in-law, Fred E. Nulsen, as executor. It directed that Albert J. Stack be selected as attorney for the estate. No estimate of the value of the estate was made. Mr. Price lived at 26 North Kingshighway.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Marie Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

DEAR MRS. CARR: Now that the smoke of battle has cleared I want to reply to the many who answered my letter signed "Hatem." This will conclude the matter so far as I am concerned. First, several of the letters should be entirely discredited because of youth, and therefore lack of experience enough either to praise or condemn. I am 27 and speak, not only from my own experience and that of friends, but also from years of careful observation, studying types and characters.

Despite the fact that most of the correspondents disagreed with me, I wonder if some of the replies were not so sympathetic because "truth hurts" (?) To better inform the critics—even my friends of the opposite sex would contradict the charges made: i. e. "ego," "superiority complex" (so very much mistaken) and the frequenting of "jazz-mad" places. I do not encourage girls smoking; neither do I condemn those who smoke. I enjoy dancing, swimming, and all outdoor sports, and have witnessed the best of entertainment by shows and the opera for many years. (Yes, I go to church, too.) And still I must maintain as true the substance of my first letter. The impressions I hold are not of my arbitrary adoption. But were given by the girls themselves, so why to blame? I regret being unable to accept the invitations (or were they challenges?) to debate the question verbally, and see produced two girls with wings and halos for every gentleman; but I'd be willing to stand or fall on the verdict of the girls I have known in the past 10 years, those of whom I spoke. Dare my critics be as fair?

I. HATEM.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I recently received a "Graduation Poem" from my teacher wishing me best of luck. I would like to know if it is customary to answer such a wish or sentiment by merely thanking her or to write a little note of thanks. If so, how should the note be expressed or worded?

W. L.

If your talent runs to versification, you might answer this charming little expression of interest and friendship in verse and send it to her. But I rather imagine, if you are near her at all, that it would be better for you to see her and thank her warmly for remembering you.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am a young woman in my very early thirties, living alone in a tiny apartment, which I enjoy very much except that I don't feel just right about receiving men callers, or men on business, alone there. And I am asking you some questions concerning the proper thing to do.

Would you consider one-third, or slightly more, too great a part of my salary for a very nice efficiency apartment which boasts a nicely appointed parlor and electric elevator in a good neighborhood?

KAT.

I could not, on account of my length, print your letter verbatim. But I will try to answer the questions so that the answers may be plain to you or any others who may want to know.

I think very much depends upon your manner of conducting yourself at all times. You could just leave the door open when you have men callers, visitors or business men. After having been out and coming into the house late, I should bid my guest good-night at the door of the building or in the hall on the first floor. I think the gentleman might be a wise move. You could have a man caller there, if you have a living room. Of course noisy parties are taboo. If you are going out, let him call up to you and go down ready to step out. It is late, why not wait for him downstairs? Bid him good-night at the elevator.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I will wear a flowered chiffon dress, egg-shell background with a touch of black in the background. Can I wear a black handkerchief with long egg-shell gloves? What kind of clothes shall I take to Detroit in July? I have a pink silk jacket suit with long sleeves. Shall I cut them off?

DOROTHY H.

The hat would be all right. Black gloves would be smart for this season with such a frock. Take a knitted sports suit and silk or cotton mesh short sleeve frock, a crepe dress with light weight wool coat, a heavier coat, a pretty bathing suit, a chiffon afternoon dress, two chiffon dance frocks and a little velvet evening jacket. You can buy anything there that you could wear in case you need more. It will be warm in the city in summer, especially in the middle of the day.

A New Lease on Life

That's What Marie Moentmann Calls Her Venture Into Business.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

AT last, after 15 years, Marie Moentmann, the girl who lost both her hands while working in a bag factory, has found a means of earning a livelihood at an occupation within the limitations of her handicap. She has become a saleswoman, manager and nominal owner of an electrical refrigerator sales business at 5544 South Grand boulevard. She has been in business one month, so far has cleared expenses and declares she feels as if she has been given a new lease on life.

A personal friend, H. Hinrichs Jr., a contractor, is backing the venture to the extent of advancing capital for rent, equipment, overhead and whatever outlay had to be made for stock. He is doing this not only out of kindness of heart but because of confidence in the salesability of their article, his belief in Marie's ability and assurance that there is something she can do without hands other than the artificial ones in the use of which she has become proficient. The story of the little girl working at the Fulton bag factory whose arms were caught in the machinery and torn off, the right one above the elbow, the left one just below, aroused widespread interest and sympathy at the time, November, 1915. She was 15 years old, was earning $5.00 a week and for a year had been helping her father, who was a street cleaner, to support his large family. Sympathy took practical form when a committee of women was organized to raise funds for her immediate financial relief.

About $1500 poured into this fund. Very shortly a settlement of $21,000 was made by the bag company, $8000 of which was absorbed in lawyers', doctors' and hospital fees, the remaining $13,000 being placed in trust for Marie until she should become of age. Part of the $1500 was spent for a pair of artificial arms, the rest of this sum made available to the family at the rate of $10 a week.

PUBLIC agitation on her behalf abated with the knowledge that she had been provided with at least a competence, but many interested at the time will remember the case and wonder how she has made out through the years.

She tells me she has continued to live with her family and with her mother as her constant and devoted attendant, has managed to subside upon the interest of her small capital, that the principal is invested in bonds and never has been drawn upon. The Moentmanns' scale of living has improved somewhat as the children have grown up and become wage earners. They live in a better house at 8400 Michigan avenue, in the same block where they lived at the time of the accident, but there have been no indulgences in automobiles or other tempting luxuries.

I remember Marie during her first long stage in the hospital as a red-haired, high-spirited youngster, keenly sensible to what it meant to be deprived of the physical means of maintaining a grip in the world, but not yet ready to surrender her independence of spirit; appreciative of all the interest and kindness shown her but defiant of sympathy too openly expressed. She just would not be caught feeling sorry for herself.

There have been newspaper articles from time to time telling of how adept she had become in the use of artificial hands. She is proud of this accomplishment and likes to demonstrate it though never has she courted sympathy or publicity of the sob story type.

With a patient toll and indomitable determination she has learned to manipulate these clever attachments which are controlled by cords motivated chiefly by her shoulder muscles. A certain subtle twist of the shoulder bands or releases the elbow and certain other twists contract or straighten the fingers. Switch buttons at the wrist turn or bend these joints. The hands are covered with gloves which conceal their jointed construction and the cords extending to the shoulders are hidden beneath her blouse.

"I can do a lot of things around the house," she told me after explaining the intricacies of her mechanical hands. "I can push the vacuum cleaner about. I can sweep with a foot-controlled wringer. Of course, water must never touch the hands. They are made of fiber and water would warp them and get the cords out of adjustment. I can attend to most everything that needs to be done for myself, feed myself, dress myself. I can turn the pages of a book and can even play cards. I can pick up most anything and I go about alone. I have carried a suit case on a street car unattended. I can pick up the telephone. See," she said, demonstrating this act. She punched the keys of a typewriter, too, with a stick attached to a ring over her thumb.

"I have only to stop and think how involuntarily, subconsciously most times, we use our hands as the ready instruments of our brains to realize how it would slow us up to have to push a button or pull a cord to accomplish each least considered motion. However, with Marie it has to a certain extent become automatic and so rapidly and smoothly does she control their mechanism that really you have to look twice to perceive she is not blessed with the arms God gave her."

"Of course," she continued, "I cannot enter into competition at these feats with people in full possession of the use of their hands. That is why, though, I have cast about all these years in search of an occupation. I have come upon few jobs I could hold in competition with others. I had one job at the information desk in the Railway Exchange Building and I got along fine and loved the work. But the position was abolished with the installation of a bulletin board directory and I have not been able to discover another opening in that line of work."

"I took several courses at Washington University night school in English, literature, history and story telling. Once I hoped I might be able to become a professional story teller and I have used the knowledge I got of that work in teaching my Sunday school classes but I came to realize that gestures with the hands are so much a part of story telling, especially to children, that I saw it was hopeless."

She has kept on singing in the Evangelical church choir as she did before she was injured but never has gone further with the cultivation of a voice which her friends thought at first she might develop.

"No, I've never found anything I thought I could do as well as anybody else until now. But I believe I can."

I remember Marie during her first long stage in the hospital as a red-haired, high-spirited youngster, keenly sensible to what it meant to be deprived of the physical means of maintaining a grip in the world, but not yet ready to surrender her independence of spirit; appreciative of all the interest and kindness shown her but defiant of sympathy too openly expressed. lieve I can sell refrigerators," she exclaimed with enthusiasm, opening doors, pulling out ice trays, pointing out differences in the models with hands that seemed almost nimble so quickly did she move about. "Having to depend so much upon mechanical devices I have a great appreciation of mechanical perfection and these ice machines are just wonderful, the things they do and the way they control themselves."

"And then I love meeting people. That is what I liked about the information job. Other people's problems take my mind off my own."

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

Spider Flying

NOW John and Peggy watched the spider building more and more little silken balconies outside their homes to snare their prey.

The Clock turned the time ahead some more, although he still had the time turned back, and they saw some of the spiders making balconies.

The spiders stood outside their homes and spun threads which sailed up into the air, the spiders hanging on and taking little air trips.

It was another event in spider history and the children thought how clever the spiders were to do this before people were able to fly at all.

"They're bright little animals, aren't they?" the Little Black Clock asked.

"Animals!" corrected John. "They're insects!"

"Not really," said the Little Black Clock, "although they are usually called insects. As a matter of fact, they are really small animals without backbones but with jointed legs."

But now they watched some of the spiders spinning thread from one twig to another, fastening it to each spot as they spun along to another place. Then they used sticky threads for their balconies.

"I think they're just wonderful!" Peggy exclaimed.

"I suppose if I told anyone they were animals they'd laugh at me," John said.

"Well, they have many of the ways of insects, but they are not real insects," the Clock said.

But now they were back home and the Clock had jumped back to its place on the desk in the back hall while the children waved a good-night to him.

Successful Marriage

A GIFTED, magnetic and temperamental personality is Lawrence Tibbett, the opera and screen star. The woman who can hold such an artist, particularly against the feminine flattery and adulation which naturally come to him and keep him exuberantly happy must indeed have some special secret to disclose as to how she achieves her superlative success.

"It's been mostly perseverance," laughed Mrs. Tibbett, an attractive, vivacious woman, when she was asked about it. "The test of marriage is in being able to surmount the little things and not the big ones. Success in my own case came through the fact that I tried to see further than my nose, even though it is a long one," she twinkled.

"To be a successful wife, working on the premise that you say I am one, is largely a matter of not seeing, not hearing and not believing too much that one should not. Also of being able to have a sense of humor at the crucial moment, and to encourage, yes, even flatter your husband. I praise my husband very often and do it spontaneously and joyously. Artists especially need terrific and constant encouragement. Not because they are vain, but because they give out in such great proportions that they always need to be replenished."

"Another thing I do to make my husband happy is to keep his own particular quarters in the house so entirely his that he has the feeling and the sense of living by himself at times. This I consider most important. When there is too much intimacy and enforced companionship in marriage, it is bound to cause friction and irritation."

"I go willingly almost anywhere he wants to go, with the exception of prize fights. That is too much for me. I never mind discomfort or bad weather and am ready to join him, whether it is fishing, hunting or mountain climbing. I try to be healthy and not too feminine about pain. You have to be well and in good humor if you want your company to be enjoyed."

"I see it," she continued seriously, "married to an artist, a man of many moods and fancies, one of our chief virtues as wives is first our sincerity, which is the most valuable of all qualities to an artist who is fed constantly on the adulation of women."

"Our second virtue is our dependability, for an artist is always in need of a harbor, a place of safety and rest, where he can recuperate and replenish his powers of creativeness."

"Third and last, a wife is the buffer between him and the world."

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by Dr. J. J. Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Medical Terms

"HE thought flit mignon was the fish" is the delightful humorous caption of an advertisement which offers for a condensed course on culture.

This confusion in the meaning of terms is mild compared to the glowing errors which are made every day in the use of scientific terms.

The man who would be ashamed to admit that he didn't know what a carburetor is unblushingly uses serum when he means vaccine, and bacterium when he means microorganism.

There is more to knowing medical terms than escape from embarrassment.

To understand the significance of common technical expressions is a measure to appreciate the scientific facts behind them.

Consider, for example, the disease germs. These are frequently lumped together under the term bacilli or bacteria.

Many of the common disease germs are bacteria, that is, coiled living things belonging to the vegetable kingdom.

Other disease germs, on the other hand, are not bacteria but protozoa, that is, they are one-celled living things belonging to the animal kingdom.

In this latter group we find the germs of syphilis, malaria, and can sleeping sickness, etc.

The bacilli are rod-shaped germs causing typhoid fever, diphtheria and lockjaw.

Cocci, pronounced co-ki, are round or spherically shaped germs. The germs of pneumonia, producing germs belong to this group.

Worn woolen stockings may excellent polishing cloths.

Miss Amory smiled and nodded. "Yes—but I'm afraid—"

"You don't remember me?" asked Julie, disappointed.

"I do and I don't. Why?" Jean leaned forward, and her eyes searched Julie's face. "Of course, I know now. You're Julie Montmorency. But you have changed a good deal." Jean added slowly.

"I have heard you were here," Jean went on. "Mother and I are at the Haydens, and one of the Barrett girls told me about you."

She refrained from repeating the exact nature of that information, exact nature of which she had been told to seeing you again. It was stupid of me not to recognize you immediately."

Julie asked eagerly: "Let's slip away—they won't miss us." She caught a scornful glance about the crowded room. "I do want to stay to you. How long are you staying?"

"Until tomorrow morning," Julie, "now! We'll go for a ride in my car."

Jean rose and followed Julie out of the room. Perhaps their departure was discourteous, but now, Jean had discovered that French leave was not considered unpardonable. And there was something in Julie's face which made the other girl's heart ache. The Barrett twins had told her of Julie lightly enough.

"The best little sport—a knock-out for speed—and you should have seen her when she landed in town on regular backwoods. Sis Hopkins."

The two girls climbed into Julie's roadster and drove out of the Barrett estate into a heavily wooded road. On and up, and then, at the top of a hill, with a view of water and woods, Julie stopped the car.

"I've wanted to see you again," she said, turning to Jean.

"And I you—I wrote you when we heard through Mr. Morrow about your father."

"I never got the letter. I wish I had." Julie's face was sober.

"I felt as if I had lost a friend," Jean told her. "He was the finest man I have ever met. And so proud of you, Julie."

Julie felt sick with weariness and unhappiness. "He wouldn't be, now," she muttered.

Jean Amory looked at her with clear, thoughtful eyes.

"You have changed," she commented. "Oh, I don't mean your hair—or all the rest of it. But deeply, underneath."

Julie nodded. "Not at first," she said. "Look here, Jean, I've no one to talk to. Hildreth—you've heard how I came to be with her haven't you—well, she's good to me, she's fond of me—but I can't tell her things. You—you're like the answer to a prayer. I was a little crazy about you. I was a little jealous, even. And now meeting you again, brings it all back."

"What troubles you?" asked Jean slowly.

"Everything. I—I made myself over—or tried to. Because every one wished it. I was too strange. I didn't run with the pack when I first came down. I tried to hold on to all the standards Dad had set me, and I couldn't. There—"

Remember when the Scotch comedian sang of the joys of "Breakfast in Bed on Sunday Morning?"

A lot of St. Louisans agree with Sir Harry's idea of Sunday morning comfort. And they add to their enjoyment by having the Sunday Post-Dispatch delivered by carrier for reading during breakfast. It's much convenient to go to the door and pick up your paper than to make a trip to the newsstand, or wait for the boy from the corner store to deliver a copy.

You may arrange by telephone for carrier delivery of the Sunday Post-Dispatch at the regular price of 10 cents a copy. (Wouldn't Harry Lauder like that feature of this convenient service?)

Medical Terms

"H" is thought of as a "fish" in the delightful and humorous and psychological advertisement which offers a condensed course on culture. This is a mild comparison to the glowing errors which are made every day in the use of scientific terms.

The man who would be ashamed to admit that he didn't know what a carburetor is, unobtrusively says serum when he means vaccine, and bacterium when he means micro-organism.

There is more to knowing medical terms than escape from embarrassment. To understand the significance of common technical expressions is in a measure to appreciate the scientific facts behind them.

Consider, for example, the disease germs. These are frequently lumped together under the term bacilli or bacteria.

Many of the common disease germs are bacteria, that is, one-celled living things belonging to the vegetable kingdom.

Other disease germs, on the other hand, are not bacteria but protozoa, that is, they are one-celled living things belonging to the animal kingdom.

In this latter group we find the germs of syphilis, malaria, African sleeping sickness, etc.

The bacilli are rod-shaped germs, typical examples of which are the germs causing typhoid fever, diphtheria and lockjaw.

Cocci, pronounced co-ci, are round or spherically shaped germs. The germs of pneumonia, gonorrhea and the common pus-producing germs belong to this group.

Germs or micro-organisms are the terms that may correctly be applied to the collective groups of minute living things causing diseases.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE.

"Julie," caroled a Barrett twin over the telephone, "for Pete's sake come on over. I'm throwing an elegant cocktail party for some motoring guests of the Haydens. Step on the gas." Julie assented indifferently and went to tell Hildreth that she was off for the rest of the day. Hildreth nodded without enthusiasm. She was looking, it occurred to Julie, a little thin, almost haggard. "Run along," Hildreth bade her. "By the way, Julie, do you mind if we go up to town a little earlier than we'd planned? Jack is so busy and the commuting tires him—I'm tired, too. I could get between-season rest in the city before we go South."

"It's all right with me," Julie told her. But driving over to the Barretts, she found herself worrying over Hildreth. The older woman was so kind to her, had tried to become close to her. It was not her fault that she had failed. Immersed in her own concerns once more, Julie thought, Oh, if only I had a friend—a woman friend—real one—someone I could talk to, who wouldn't put me off with catch-words and wisecracks!

There was the usual milling, best-voiced crowd at the big Barretts house. Julie circulated about, pointedly bored, and listened to the comments and the idle gossip. One, standing with an innocuous youth whose only claim to distinction was three million unearned dollars she overheard two women she didn't know talking through their cigarette smoke.

"I hear Naida Trevor cancelled her passage."

"Oh, she's going—later. If you ask me, I'd say she was waiting for Bruce to return from the North. Perhaps she's persuaded him to go with her."

Julie turned abruptly and set down her glass. As she did so, she looked straight into the quiet, friendly eyes of a girl, somewhat older than herself, who was sitting not far off, and Julie after that first astonished glance went over to her, her hands outstretched. "It is Jean—Jean Amory—isn't it?" she asked.

"Miss Amory smiled and nodded. "You don't remember me?" asked Julie, disappointed.

"I do and I don't. Why?" Jean leaned forward, and her eyes searched Julie's face—"of course, I know now. You're Julie Montgomery. But you have changed a good deal," Jean added slowly.

"Julie sat down beside her, her face animated. This girl—whom she had once so admired and envied—this girl seemed somehow like a breath of Julie's own North Woods.

"I had heard you were here," Jean went on. "Mother and I are at the Haydens, and one of the Barretts girls told me about you." She refrained from repeating the exact nature of that information. And I have been looking forward to seeing you again. It was stupid of me not to recognize you immediately."

Julie asked eagerly: "Let's slip away—they won't miss us." She cast a scornful glance about the crowded room. "I do want to talk to you. How long are you staying?"

"Until tomorrow morning," Jean replied. "We'll go for a ride in our car."

Jean rose and followed Julie out of the room. Perhaps their departure was discourteous, but now-days Jean had discovered that French leave was not considered unpardonable. And there was something in Julie's eyes which made the other girl's heart ache. The Barretts twins had told her of Julie's light enough.

"The best little sport—a knockout for speed—and you should have seen her when she landed in town—a regular backwoods Sis Hopkins."

The two girls climbed into Julie's roadster and drove out of the Barretts estate into a heavily wooded road. On and up, and then, at the top of a hill, with a view of water and woods, Julie stopped the car.

"I've wanted to see you again," she said, turning to Jean.

"And I you—I wrote you when we passed through Mr. Morrow and your father."

"I never got the letter. I wish I had," Julie's face was somber. "I felt as if I had lost a friend."

Jean told her. "He was the finest man I have ever met. And so proud of you, Julie."

Julie felt sick with weariness and disappointment. "He wouldn't be," she muttered.

Jean rose and looked at her with thoughtful eyes.

"You have changed," she commented. "Oh, I don't mean your hair—or all the rest of it. But deeply underneath."

Julie nodded. "Nor at first," she said. "Look here, Jean, I've no one to talk to. Hildreth—you've heard how I came to be with her—she's fond of me—but I can't tell her things. You—you're like the answer to a prayer. Dad was crazy about you. I—I was a little jealous, even. And now meeting you again, brings it all back."

"What troubles you?" asked Jean slowly.

"Everything. I—I made myself over—or tried to. Because every one wished it. I was so strange; I didn't run with the pack when I first came down. I tried to hold on to all the standards Dad had set me, and I couldn't. There—

Chanticleer Capes

Evening Fashion

Chanticleer capes are a fashionable new season for the Paris night-time butterflies of the Champs Elysees. The capes are made of white coque feathers so closely padded on white satin that they make a solid feathery mass. They tie with a white velvet bow at the throat and are worn hanging loose to the waist.

Fresh Blouses.

Instead of putting the freshly laundered blouses into the drawer just any old way, place a sheet of tissue paper between each one. It will keep them fresh and uncrumpled much longer and look better when you go to wear them.

Harry Lauder Wrote a Song About It...

Remember when the Scotch comedian sang of the joys of "Breakfast in bed on Sunday morning?"

A lot of St. Louisans agree with Sir Harry's idea of Sunday morning comfort. And they add to their enjoyment by having the Sunday Post-Dispatch delivered by carrier for reading during breakfast. It's more convenient to go to the door and pick up your paper than to make a trip to the newsstand, or wait for the boy from the corner store to deliver a copy.

You may arrange by telephone for carrier delivery of the Sunday Post-Dispatch at the regular price of 10 cents a copy. (Wouldn't Harry Lauder like that feature of this convenient service?)

We have a special booth in the Toy Section, Fifth Floor, where full information regarding this unique Summer music course may be obtained, and where registrations will be accepted.

Boys and girls from five to twelve years old are eligible for the course.

The instruction will be given in groups in our Assembly Hall on the Ninth Floor, at 10 A. M. daily.

The instruction will be given by experienced teachers under the personal supervision of B. Ogle Burkitt, a recognized authority on Child Musical Training and Musical Talent Tests.

An enrollment fee of ninety cents will cover the cost of all material used during the course. There will be no other expense.

An Easy Decision.

Sometimes the kitchen and bed windows are almost the same size and there is but little difference in the lengths of the curtains—just enough to prove puzzling. If a tiny letter is embroidered on each one, such as "S" for side window and "B" for the back window, it will save much measuring and handling when replacing the laundered curtains.

RUNK BACK IN HIS OFFICE
AFTER SENATE ACQUITS HIM

In Two of the Nine Counts Majority Favors Conviction But Highest Ballot Is Four Short of Required
Two-thirds.

3 STEADILY ON TREASURER'S SIDE

Resume of Testimony Taken in Four Weeks of Impeachment Trial on Charges of Misconduct in Office and Conspiracy.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 12.—
State Treasurer Larry Brunk's impeachment trial, in progress before the State Senate for the last four weeks, ended late yesterday with a verdict of acquittal, but on two of the nine counts a majority of the Senators voted for a verdict of guilty.

Under the Constitution, a vote of two-thirds of the Senators elected, or 23, is necessary to sustain a conviction. Twelve Republican members and Senator Casey of Kansas City, a Democrat, 13 in all, acted as a solid body for his acquittal on all of the nine charges against him. Twelve votes for acquittal on any count was sufficient to prevent conviction.

The verdict automatically restores Brunk to office and he resumed his post as State Treasurer today.

There are 15 Republicans in the Senate and 19 Democrats. The 12
Republicans who voted for Brunk's acquittal on all charges were Senators Sedalia, Davis of Kansas City, Depelheuer of St. Louis, Harlin of Ozark County, Hildreth of Macon, Kelley of McDonald County, Morgan, the Republican floor leader, of Putnam County, Solte of St. Louis, Ralph of St.
Louis County, Rehkop of Johnson County, Terry of Jefferson County and Warner of St. Louis.

Titus, Republican, of Joplin, voted consistently with his party acquitting on all except one count, casting a vote for conviction on one sixth article, which merely charged that Brunk was guilty of gross negligence in the failure to compute properly the interest on State deposits.

Casey Consistent.
Casey of Kansas City was the only Democrat to vote with the Republicans for acquittal on all articles.

Buford of Reynolds County was rather closely lined up with the Republicans. He voted for conviction on more than one article, but on one article he was the only Senator voting for conviction, and on the other he was with a small minority.
So that in neither case was there any possibility of his action ending in conviction.

With the exception of Casey and Buford, the votes of Democratic Senators were fairly evenly divided between conviction and acquittal on the nine articles. The only two Republicans who voted for conviction on more than one article were Bates of St. Louis, who voted for conviction on four and acquittal on five, and Curfman of Maryville, who voted for conviction on six and acquittal on three.

It was on the sixth article, charging gross negligence, but not im-puting any criminal intent, that the heaviest vote for conviction was cast, 19 being for conviction and 15 for acquittal. Even on that article
